Appreciation Dinner Held

On Saturday evening an appreciation dinner was served at the Bittinger Fire Hall, to those who helped during the past year by raising funds, donating materials and labor and helping in many ways to support the fire company.

One hundred local members and guests were served a three course dinner by members of the fire department. There were guests from the Oakland, Deer Park, Accident and Deep Creek Lake fire companies.

Robert Shimer, supervising Fire Marshal of Western Maryland, was a guest, and spoke briefly. He pointed out that Ira Yaste had been chosen "Fireman of the Year" for two years in the Garrett, Allegany Firemen's Association and one year for the Garrett County Association. He gave high praise to Mr. Yaste and the leadership he has provided.

Reports were given by Catherine Bowser, treasurer of the Women's Auxiliary. She reported that the auxiliary had served 30 dinners last year, with a total number of 2,016 persons. They also helped with three chicken Barbeques and the annual community picnic. She also reported that during the year they had purchased four serving carts, covered the floor in the kitchen, purchased a new refrigerator, bought 12 new tables, 56 new chairs, new draperies for the windows and dishes for the kitchen. Over $3,000 were spent for these new improvements. Kenneth Buckel, treasurer for the fire department gave a report on the year's finances.

Fire Chief, Ira Yaste, served as Master of Ceremonies and introduced several of those present. Several plaques of appreciation were presented to those who had made outstanding contributions. Among the recipients were Mrs. Margie Brenneman and Mrs. Catherine Bowser, who have served on the foods committee, planning and preparing food since the fire company was first organized.

Newly elected members of both the auxiliary and the fire department were installed by Mr. Shimer. A check for $5,550.00 was presented to Roy Beitzel, president of the fire company.

A film was presented, showing a tragedy of a family dying from a fire, and dramatizing the need for smoke detectors, and rehearsing ways for a family to leave a house in case of fire. Mr. Shimer pointed out that 7,000 people a year lose their lives in fires. Many of which could have been saved.

Door prizes were drawn and Rev. Kenneth Zehr, Pastor of Glade Mennonite Church won an embroidered wall plaque. Second prize was won by Mrs. Mark Folk, Springs, Pa. (A flower arrangement).

There was a large amount of food left over and Chief Yaste invited persons to return for Sunday dinner. There were 80 persons who came in for their Sunday dinner.

Homemakers Meet

The Bittinger Homemakers Club met at the home of Ferne Beachy on Thursday afternoon with eight members attending.

Truckers Fined On Weight Violations

Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney sat in Allegany County Court last week in the absence of Judges Miller Bowen and Paul J. Stakem, who were attending judicial conferences at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Among those cases heard were maximum weight violations for truckers from this area.

Robert R. Ridder, 47, Oakland, was fined $100 for refusing to submit his coal truck for weighing on January 25. At first, Ridder told the judge he wanted to serve 50 days in the Garrett County Jail, but later decided to pay the fine.

Two employees of Orner and Sons, Grantsville, paid fines of $100 and $95 respectively after being stopped while driving coal trucks on Rt. 48 near Midlothian Road.

The truck driven by Leonard L. Eichorn, 37, Grantsville, exceeded the maximum weight of 66,000 pounds by 1,900 pounds. The second truck, driven by Robert R. Shuck, 27, Meyersdale, Pa., was found to be 1,200 pounds over the maximum.

"Do I really have to buy my phones?"

No, you don't.

We know there's been talk about changes at the phone company. And Federal regulators have ordered us to change some of the ways we supply equipment.

But as far as most of our customers are concerned, very little has changed.

We're still your phone company. We still provide you with the kind of service that makes your telephone system the best in the world.

"What happens to the phones I have now?"

If you're leasing your phones from C&P Telephone today, you can continue leasing those phones.

And we'll lease you new phones just as long as our inventory lasts.

Of course, if there's a problem with your leased phone, any C&P Telephone Service Center will repair it.

"Will I be able to buy the phones I'm leasing from you?"

Yes. We're putting together a purchase plan right now.

We'll tell you when you'll be able to buy your phones and how much they'll cost after the plan is approved by your Public Utilities Commission.

This offer will apply to most single-line phones already in your home or office.

"If I move, how do I arrange for new phones and service?"

To order new phone service, call your local business office. The number is listed in the Customer Guide in the front of your White Pages.

Then, if you decide to get your phones from us, you can pick them up at any C&P Telephone Service Center.

"I'm not changing my service. Should I be doing anything?"

No, as far as you're concerned, nothing is changing. We'll keep you informed whenever there are changes that affect your phone service.

Let's Talk.

We hope this answers your questions. But if we missed a question or two, just call our toll-free number during regular business hours, and you'll get the same kind of straight talk.

Ram Grapplers Defeat Valley, Tie Fort Hill

The Southern wrestling team had to stage a rally to defeat Valley Thursday night, 35-27, in Lonaconing, but then allowed Fort Hill to pull the same tactic last night and come back to tie the Rams, 27-27, in Oakland.

Southern came back to win five of the final seven bouts against the Black Knights after dropping three of the first five.

Recording pins for the Rams were Gordon Gregory in the 114-pound class, Tim Liller in the 134-pound class, Chris Foley in the 140-pound class and Rod Neely in the 187-pound class.

Scott Reed, Rodney Swiger and Jim Neary added point victories to the Rams' total.

Pin winners for Valley were Tom Brode, Bob White and Wayne Nichol.

The Rams managed to capture six of the first eight matches against Fort Hill, but registered only one pin overall. The Sentinels recorded four pins on the evening, including one by Ken Haines in the unlimited class to cause the tie.

Jeff Kimmell, Dave Frank and Scott Hamilton also took pin victories for Fort Hill.

Chad King, Scott Reed, Tim Liller, Chris Foley, Rodney Swiger and Rod Neely all earned point victories for Southern.

Coach Joe Heatherman's Rams are now 5-1-2 on the season and will compete again Monday against Allegany in Cumberland.

Lakers Smashed By ACC Trojans In "Foul" Contest; Record Now 9-11

It is no secret that there is an intense rivalry between the Lakers of Garrett Community College and the Trojans of Allegany Community College, and this fact becomes even more evident when one observes the foul column in a Laker-Trojan box score. Allegany has dominated the series between the two schools, however, and continued to do so Saturday in Cumberland by trouncing the Lakers, 112-73.

A total of 63 personal fouls were called in the contest, 80 free throws were attempted and six players fouled out before it was all over.

It was the second victory over the Lakers by Allegany this season and the first contest, held January 5, was similar in nature to Saturday's game as the two teams committed 79 fouls.

The win was the 15th straight for the 20-4 Trojans and dropped Garrett to 9-11 on the season.

Allegany wasted no time in putting points on the board as Dave Smith recorded an 18-foot jumper with just five seconds gone. The Trojans surged to a 14-3 lead before the Lakers netted six unanswered points to pull within five. However, Allegany pulled out to a 25-13 advantage, then 37-15 at the 6:36 mark and took a 51-28 lead into the locker rooms at intermission.

The Lakers never threatened in the second half, as the Trojans breezed to their 46th straight win on their own court.

Smith led all scorers, finishing with 24 on 11 buckets and a pair of free tosses. Tom Jones was close behind with 21 points, Ernest Glover netted 17 and Daryl Mackey, 13.

Tom Fulwood and Tim Winters shared scoring honors for Garrett, as each hit 14 points. Eight of Winters' markers came at the foul line. Terry Snyder, who came off the bench in the second half, finished with 12 points.

Fouling out of the contest were Fulwood, Winters, Kip Washington and Eric Everhart for Garrett, and Mackey and Brian Waller for ACC.

The Lakers were outshot from the floor by a 40-24 margin and sunk 25 of 37 free throws, compared to a 32-for-43 performance by the Trojans.

Coach Tom Bosley's Lakers will play again this evening in Monaca, Pa., against Beaver Campus of Penn State.

Yoder Dominates As Huskies Breeze Past East Preston And Oldtown

The Northern Huskies, perhaps better known as Brad Yoder and Company, breezed to a pair of wins during the past week, whipping East Preston on Friday evening in Terra Alta, 66-49, and rolling over Oldtown last night, 77-37, at the Cove. Yoder netted a total of 75 points in the two games and was the only Husky to reach double figures in both contests. The pair of victories improved the Huskies' season record to 9-7.

Northern maintained a comfortable lead over East Preston, racing to a 13-4 advantage by the end of the first quarter and expanding that to 29-16 by halftime. The Huskies were on top 45-27 as the final stanza began.

Yoder netted 14 buckets and seven of eight free throws for 35 points and also pulled down 18 rebounds.

Wicky Myers paced the West Virginians with 15 points, while Terry Hauser hit 12.

The Huskies outshot East Preston by a 24-19 margin from the floor and converted 18 of 31 free tosses, compared to an 11-for-19 effort by the losers.

Yoder hit an incredible 18 for 22 from the floor against Oldtown last night and sunk all four of his free throw opportunities for 40 points before Coach Harv Speicher pulled him from the contest after three quarters to play his second and third string.

Yoder also grabbed 15 rebounds.

The Huskies overpowered the Tribe from the beginning, surging to a 26-5 lead by the end of the first quarter and expanding that to 50-22 by intermission.

It was the Huskies' second win over winless Oldtown this season. Northern won the opening game between the two teams, 58-44.

Pacing Oldtown in scoring was Shawn McGraw, who finished with nine points.

The Huskies more than doubled the Tribe in buckets, hitting 35 compared to 16 by the losers, and converted seven of ten free throws, compared to a five-for-eight performance by Oldtown.

Rams Top University With Ease, But Then Edged By Vikings, 49-47

The Southern Rams had little difficulty in disposing of University High of Morgantown Friday evening, 60-39, in Oakland, but were stung by the Petersburg Vikings last night, 49-47 on the Vikings' floor. Coach Oren Yoder's Rams are now 8-7 on the season.

The Rams raced out to a 10-4 lead by the end of the first quarter against University and led 25-16 at the half. Southern was on top 43-31 when the final eight minutes began.

Kevin Winters led the winners with 20 points on ten buckets. Teammates Ron Bosley and Scott Stem pumped in 11 and ten points, respectively.

Moses Amos paced the Hawks with 12 points.

The Rams finished with a 28-15 advantage in field goals and made good on four of 13 free throw opportunities, while University converted nine of 17.

Southern made it a clean sweep by taking the jayvee preliminary contest, 49-39. J.R. Gibson led the Rams with 18 points.

Petersburg's Ken Crites sealed the two-point Potomac Valley Conference victory for his team when he hit a 20-foot jumper with just nine seconds remaining in the contest.

The score remained close throughout all four quarters, with Southern on top 15-13 at the conclusion of the first period and Petersburg coming back to assume a 29-25 halftime edge. The Rams battled back in the third period to draw within one, 37-36.

Pacing Petersburg was Bill Martin, who finished with 17 points on seven baskets and three free throws. Crites contributed 14 points.

Leading the Rams was Kevin Winters, who netted 19 markers on seven goals and five of seven free throws. Rick Selders chipped in 12 points.

Laker Women Edge Dundalk, Fall To Devils

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team played .500 ball during the past week, edging Dundalk on Wednesday, 64-60, at Dundalk and falling to Baltimore CC on Saturday, 63-44, on the Red Devils' court.

Dundalk finished with one more field goal than the Lakers, 25-24, but Coach Ann Welham's team made good on 16 of 26 free throw opportunities while Dundalk managed to hit only ten of 25.

Pacing the Lakers were Susan Sanders and Sue Jack, who finished with 16 and 15 points, respectively. It was the first appearance on the floor by Jack in a few weeks because of an ankle injury.

Nichelle Payne contributed 11 points to Garrett's total.

Leading Dundalk's scoring attack was Mary Hester, who netted 24 points on ten buckets and four free throws. Allowatt and Mabrey each added ten points.

Baltimore maintained a comfortable lead over the Lakers throughout most of Saturday's contest, which dropped the Lakers to 5-6 on the season.

Tonya Griffith and Pam Jones finished with 20 and 14 points, respectively, for the Red Devils, who held a 33-22 edge at the half. Ruby Nichols added ten to the winner's total.

Sanders again led Garrett with 14 points. Susan Harper contributed 12.

The Lakers will play again this Friday, February 7, at home against Essex Community College. Tip-off is scheduled for 4 p.m.

Winter Special Olympics Draws More Athletes

Laughter, giggles, cheers of praise, and shouts of encouragement echoed through the Village Inn and Wisp Ski area January 16-19 as Garrett County once again hosted the Maryland State Winter Special Olympics Games. Although Maryland has had summer olympics games for many years, with thousands of participating athletes, this was only the second year for winter competition which had an increase in the number of participating athletes, approximately 120 as compared to 89 last year.

Festivities began Sunday evening with a torchlight parade by members of Wisp Ski Club and the traditional Olympic parade including the introduction of all participating counties and the lighting of the Olympic torch. Bill Abernathy, a Garrett County athlete, welcomed all athletes, coaches, and chaperones to the county. Music was provided by the Northern High School band under the direction of James Boord. Following the ceremonies, Ben Sincell and Greg Carrico entertained with "A Night of Magic."

The athletes began their ski instruction Monday and Tuesday. When not receiving lessons, numerous "Winterfest" clinics were available for athletes participation. Clinics, all staffed by volunteers, included sleigh riding, snow sculpting, sled riding, snowmobile riding, new games, snow shoeing, frisbee, arts and crafts, sponge polo, movies, racquetball and volleyball. Evening activities included a Hawaiian luau night on Monday. Music was provided both nights by Bill Weisegerber.

Wednesday was the day for competiton and reward as the athletes applied their newly learned skills to a race situation. Following lunch, awards were presented by the coaches. Garrett Countians competing and receiving medals were Kenny Wilt and Trina Bary who both placed third in the 25-meter dowhill glide; Bill Abernathy and Cindy Bell, first and second, respectively, in the downhill; Liz Terrant and Gale Ahern, both second in the 50-meter cross country; Ira Blucher, third in 50 meter cross country; Andy Zuckerman and Gale Ahern first and second in 100 meter cross country; and Andy Zuckerman, second in one-kilometer cross country.

Kenny is a student at Dennett Road Elementary, Liz is a student at Southern High School, and the other athletes are clients at the Appalachian Center in Oakland.

Garrett chaperones for the event were Cheryl Henderson, speical education teacher at Dennett Road, and Debbie Ambrose, community living supervisor at Garrett Crossroads group home. Coordinators for the Garrett County Special Olympics are Jennifer Kotulak, special education teacher at Accident, and Dorothy Leuba, president of the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped. Organizations providing sponsorship of the Garrett group included the American Legion, Lions, Junior Woman's Civic Club, Garrett County Processing and Packaging, and Country Roads Chrysler.

Board Considers

shelter cost of rental units in Garrett County for a two-bedroom unit was $337.

Yoder noted some families who have moved from Bradley Manor have found housing in the county, in other counties in Maryland or in West Virginia. Community Action worker Pam Nelson noted several families have moved from the low income housing complex but are in worse living conditions.

When asked about the county financial obligation would the PHA have financial problems, Yoder pointed out a passage in an agreement for the $5.8 million loan signed between the PHA and HUD which states "This note shall not be a debt of any city, county, State or political subdivision thereof . . . nor in any event shall it be payable out of any funds or properties other than those of the Local Authority. This Note shall not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any constitutional or statutory public debt limitation or restriction."

Yoder also noted that counties which have contributed money to a PHA have done it on a voluntary basis.

Sister Catherine Arata, a PHA board member and House of Hope representative, submitted a petition to the commissioners bearing names of 219 persons supporting the PHA. She described the persons as those with middle to upper income levels.

When asked, each commissioner described his thoughts on the PHA. Commissioner John Braskey stated his reason for calling the meeting was to hear both sides of the issue before he makes a decision. "I don't think we can just sign a blank check and have another Bradley Manor," he said.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg explained his involvement in the issue, and noted the intent of the previous board in establishing the PHA was to reconstruct a housing unit at the Bradley Manor site. To him, the issue was different and concerned the extent government can go in its public service.

Commissioner Elwood Groves explained his belief that private enterprise could take care of the problem; that the federal government could not be trusted, especially since it was somewhat responsible for problems at Bradley Manor; and that the concept of a PHA was repulsive because it was actually a "county-approved puppet for HUD."

He pointed out the Bradley Manor issue has polarized the county and that he believed the commissioners have to consider the possible long-range consequences of public housing.

Yoder responded to the commissioners' comments by saying, "I would be flatly against a PHA if I believed we would have another Bradley Manor."

He pointed out the persons on the PHA were county citizens who have a sense of responsibility to the county and would work to insure a quality project.

Dan Elmlinger, director of a group home for handicapped persons, pointed out that private developers are successfully using HUD money in the county to build housing projects as large as 39 units.

Oakland town council member Terry Helbig stated the town council had decided not to cooperate with the PHA and believed its decision was best for the town and the county.

Clarification Noted

Incorrect information was received by The Republican and reported in last week's edition concerning an incident at Northern Middle School.

Original reports indicated that Gerald Durst, an 11-year-old student there, fell from the parallel bars. According to a school official, the youth had dismounted from the bars, became lightheaded, and passed out.

He was admitted for observation to the local hospital, and returned to class later in the week.

TWO YEARS FOR TAX BREAK DECISION

If a taxpayer sells his principal residence and buys another one for use as a principal residence within two years before or after the date of sale, the gain on the sale will not be currently taxed. This holds as long as the cost of the new residence equals or exceeds the selling price of the old.

If the cost of the new residence is less than the selling price of the old, the gain is taxed only to the extent of the difference.

Where the taxpayer builds, rather than buys, construction must be started from two years before and occupied by two years after the sale to get the same tax break.

This tax avoidance of the sale profit is called "rolling over" a home purchase. But that two year period for decision gives you another option. During that time, you can also opt for the once-in-a-lifetime $125,000 exemption of taxes on your profit if you were age 55 or older at the time of the sale. Every time there is a tax change coming out of congress, the tax advantages of home-owning always seem to get better and better. No wonder it's such an excellent investment.

GCC Establishes College Transfer Advising Service

As part of its recent administrative reorganization, Garrett Community College has established a new transfer advising service to direct the college's university and college parallel transfer programs. Dr. George Dailey, who has been involved with transfer advising since GCC opened in 1971, will act as its coordinator. Dailey's responsibilities will include the development of transfer agreements with four-year colleges and universities, as well as student advising.

According to GCC president Randol Harman, the new service will "measurably increase" Garrett's ability to provide a greater range of transfer options for county students. "Although GCC is small in terms of its student body, the curriculum is sufficiently broad-based in the liberal arts and technologies to enable GCC to coordinate an exceptionally wide range of transfer options with colleges and universities throughout the country," he stated.

GCC is now actively seeking or has finalized specified transfer agreements with over one dozen schools. Based upon these articulation agreements, GCC will be able to design academic programs in almost any major, insuring students a smooth transfer, according to Dailey.

In commenting about the functions of the new transfer service, Dr. Dailey stated, "We at GCC want to take the guesswork out of transferring, and at the same time offer as many parallel transfer programs as possible. People will be surprised when they see just how extensive our transfer offerings will be by the start of our fall, 1983, semester. Our aim is to be able to meet the transfer needs of almost all college-bound county students. We are even moving forward on an innovative 'transfer' curriculum designed to appeal to the high school senior who plans to enter a branch of the armed forces."

Persons interested in information about GCC's developing transfer options are encouraged to contact Dr. Dailey at the college.

PINES IN WINTER

Among the many kinds of trees in existence, very few retain their foliage during the cold winter months. Only a few withstand the driving winds and storms and still maintain beautiful green branches.

The graceful scene below shows a remarkable characteristic in the pine tree. Some miraculous element within the pine enables it to display its lush greenery amid the whiteness of fallen snow.

Such are the amazing qualities of nature — the millions of wonders in God's creation.

In order to understand more fully the God-given powers within ourselves, we must study the Holy Word and attend regularly the services of our church or synagogue. By doing this we will come to realize our potentialities and talents and will learn to live a fuller more useful life.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE STRONG & THE MEEK

February 6, 1983

Background Scripture: Luke 19:28-48.
Devotional Reading: Lamentations 3: 21-33.

Jesus Christ throws a monkey-wrench into our attitudes about strength and weakness. The epitome of meekness and humility, he nevertheless was a person in whom people also found strength, courage and power. Humble enough to wash the feet of his disciples, he did not shrink from the recognition that he was God's Messiah. He was a man whose sovereignty was obvious, yet he did not compel anyone to submit to him. His strength—and he was a strong man—was something that came from deep within him and was never more evident than when he seemed to be in a position of weakness.

YOUR KING COMES HUMBLY

His Palm Sunday entrance into Jerusalem clearly illustrates this paradox. In it Jesus proclaims for all to see that he is the Messiah, the annointed one of God; yet, at the same time, he is careful to indicate that the true Messianic image is one of meekness and humility.

The Palm Sunday procession by Jesus and his followers was meant by him to serve as a statement about who and what he was. The image he projected in this incident is not accidental. One gets the impression that Jesus very carefully planned this entrance so that the people would get his message. Deliberately, then, he chose a vivid passage from the Book of Zechariah that very well explained what kind of messiah he would be:

Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion!
Shout aloud, O daughter of Jerusalem!
Lo, your king comes to you; triumphant and victorious is he, humble and riding on an ass...
(Zechariah 9:9)

"Triumphant...victorious," yet "humble." Seldom have these seemingly contrary qualities been incarnated in one person.

TEACHING DAILY

Even in what followed the Palm Sunday procession this paradox is evident. His first step, driving the moneychangers out of the temple, is the powerful act of a strong person. Although Luke does not indicate that Jesus became physically violent, he does show us that Jesus was very vigorous and forceful in this action, and the words he uses were hardly gauged to "win friends and influence people": "It is written, 'My house shall be a house of prayer'; but you have made it a den of robbers."

But apart from this one vigorous act, Jesus' influence in what was to be his last week was more that of the quiet teacher: "And he was teaching daily in the temple." It is not enough to drive the moneychangers out of the temple, for we must also be taught what the temple is really for.

No wonder "the people hung upon his words."

YOUR HEADACHE! WHAT IS IT?

The most common everyday complaint of man is the headache and there are many home remedies advertised to help. Usually they consist of aspirin combined with other products and will relieve most headaches. But, many times the headache is not in itself an illness but a symptom of something else.

Recurring headaches should be reported to your physician, for it could be a signal to him that something else is wrong. In such cases taking headache rememdies would not be of more than temporary help. Once your doctor finds the cause, he can prescribe a more permanent cure.

Kitzmiller Church To Present Film

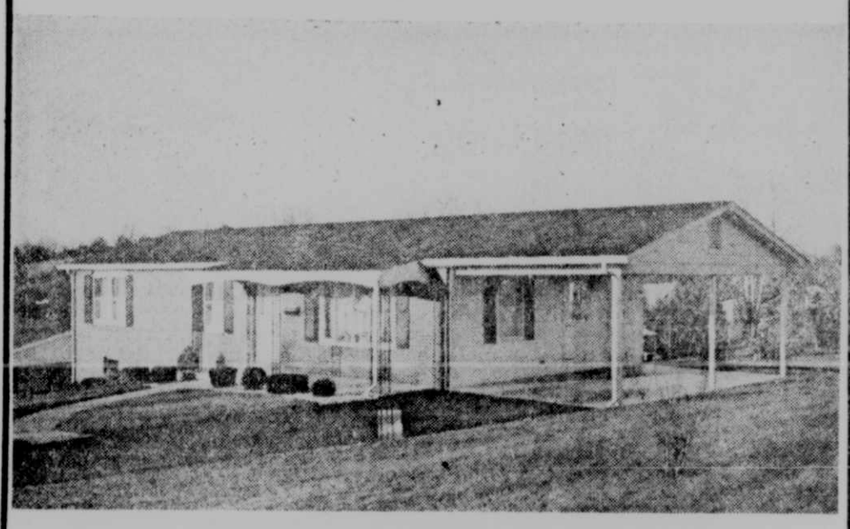
The Kitzmiller Assembly of God Church will present a family Christian film entitled "Tanglewoods' Secret" this Friday, February 4, 7 p.m., at the Kitzmiller School. A donation of 50 cents per person will be colleced at the door to cover the cost of showing the film. The public is invited.

The film, set in the 1930s, depicts the bitterness and the victory which comes to a family when a young gypsy boy meets with a fatal accident.

Legislation Would Aid Crime Victims

Senator John Bambacus has co-sponsored legislation which would extend protection to victims of serious crimes. The measure, Senate Bill 132, was introduced January 24 and has been assigned to the Judicial Proceedings Committee.

Entitled "Victim Impact Statement—Address By Victim or Family", the bill provides that victims of certain crimes would be entitled to address the sentencing judge before imposition of sentence, either in person or by affidavit.



At present, certain crimes require that a Victim Impact Statement be submitted to the court for presentence investigations after conviction. The report identifies the victim, itemizes economic loss, physical and psychological damage, and any other related information. The victim or his family, under present law, may not address the court prior to sentencing except by means of this report.

SB 132 as proposed also provides that the sentence would be considered invalid if the hearing is conducted without benefit of address by the victim or family, and finally, that a new hearing must be conducted in that case.

"This new measure assures that victims and their families have access to the court at this very crucial step in the judicial process," Bambacus stated. "It is a strict requirement but one that is sorely needed. It is essential to afford crime victims every possible opportunity to participate in our system of justice."

Mt. Lake Accepts SSES Thursday

The Mayor and Town Council of Mt. Lake Park voted January 27 to accept the town's Sewer System Evaluation Survey as prepared by Franklin Associates of Oakland. Only one of the town's residents was present for the information meeting.

Ed Perry, project administrator for the construction grants division of the Office of Environmental Programs, Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, was present for the review of Franklin's findings on the town's sewerage collector system and the extent of repairs which need to be made.

Comparison of the SSES with a report recently completed for Loch Lynn by Andrew Miller and Associates for the interceptor system showed a major discrepancy in amount of flow at one point, which was discussed at some length, but the two reports agreed on the flows at other interceptor points.

The group also discussed the town's most recent letter from the state department of health and mental hygiene, which notes that the town could stand to lose its partial moratorium status on sewer taps.

Mayor Russell Alexander told Perry that he could tell the inspection and compliance department and Dane Bauer, program administrator, that the town has spent $20,000 a year of its own funds for the past five years to correct sewer problems, and if this is not enough effort at compliance to allow the town to continue offering a limited number of sewer taps, then the town will begin channeling the $20,000 into other needed areas such as streets or police protection.

Thor Fields racks up the acting credentials

By Debra Morgenstern Katz

How many 14-year-olds can count Richard Burton as their mentor? Meet Thor Fields.

Fields is not name-dropping when he ticks off the famous people he has known: Yul Brynner, Richard Burton, Richard Harris, Tammy Grimes and Amanda Plummer, to list a few. The blond, 14-year-old actor has worked side by side with these performers in New York and around the country and, though he cherishes the experiences, he sounds rather nonchalant about it all. In fact, he says, he never even wanted to be an actor.

Thor Fields

But after a Pampers commercial at 18 months, more commercials later, and a soap opera ("The Doctors") at 8 years old, Fields found himself, at 10, on stage with Brynner in "The King and I." At 11, he hit the boards again, with Miss Grimes and Miss Plummer in "A Month in the Country," and then, recently, in the cast of "Camelot," first with Burton and then with Harris.

This week, Fields stars in "Frank and Fearless," a two-parter on ABC beginning Feb. 12, in which he plays a rich runaway who becomes a hero.

Of Burton, he says: "He's the greatest man in the world. He's wonderful, warm and intelligent. If I ever had problems, if anything was wrong with my performance, he'd always be there to help."

And Harris, he says, "was the same way. People would tell me that his temper was really bad but it wasn't around me. I never saw him yell or anything."

Fields says he isn't nervous to work with such celebrities. "When I first meet them, I'm in awe," he says, "but it's not a nervousness really." What does get the adrenalin pumping is not the big stars, but his peers.

"It scares me when friends are in the audience," he says. "You think you have to live up to something, be especially good." He recently had a relatively small part in a school production (he attends the Professional Children's School in Manhattan) and that, he said, made him nervous. What does an actor do when he gets nervous on stage?

"Take a big breath, try to forget there's an audience there, pause, gather your thoughts together," says Fields, "and keep going."

Though he didn't plan to act, he doesn't feel he missed out on anything: "A lot of people want to be an astronaut or a fireman or a detective. When you're an actor you can be all of those things — you can be anything.

"It's not a job," he says, "It's a game."

TV TATTLE

Bill Bixby

New on CBS...

The next network to announce its second-season changes is CBS, with nine new limited series — six of them comedies and three of them hour-long dramas — to premiere this spring.

For the comedies, Tim Conway stars in "ACE CRAWFORD, privateye," about a bumbling private detective; Lila Kaye in "Mama Malone," about a Brooklyn housewife with a TV cooking show; Bill Bixby and Mariette Hartley in "Goodnight Beantown," about a television anchorman and a female reporter; and Diana Canova and Harold Gould in "Foot in the Door," about a widower who moves to New York City to become a man-about-town.

There'll also be two Disney comedies, "Gun Shy," about a gambler and outlaws; and "Small & Frye," about detectives, one of whom can shrink himself.

For the dramas, Gil Gerard stars in "Johnny Blue"; Ralph Waite stars in "The Mississippi"; and Jeff Conaway stars in "Wizards and Warriors."

Week about games

"Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" broadcasts a week of all-new programs Feb. 7 to 11 on PBS, with the emphasis on games. (Local times may vary; check listings.)

"Games can be important in a child's development," says the Emmy Award-winning Fred Rogers, "because they provide a natural way to learn that rules, limits and structures are necessary parts of many types of play — as well as of everyday life.

"There are many new games in the world — mostly machine-run," he says. "How we deal with these machines when we're young will have an effect on how we deal with the world of our future."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

CAGNEY & LACEY FAN — I like "Cagney & Lacey" and would like to know their real names and something about them. — C.D., Mosiner, Wis.

Sharon Gless, an L.A. native, plays Chris Cagney. She is a fifth-generation Californian who was in the series "Switch" and "House Calls." She is single, has blond hair, blue-gray eyes and is 5 feet 6 inches tall.

Tyne Daly, born in Madison, Wis., is the daughter of the late actor James Daly and the actress Hope Newell. She is married to actor director Georg Stanford Brown and they have two daughters. She plays Mary Beth Lacey.

Tyne Daly

HOW TO — I have three years experience acting and 26 months at a stunt school. How do I go about getting a part in a movie? — E.E., Tampa, Fla.

Some films are shot in Florida and there are a lot of theaters there. Get more experience. If a film is casting locally, see if you can get an audition. If you are cast, the production office will tell you when and where to report. Once there, do your job as well and as professionally as possible.

James Arness

AMONG THE MISSING — I would like to know what happened to James Arness' new show, which I only saw once on TV and I think it was one of the best. I think it was called "McClain's Law." I still watch "Gunsmoke" in reruns. — A fan, St. Paul, Minn.

It was a series called "McClain's Law" and it did win some critical acclaim. Unfortunately, it didn't do too well in the ratings and was canceled.

Celebs who fly free; Male stripping lesson

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Joan Collins, Omar Sharif and Tony Curtis agreed to do ads for British Airways. Instead of farthings their payoff will be 12 months of free plane rides... Christopher Atkins, who plays a male stripper in his film, "Ladies' Night," and who takes it off — takes it all off — is taking stripping lessons from choreographer Roger Minami... And Stacy Keach, who actually climbs a mountain onstage in his new play, "K-2," is taking mountain-climbing lessons.

Stacy Keach

The Las Vegas Hilton offered a deal to Robert Goulet: If he emcees their revue and does 20 minutes to close the show, they'll put his name above the title. "Problem is there's no option to extend the original contract," he told me. For how long a period do they want to book him? "My entire lifetime."... Richard Nixon shipped $1,000 to Detroit's Capuchin Monastery. Detroit's Jesuits are operating a soup kichen there. But there's still enough Nixon cash left to take in a little winter sun, however. Dick and Pat will do the Caribbean... Deborah Raffin had a little misery with her 10-year-old engagement ring. Oh, Deborah didn't lose the ring — the ring she has. It's the diamond she lost. It fell out.

Deborah Raffin

Tom Snyder is off for a two-week visit with his daughter, Ann, in Los Angeles. "I need a rest after my four months on the air," he said... Anthony Quinn, who sold 40 sculptures and 20 paintings at his recent Hawaiian exhibition, has "$2 million worth of orders. Builders in San Francisco and Honolulu commissioned me to create monuments, statues, for their plazas."

WEDNESDAY

Quincy (Jack Klugman) faces the issue of drugs when he saves the life of a singer who was burned in a cocaine free-basing accident in "Quincy," to air Wednesday, Feb. 9 on NBC.

SATURDAY

Elaine (Marilu Henner) is concerned when her son (David Mendenhall) takes up boxing under the tutelage of Tony (Tony Danza) on "Taxi," to air Saturday, Feb. 5 on NBC.

Reunion special gets old cast for new show

By Ruth Thompson

Robert Vaughn

Last spring, "Barney Miller" went out of production. Now it's "M*A*S*H" that has filmed its grand finale episode. And it's no comfort to the likes of me that the decision to kill off two of television's greatest-ever series came from the production teams themselves.

True, these were two of the longest-running shows on the networks. But has fan loyalty waned? The popularity of the old episodes rerunning on local stations says no. (And they have to be pulling their weight. The cost of the old shows to local stations comes high for these two gems).

There's another barometer that says networks (and producers) have sometimes killed off good and popular — or sometime just popular — series before their time. It's the emergence of the "reunion"-type special, which recreates a series that vanished from first-run status aeons ago.

The fast-moving spy spoof "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." ended its four-year run in 1968. But right now, Michael Sloan Productions and Viacom have reunited the two stars, Robert Vaughn and David McCallum, and the cameras are rolling for a special, "The Return of the Man from U.N.C.L.E.," which will be broadcast by CBS in the spring.

Also on hand for the reunion is the star of another canceled spy-spoof, Patrick Macnee, formerly of "The Avengers." Keenan Wynn is cast as an agent for THRUSH. Those were the bad guys. Gayle Hunnicut get the role of the mandatory glamorous female.

Yes, there is a public for more-of-the same. Last month, Don Adams was on view in "The Return of Maxwell Smart."

Robert Young and Jane Wyatt did a "Father Knows Best" nostalgia special. The "Gilligan's Island" gang did a couple. The list is now quite long. But one of the most ironic re-dos was "Wild Wild West."

The show was rated in the top 10 when its farcical battling against the forces of evil was condemned as violent. It was canceled.

Its star, Robert Conrad, was bitter, pointing out that this was far-out comedy and good always triumphed. It must have helped some as the first nostalgia special years later rated so well that a second was ordered.

IN FOCUS

'Winds' chronicles WWII perils, passions

Robert Mitchum

The year-long shooting schedule began aboard the Queen Mary in Long Beach, Calif., and ended in Port Heuneme, Calif., in a set that doubled for Pearl Harbor. In between those two shoots, however, the cast of "The Winds of War" traveled all over the world — to more than 404 sites — from Florence, Venice, Milan, Munich, London and Yugoslavia to Vienna, Rome and Washington.

Actors with "The Winds of War," billed as the most expensive television miniseries with a budget of nearly $40 million, worked with a script of 962 pages and 1,785 scenes — which were completed four days ahead of the 206-day shooting schedule.

Some more statistics from the 18-hour, epic miniseries: There were a million feet of exposed film, more than 4,000 camera set-ups and 285 speaking parts.

The cast for the drama, which was adapted for television by Herman Wouk who also wrote the best-seller of the same name, stars Robert Mitchum as "Pug" Henry, Ali MacGraw as Natalie Jastrow, Jan-Michael Vincent as Byron Henry, John Houseman as Aaron Jastrow, Polly Bergen as Rhoda Henry and Peter Graves as Fred Kirby.

The story — the dramatic events of WWII — is seen through the eyes of Pug Henry, a military attache and unofficial emissary of President Roosevelt in 1939, who meets all the leaders of Europe — Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini, Churchill.

At the same time, Germany's inner workings are revealed through the eyes of an anti-Nazi military leader, Gen. Armin von Roon (Jeremy Kemp).

All is not war strategies in "The Winds of War," however — the personal stories are here too: of Pug, his wife and her lover as well as the young woman who wants to be Pug's lover; his son, Byron, and the American Jewish woman he loves; and her uncle, a writer, who becomes trapped in the country he thought would protect him.

As the story begins, Pug and his wife are sailing for Berlin where he will be the naval attache and meet up with Hitler, who is putting the wheels in motion to begin the war.

The drama begins on Feb. 6 at 8 p.m. (ET) on ABC and ends on Sunday, Feb. 13.

ROBERT MITCHUM and Victoria Tennant pause for a quiet moment in war-torn London in Herman Wouk's "The Winds of War," a seven-part miniseries about the personal dramas and political terrors of World War II, beginning Sunday, Feb. 6 on ABC.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

New soaps are on the drawing boards

By Nancy M. Reichardt

Since the demise of "Texas" and "The Doctors," rumors have been flying about several daytime drama projects that NBC is considering as possible replacements for the axed soaps.

Bill and Susan Hayes

Among the current contenders is a series spinoff of "Days of Our Lives," which reportedly would headline the talents of Susan Seaforth Hayes and Bill Hayes (Doug and Julie Williams), along with Gloria Loring (Liz DiMera) and Joe Gallison (Neil Curtis). The as-yet-untitled soap is under development with Corday Productions, creators of "Days."

Even though "Days" is NBC's top-rated soap right now, series spinoffs haven't set any records for longevity, so perhaps the web's other rumored project, "Scruples," would be a better bet for success.

Based on the best-selling Judith Krantz novel, "Scruples" is being scripted by Pat Falken-Smith, who penned "General Hospital," "Days" and "Guiding Light."

Meanwhile, over at ABC, it looks like the long-anticipated new soap created by Agnes Nixon ("All My Children") should be ready for a June debut.

The series will premiere as a two-hour Sunday movie of the week, then begin as a weekly series the following Monday, most likely airing in the late morning. It seems that ABC's other soap project, the "General Hospital" spinoff, isn't slated to air during '83.

Daytime newcomer Morgan Freeman has joined the cast of "Another World" as Bay City architect Roy Bingham. A native of Memphis, Tenn., Freeman appeared on Broadway in "Hello, Dolly!" with Pearl Bailey and appeared in the title role in the musical "Purlie." He is also recognized as "Easy Reader," a character he developed for "The Electric Company."

Beside his "AW" acting chores, Freeman is directing a new work in progress titled "Innocent Black," which he hopes is headed for Broadway. Freeman has appeared in several feature films and received major recognition for his portrayal of "Coriolanus" at the New York Shakespeare Festival.

MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of our Mother, Iona Rodeheaver, who passed away 3 years ago, on February 4, 1980. She always learned to watch for us, anxious if we were late, in winter by the window sill, in summer by the gate. And though we mocked her tenderly, who had such foolish care, the long way home could seem more safe because she waited there. Her thoughts were all so full of us, she never could forget. And so we think that where she is, she must be waiting yet. Waiting till we come home to her, anxious if we are late. Watching from Heaven's window sill, leaning from Heaven's gate.

We miss her very much,

NO. 8325 EQUITY
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT
FOR GARRETT COUNTY,
MARYLAND

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District No. 14 of Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland to Roy F. Elliott:

One acre of land, more or less, assessed in the name of Martin A. Carney, in Election District No. 14, Garrett County, Maryland, and being the same as described in two deeds, the first from John G. Sines and wife, dated October 1, 1891 and recorded in Liber No. 19, Folio 106, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and the second from Thomas J. Pendergast and wife, dated August 24, 1895 and recorded in Liber No. 28, Folio 422, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The bill states, among other things, that title to said property was vested in the above named defendants at the time of said tax sale and still so remains, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than one year and a day from the date of sale has expired.

IT IS THEREFORE, this 17th day of January, 1983, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ordered that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 10th day of February, 1983, warning all persons interested in said property to be and appear in this Court by the 21st day of March, 1983, and redeem the property herein described and answer the bill, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property and vesting in the plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

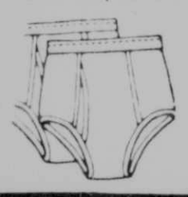
Raileys Seeking Variance From Lake Ordinance

Railey, Inc. has filed an application for a variance with the Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals. A hearing is planned February 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the grand jury room of the old Courthouse.

The application is seeking a variance from the terms of the zoning ordinance as it affects the definition of "lot".

If granted, the variance would waive the requirement that a parcel of land not be divided by a street right of way.



If the request is approved, Raileys would construct a maximum of 35 condominium units on the west side of U.S. Route 219 north of Deep Creek bridge.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 105 OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1983 PER COPY 25¢

THE WORLD WILL NEVER STARVE FOR WONDERS, and Garrett County will never lack for realms of beauty. Despite the troubled times, the suffering, the pain, there's always a place where one can go . . . to gaze, to rest, to pray. This sparkling winter scene is one of many county beauties known as Tolliver Falls, in the Swallow Falls State Forest area. Falling temperatures and steady snowfall assures the winter scene and the fact that, indeed, nature knows her place better than we.

County Jobless Rate Soars To 22.2 Percent

According to figures released this week by the Maryland Department of Human Resources, Employment Security Administration, not only does Garrett County continue to lead the state of Maryland in unemployment, but the jobless figure jumped from 17.6 percent in November of 1982 to 22.2 percent in December. The state estimated unemployment rate increased from 7.7 percent to 7.9 percent during the same period.

Out of a workforce of 12,502 persons in Garrett County, 2,779 were unemployed in Dec.

According to Gladys Anderson, supervisor of the Garrett County Employment Office, the increase in joblessness in the county is mainly because of the sagging coal industry. "We not only have many miners out of work," she stated, "but when mining activity is slow, so are several related types of employment, such as trucking, machine shop work, etc."

She went on to state, however, that high unemployment in Garrett County during the winter months is not at all unusual, particularly because so much of the work in the county is seasonal.

Statewide, 1,993,347 persons were employed in December and 169,943 unemployed which, combined, gave the State a labor force of 2,163,290.

The total number of persons employed decreased by an estimated 9,300 persons from November to December, while unemployment increased by 2,182 persons with the labor force dropping by 7,118 persons.

The decrease in the labor force resulted from discouraged workers dropping from the tally while seasonal layoffs became evident in the construction industry after two months of unseasonable gains. Layoffs in food processing, apparel/textiles and other industries continued in manufacturing employment and State and local government employment showed a reduction. Seasonal hiring in retail trade, however, became evident at the peak of the holiday season.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the unemployment rate inched up from 9.0 percent in November to 9.1 percent in December. Employment decreased by an estimated 2,095 persons and unemployment increased by 1,140. Particularly, seasonal hiring continued in retail trade, jobs were added in business services, and seasonal layoffs began in construction. Baltimore City's unemployment rate increased slightly from 10.8 to 10.9 percent.

Unemployment in Maryland's suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area decreased from 4.5 percent in November to 4.4 percent in December. While employment declined by an estimated

Commissioners Unanimously Annul Public Housing Authority

Weekend calls, a petition signed by about 400 people, a visit by county building contractors and a survey of need for low-income housing were not enough to convince the Garrett County commissioners that they should leave the five-month-old public housing authority intact.

Through a unanimous decision, the commissioners Tuesday signed a resolution to rescind and annul the authority created by the previous Board on September 7, 1982.

The commissiones pointed out the sensitivity of the issue which split county opinion in half. Their decision reportedly wiped out the county's chances for $5.8 million to construct a low-income housing project in the county.

The commissioners received numerous phone calls in support of a public housing authority as well as a petition bearing signatures of supporters of the PHA which came in three segments totalling about 400 names. In a meeting on Feb. 1 with county PHA members, the commissioners received a survey of need for low-income housing in the county.

One major reason provided by the Board for their decision was the long-range consequences of operation of a low-income housing project by a county public housing authority. "We have no problem with the initial money for construction of a project," Commissioner Ernie Gregg said. "It's what happens from that day forward."

The commissioners pointed out they realize "there is no immediate financial obligation associated with the proposed new project . . . but at the same time realize what the moral obligations would be if the project would not succeed. They worried that they could be passing on this same moral and financial obligation onto a future Board and the taxpayers of Garrett County.

If a housing authority project would fall short on money, the commissioners felt the county government would be faced with a decision to either provide money out of the county treasury, close the project down or try to sell it to private developers.

"We can't afford that risk," Commissioner Elwood Groves said.

The commissioners noted that although they were sensitive to the needs of low income families, they felt a large responsiblity to all the county taxpayers to adopt policies to reduce the county tax rate, not to provide progams which could possibly increase it.

"The basic responsiblity of county government is in education, road maintenance and police protection," said Gregg. "Social programs came after the absolute basics."

Commissioner John Braskey indicated the Board would be willing to assist in trying to find other solutions to problems of housing for low-income families. "The Board is willing to work with Duane Yoder or private contractors to alleviate the housing problem by getting private developers involved rather than county government," he said.

The legal action taken by the Board to dissolve the public housing authority was to declare in a resolution that there was no longer a need for safe and sanitary housing in Garrett County.

One clause of the resolution declared, "It is hereby founded and determined that insanitary and unsafe inhabited dwelling accommodations do not now exist in Garrett County."

Although there are about 68 families still residing in

Board Drafting Admission Rules For Yoder School

Admission guidelines for the Yoder School, north of Grantsville, are currently being drafted for presentation at the March meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education.

Albert Coviello, director of pupil services for the board, will prepare a draft of proposed guidelines for study by various administrators, supervisors, the board's attorney, and Carolyn Dooley, principal of the school. Once a draft is revised and approved by all concerned, it will be presented to the board at its March meeting.

The need for admissions guidelines for the small elementary school which houses 81 students in grades one through eight became apparent during the past year, as the school's maximum enrollment was set at 75. With first grade admissions this past year, there were 79 students, including three Amish youngsters who had moved into the area, and the board felt it would be unfair to refuse students admittance since there was no set policy governing enrollment. One student later transferred, making a total enrollment at present of 81.

The Yoder School and Swan Meadow Amish School at Gortner are the only two schools in the county where admittance is not governed by boundary district lines.

Parents in the predominately Mennonite area around Grantsville have preferred the atmosphere of a small school with self-contained classrooms for their children. Yoder has three classrooms, a library, and a small activities room in the basement. There are a teaching principal and two teachers at the school, so that teachers are responsible for more than one grade in each of their rooms.

Suggestions for an admissions policy were presented by some 80 parents and interested citizens of the county on February 1 at the school. Coviello conducted the meeting by first outlining his agenda, answering questions, and then dividing the group in those attending into five discussion groups, which each group agreed on suggestions for possible guidelines and these were then presented to Coviello.

Suggestions most often appearing were proximity to the school; preference for first graders over older children, parents to provide private transportation, and consideration preference for siblings.

Although several parents have expressed concern that the board of education is planning to close the school, Coviello reassured them that there are no plans to take such action. His reassurance was backed up by Albert Ringer, supervisor of curriculum and instruction, later in the week.

Oakland Holding Record Open On Sewer Extension

The staff of Franklin Associates has promised to hold the record open until February 14 so Oakland area residents can respond to a questionnaire about expanding sewer service to outlying areas.

Some 30 residents attended a public meeting Monday night at city hall to learn more about the proposed expansion from Franklin Associates and to voice their opinion.

Poll results, as revealed by Morgan France, engineer, show that residents in only one area are in favor of the expansion, while residents in one other area were vehemently opposed to the idea.

Results for area one, on Dennett Road, showed that 17 residents are for the expansion, 12 are against, and one is undecided. In Rosedale, however, only two were in favor and 20 opposed. Several of those present Monday night were from Rosedale, and many of these persons left after determining that no expansion is contemplated in areas where opposition outweighs votes in favor.

Other results tabulated were area two, Mitchell Manor, four in favor, 12 against and one undecided; area three, Cherry Glade Run, eight for, 12 against; area five, 14 for, 18

Man Jailed On Charges Of Welfare Fraud

A Garrett County jury found an Accident man guilty of welfare fraud and false pretense in Thursday's session of Garrett County Circuit Court before Judge Fred A. Thayer.

Thomas Scott Noble, 38, Accident, was lodged in the Garrett County Jail following the verdict, and a presentence investigation was ordered by the judge.

According to James Sherbin, state's attornev, Noble illegally collected approximately $5,250 in welfare benefits from various periods in 1978 through 1982. Nine false applications were filed by Noble, who, during that time frame, was collecting social security disability, workman's compensation, welfare benefits, and a salary for full-time work. Sherbin stated that Noble failed to report any income except the disability payment.

Steven Fielder was Noble's attorney.

Bambacus Gathers Information From 200 Area Truckers

Over 200 persons concerned about the effects of new Congressional legislation on the trucking industry made standing room only at the Garrett Community College auditorium Saturday at a meeting with Sen. John Bambacus.

Sen. Bambacus took notes during the three-hour session and passed the information Monday to U.S. Sen. Charles McC. Mathias. Sen. Mathias assured the Maryland Senator that he will give a thorough review to bills presently before the House and Senate which could alleviate some of the financial burden for truckers who will be hard hit by legislation which raised the gasoline tax five cents and called for higher truck tariffs.

All the truckers who spoke Saturday reiterated financial burdens which will be increased by the higher costs and expressed frustration that Congress is so little responsive to their means of livelihood, said Bambacus.

His suggestions offered at the meeting included seeking legislative remedies to their problems through Congressional action, and for the independent truckers to agree on what to do and how to go about it. An un-

Coal And Wood Burning Clarified

In response to a meeting on the use of coal and wood burning stoves with George Ferrari, director of the state air management administration, the Allegany and Garrett Senate and House delegations agreed Tuesday to withdraw their legislation concerning burning of solid fuels in resident dwellings.

According to Ferrari, such legislation is unnecessary because permitting requirements apply only to units above 350,000 BTUs per hour. This means there is no problem for residential stoves below that size.

Farrari wen on to say, "Fuel burning equipment which is currently subject to the prohibition would be allowed on a case-by-case basis.

"The regulations that establish this procedure are expected to be promulgated by late summer," said Ferrari.

Sen. John Bambacus and Del. George Edwards, co-sponsors of the draft legislation which would have permitted the use of coal and wood burning furnaces in new residential dwellings, expressed their pleasure with such a productive meeting. The meeting was held Tuesday at 11 a.m. and the legislation has been introduced into the General Assembly on Monday night.

Prior to Tuesday's meeting, there had been no clarification concerning the prohibition of coal and wood burners in homes.

Board Tentatively Approves Railey Variance Request

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals has tentatively approved the concept of a 35-unit condominium on property owned by Railey, Inc. on the west side of Route 219 near Deep Creek Bridge.

No one appeared in opposition to the board's granting a variance which will permit construction of the condos and no letters in opposition were received, according to John Nelson, county zoning administrator, who conducted a public hearing on the request February 3.

Presenting the Railey's case was Jim Railey, Jr., who requested that the board grant a variance from the requirement that a parcel of land in one ownership not be divided by a street right of way.

The zoning board gave approval on the condition that the applicant produce a site plan for review and final approval by the board.

In order to construct the units, three mobile homes and a stone cottage would be removed from the site. Construction is not planned until 1984.

County Residents Deplete Surplus Cheese Supply

No cheese, but some butter was left over after the January 24-28 surplus cheese and butter distribution to elderly and low income citizens in Garrett County, county Community Action Agency executive director Duane Yoder reported Monday.

Community Action worked with the county Commission on Aging to distribute the commodities throughout 13 sites in the county. Yoder said 3,107 households received the cheese and butter.

Because of the number of persons showing up Monday morning for the food, Yoder said the allotment had to be cut in half from two five-pound blocks of cheese and four one-pound prints of butter per household. When they realized there would be ample butter, they increased the allocation back to four per household.

The total number of cheese blocks distributed was 3,900 while the total of butter prints was 11,880. The remaining butter will be used by the Commission on Aging in its hot meals program, Yoder said.

The three centers serving the greatest number of households were Oakland, combining both the CAA and COA centers—958 households; Friendsville—275 households, and Grantsville—261 households.

Yoder noted those households which did not receive the full allotment of two blocks of cheese and four prints of butter will be eligible for another distribution in April.

Local Residents Pass CPA Exam

Four Garrett County residents were among nearly 470 Marylanders who passed the most recent certified public accountancy examination in November, according to an announcement last week by the State Board of Public Accountancy. They include Randy J. Cirillo, Denise Rinker, Britten Leo Martin Jr. and Katherine B. Zimmerman.

Cirillo and Rinker, Oakland, are associated with the Oakland office of the accounting firm of McLaughlin, Reineke and Associates. Martin, Mt. Lake Park, is a member of the faculty of Garrett Community College. Zimmerman, Swallow Falls, is employed in the business office of Garrett Community College.

BOOST FOR HEART FUND — Jim Murray, left, president of the Oakland Rotary Club, is shown presenting a check to Francis Grimm, 1983 General Heart Fund Campaign Chairman for Garrett County, during the 11th annual dinner of the Western Maryland Chapter of the American Heart Association. The dinner, which was attended by over 100 persons, was held Thursday evening at the American Legion in Oakland and hosted by the Rotary Club. The speaker for the evening was Kenneth Richmond, pictured right, administrator of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, who spoke on heart disease and volunteerism.

Kitzmiller To Redirect Water System Efforts

Officials of the town of Kitzmiller unanimously agreed last Wednesday night to halt plans to obtain water from the Mt. Top Public Service District in West Virginia and to construct a water treatment plant on Wolfden Run northwest of that town.

The mayor and council members agreed with a decision of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission that it will be more feasible to seek water from a Maryland source rather than rely on the West Virginia source. Problems with obtaining a right of way, particularly from the West Virginia Department of Highways and owners of property containing coal seams cropped up in the last few weeks, making it appear unlikely that any feasible route for a water line to Elk Garden could be obtained.

The Sanitary Commission and town officials will be meeting with the engineering firm of Frederick Ward and Associates at its regular meeting February 15 to discuss design of the Maryland plant and system. There will also be scheduled a public hearing to create a Kitzmiller sanitary district and a public hearing on the improvements when final cost figures are in.

As of now, it appears that construction of a line to Elk Garden would have cost the town $260,000. Preliminary cost estimates for the town's treatment plant are in the neighborhood of $300,000 and county sanitary administrator Wendell Beitzel said last week that if the town could go to bond closing as soon as plans are approved by the state, this would mean that the project could draw from grant funds and thus save nearly $40,000 in interest.

Total estimated cost of going to West Virginia's Mt. Top district was $1,102,500 which was divided as follows: $422,000 from a Farmers' Home grant;

Broad Ford Retains Title As State Demonstrator School For Fitness

Broad Ford Elementary School was recently notified by the Maryland State Department of Education that its physical education program has once again been selected to represent the state as a Demonstrator School for the 1983-84 school year. To receive this status, Broad Ford once again went through the entire screening and selection process as was done last year. Each year, a new screening and selection committee is chosen as well as the visitation teams that score the semi-finalists.

In September of this year, Broad Ford reapplied to the state screening and selection committee to retain its Demonstrator Status. In November the school was notified that it had been selected as a semi-finalist. In December, an on-site evaluation of the physical education program was conducted by a visitation team of physical education professionals. The team which evaluated Broad Ford was composed of Dr. Marjorie Leppo, team captain; Dr. Harold Cordts and Ms. Virginia Hengst. The team evaluated and scored Broad Ford in the following categories: philosophy, organization and administration, instuction and curriculum, evaluation, personnel and facilities/equipment/-supplies.

As a part of this on-site evaluation, the visitation team spent an entire day at Broad Ford observing classes and evaluating the program. They also conducted interviews with students and school personnel. At the conclusion of the day, the team wrote its final report in which it made its final recommendation to the screening and selection committee. Each visitation team makes a recommendation as to whether or not a school should receive Demonstrator recognition. The selection committee then makes the final decision.

Ten schools were selected throughout the state this year to serve as Demonstrator Schools. Of the ten selected, six retained the status of Demonstrator for the second consecutive year. Should a school be selected for the title three consecutive years, that school will be retired from the competition for a period of three years. This is the highest honor which a school can receive in the Demonstrator School program.

The Demonstrator School project, now in its second year, is an annual event in every state and was established to not only promote and recognize outstanding physical education programs, but to make the public aware of quality education in the field of physical education. Each Demonstrator School has several outstanding features that distinguishes it from the other Demonstator Schools. At Broad Ford, this feature is the President's Physical Fitness Program.

According to physical education instructor, Phil Caruso, "Physical Fitness is definitely our trademark. Although we do a variety of instuctional activities, we spend much time developing the mind and body through our fitness program. I would say that we are now an elementary school fitness 'powerhouse'. We produce 50-60 fitness champs each year and upgrade all levels of fitness in each child that goes through the program in the third, fourth and fifth grades."

To date, 146 students have won the President's Physical Fitness Award with a current total of 36 students for the 1982-83 school year. There are also 30 students in the Hall of Fame which constitutes those students who score 95% or better in all six of the fitness events. In addition, Broad Ford has had one student, Bobby Horner, now a sixth grader, who has achieved 100% in the six fitness events.

A new feature to this year's program is a special cross-country run by the third, fourth and fifth grade students to establish a Broad Ford Assistance Foundation. The purpose of the Foundation is to assist Broad Ford families in time of need such as after fires and accidents. Students will be seeking sponsors to donate one cent for every mile they jog this year at Broad Ford.

Other highlights of Broad Ford's physical education program include teaching units in soccer, basketball, gymnastics, kick ball, punch ball, T-ball and dance. This year's visitation team had the opportunity to observe a new unit in aerobic dance which was co-taught by the physical education instructor and music teacher, Nancy Frazee. Additional highlights in the physical fitness program include morning and afternoon jogging, Fitness Honor Roll, Fitness Hall of Fame, and the awarding of ribbons and trophies for those who achieve excellence in fitness.

At the kindergarten through second grade level, perceptual motor skills are taught to develop the child's early motor skills in balance, body awareness, hand-eye and foot-eye coordination and locomotor skills, according to Caruso.

"It is my hope that since we have been so fortunate to win this distinction for two straight years that we will go for the Honor School Award next year," Caruso said. "I feel good about our chances, because this year the visitation team was very tough and I was not totally sure that we would win the honor again this year."

Caruso stated that the students at Broad Ford are the secret to the successful program. "Their enthusiasm, participation and sincere interest in all of our activities make our program what it is. They are great kids and fun to work with," he said.

Also instrumental in the success of the program, according to Caruso, are the PTA and the entire school staff. Wayne Johnson is the principal.

Besides the goal of winning the Demonstrator School Award for a third and final time, it is the hope of the students at Broad Ford Elementary for a state school Fitness Championship which is the school's only fitness achievement that has not yet been reached. Broad Ford has been the state runner-up for the past two years.

Caruso is a graduate of Frostburg State College and is currently completing work toward a master's degree in guidance and counseling at the same institution. In addition, he is serving in his fourth year as head baseball coach at Garrett Community College.

Wilkins Retires As Grantsville Chief Of Police

Frank L. Wilkins, Grantsville Police Chief, has announced his retirement after four years in that post.

Wilkins cited personal health problems for the decision, but plans to remain on emergency standby pending a successor.

Wilkins, 51, a native of North Dakota, came to Garrett County from Las Vegas, Nevada, in 1978. His first position here in law enforcement was with the Oakland City Police Department.

A strong supporter of crime prevention, Wilkins is a member of Garrett County Crime Solvers, a group of citizens and law enforcement personnel, which works to apprehend criminals through a network of anonymous tips to police. Wilkins headed many Crime Solvers fundraising events in the Grantsville area, and was responsible for much crime prevention knowledge in the local school there. He produced and directed a play starring students of the Grantsville Elementary School which served as a major source of information about Crime Solvers in the northern portion of the county.

Wilkins plans to remain in Grantsville, where he owns and operates the West Wind Gift Shop, located in the National Hotel. The shop, which is open daily, features handmade doll houses and furniture, as well as other handmade crafts.

Bambacus, Edwards Provide Status Information On County Legislation

Sen. John Bambacus and Del. George Edwards have introduced numerous pieces of legislation during the current session of the General Assembly, and this week provided an update on their activities and the progress of the various bills.

Two bills of great local interest, on the Youghiogheny River and on the county liquor control board, were just drafted Tuesday and details were not available until after presstime today.

According to Sen. Bambacus and his office staff in Annapolis, the status of his bills is as follows:

Senate Bill (SB) 39, on non-certified board of education employees' bargaining rights, had a hearing in the Constitutional and Public Law committee January 27 but no action was taken.

SB 109 and SB 132 are scheduled for a joint public hearing with the Judicial Proceedings Committee of the Senate and the House Judiciary Committee February 16. Some 16 bills dealing with changes in the crime laws, such as Bambacus' SB 109 to eliminate alcohol and drugs as mitigating circumstances in criminal cases and SB 132, to offer protection to victims of serious crime, will be heard.

SB 199, co-sponsored by Sen. Bambacus and Sen. Norman Stone, which would prohibit garment manufacturers from assigning industrial sewing homework to persons without a permit, has the favor of both business and labor, according to Sen. Bambacus, and was prompted by occupational safety and employee labor practice concerns. A hearing is scheduled today with the Senate Economic Affairs committee.

SB 323, which would increase fees for amusement devices licenses, has been assigned to the Finance committee but no date has been set for a hearing.

SB 324, dealing with raising from $2,000 to $5,000 the limit for competitive bids for the county, has not yet had a hearing before the Constitutional and Public Law Committee.

SB 325, dealing with changing Program Open Space requirements for the county, has not had a hearing before the Senate Finance Committee. The bill would make it possible to waive the requirement that 50 percent of funds coming here must be used for property acquisition.

SB 326, which would change the auditor's report requirements for the county, has been assigned to the Constitutional and Public Law committee.

SB 327, which would make it a misdemeanor for vendors from trucks not to obtain permits, and SB 328, which would alter the membership of the Board of Education to add a member of the Board of County Commissioners, are both assigned to the Constitutional and Public Law committee and have not had hearing dates scheduled.

Del. Edwards and Sen. Bambacus have introduced several bills simultaneously into their respective chambers, as follows:

House Bill 226 and SB 240, which would allow the exemption from retail sales tax for sales of diesel fuel destined for reclamation of strip mined land, received an unfavorable report in the Senate Constitutional and Public Law Committee. As House Bill 226, the bill had a hearing before the Ways and Means committee February 3 but the committee has taken no action as yet. However, comments were favorable, Edwards noted.

HB 317 will come before the House Judiciary Committee February 17. That bill concerns permitting the chiefs of volunteer fire companies in Garrett and Allegany counties to use flashing lights on their private vehicles enroute to emergencies.

HB 227 and SB 288, dealing with bond forfeiture and land reclamation, was scheduled before the House Environmental Matters committee today. It has been assigned to the Senate Economic Affairs committee but no hearing has been set.

Women Voters Schedule Annual Legislative Day

The League of Women Voters today announced that its annual Legislative Day in Annapolis has been scheduled for Tuesday, March 8, at 9:30 a.m. Senator John Bambacus, himself a member of the League, is lending the support of his office in encouraging District I residents to attend, and assisting with publicity.

The event will include a morning briefing on issues of interest and an address by William Ratchford, Director of the Department of Fiscal Services. The luncheon speaker will be Ruth Massinga, Secretary of the Department of Human Resources. The afternoon hours are reserved for visits with members of the General Assembly.

"Anyone interested in seeing our state government at work will benefit from the events scheduled by the League," Bambacus said. "I would be pleased to welcome all visitors from Allegany and Garrett Counties."

Legislative Day in Annapolis is open to members of the public as well as League members. There will be a small fee for materials and lunch at the Annapolis Hilton. Reservations are limited to 100 persons, and must be received by March 1. For information call 334-3228, 334-3315, or 777-1945.

Domestic Animal Survey Set By Health Officials

Garrett County Health Officer, Dr. William Pope, recently announced the formulation of a study to determine Garrett County's domestic animal population. The study, which will be coordinated by the County Environmental Health Staff, with assistance from Animal Control Personnel, will consist of a telephone survey of randomly selected households in the county.

The need for a survey such as this became evident, according to Dr. Pope, after the recent outbreak of terrestrial animal rabies in Allegany County and other surrounding areas. The best possible protection of the human population from the threat of rabies is to provide a barrier between them and the affected animal carriers of the disease, he said. This is most easily accomplished through vaccination against rabies of as many cats and dogs as possible, since they are closely associated with both human and possibly disease affected wild animals.

By knowing the number of cats and dogs in the county, Pope said, it will become possible to determine the approximate percentage which have received vaccination. This will aid the Health Department in planning for future low cost rabies vaccination clinics and in assessing the need for educational efforts to increase the percentage of vaccinated animals.

Included in the survey will be questions concerning the reproductive status of domestic animals within Garrett County. This information will aid in predicting future populations and be of use to the Animal Control Staff in projecting future areas of needed activity.

Pope indicated that a large number of county residents would be contacted in the next several weeks. Numbers will be selected randomly from the telephone directory and all information supplied from individuals will be kept confidential and anonymous. Cooperation from individuals contacted will be "greatly appreciated" and necessary to enhance the validity of the study, he stated.

Attends Seminar

One Garrett County resident was among those attending a two-day training course offered this past weekend by the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute in La Plata.

Lonnie S. Bray, Oakland, completed the course, which involved aircraft crash and rescue.

While enroute home Bray was travelling with James Dawson, Cumberland, when the pair came upon a 27-car pile-up on Route 270. The crash was a result of a six-inch snow storm in the area. Bray and Dawson assisted at the scene of the accident, rendering first aid for about three hours.

Sheriff's Staff To Begin 84-Hour EMT Instruction

With the completion of an 84-hour Emergency Medical Technician course, Garrett County will have one of the most highly trained sheriff's staffs in the state.

Beginning February 20, all deputies, jailers, dispatchers and Sheriff Franklin G. Finch will begin EMT training at Garrett Community College with instructor Criss Browning. Although the state requires only 17½ hours of retraining in first responder medical courses each year, the entire sheriff's department here volunteered to take the EMT class which will far surpass the state requirements.

Two members of the staff, Matron Louise Martin and Dispatcher John Hershberger, have already completed the EMT course.

According to Chief Deputy M. Van Evans, the completion of the course can be of invaluable assistance to county residents, as many times the sheriff's personnel are the first on the scene of an accident. In addition to the basic 84-hour class, the staff will also receive retraining in such areas as criminal law and sexual assault cases, so that all staff members will have over 100 hours of training this year.

Bambacus Urges Students To File Financial Forms

College-bound students interested in seeking financial aid from state and federal sources are advised to file their financial aid forms within the next few weeks, according to State Senator John Bambacus. "It's wise to get those forms to the College Scholarship Service in Princeton by the 15th of February if at all possible," Bambacus said. "In that way we can assure consideration for the many types of aid available."

"File early" was only one of the tips heard by students from Allegany and Garrett County high schools at scholarship seminars held on two consecutive Saturdays. The seminars were sponsored as a public service by the Senator.

Over 50 students and their parents took advantage of the informational meetings. A video-tape was shown, forms were distributed, and a number of experts were available to answer questions and give advice.

"Attendance at the sessions was more than gratifying," Bambacus said. "I was especially pleased to see public school superintendents, guidance counselors, college presidents and financial aid officers all taking such an active interest in these meetings."

Snow Abundant This Past Week

That skiers' delight—snow—was available in abundance this past week, with the county receiving at least seven inches of the fluffy white covering, according to Weber's weather station south of Oakland.

A glance at the temperatures for the week showed a high of 56 last Thursday and overnight low of 15 on two occasions, last Thursday and Friday nights. Skies have been mostly overcast as the snowflakes came drifting and swirling down.

Last Wednesday saw a high of 39 degrees and .01 of an inch of precipitation visible as a trace of snow. Low Wednesday night was 30 degrees and the mercury climbed all the way to 56 before sliding down to 15 Thursday night. There was .06 of an inch of precipitation, forming another trace of snow Thursday.

Friday saw a high of only 30 degrees before the mercury again plummeted to 15. Friday brought .09 of an inch of moisture, in the form of two inches of snow. High Saturday was only 28 degrees, and the mercury dropped only five degrees overnight. Precipitation amounted to .02 of an inch.

Sunday brought an additional two inches of snow along with a high of 30 degrees. Overnight low was 23, and the mercury stuck at the 30 degree mark again on Monday. An additional inch of snow arrived Monday, followed by two more inches on Tuesday. Overnight lows both Monday and Tuesday were 19 degrees. High Tuesday was only 25.

Deputy's Vehicle Damaged Thursday

Damage estimated at $300 was reported to a Garrett County deputy's cruiser last Thursday evening when icy street conditions caused the vehicle to slide into a wooden fence.

According to the sheriff's department and Oakland city police, Deputy Russell Drenning was westbound on Green Street when, due to hazardous conditions, he was unable to halt at a stop sign at the foot of an incline.

The vehicle slid across Fourth Street and struck a wooden fence on the property of Richard A. DiSimone, 41 S. Fourth Street.

No charges were filed by the Oakland police department, which investigated.

The Wrong Image . . .

Every once in a while Garrett County gets some national exposure over the major television broadcasting networks. One time, we recall, was during the last truckers' strike several years ago. The most recent occasion was last Wednesday when CBS news aired a segment on Garrett County on their national morning news program.

Most local residents who viewed the segment came away with mixed feelings about the report. Many were also angry with the network, claiming gross distortion of the way things really are in Garrett County.

We viewed the film and also experienced a mixed bag of feelings, combined with a few twinges of outrage.

Although we believe that the report was basically factual, it somehow undoubtedly left persons across the country who know nothing about Garrett County with an overall image of the county that is inaccurate. Some of the quotes we noted were "a job in the local chicken plant is the only one around" and "there are signs of poverty everywhere in Garrett County" and "federal budget cuts have halted the economic progress of the county." The reporter made sure that she interviewed the owner of a house which had no indoor plumbing, a person who has not had employment for two years.

The report did point out some solid truths, such as the high unemployment rate of the county, inadequate water and sewerage for new development, and little job opportunity for young people. These are cold, hard facts which must be dealt with. What we object to, however, is that the network neglected to give some other truths, such as the fact that unemployment is always high here in the winter months, and the fact that there are many outstanding qualities of life here, and the fact that we do have fine schools here, and the fact that the crime rate is extremely low here, etc. Although the reporter may have said nothing which was false, we are afraid that the general public may now think that the average Garrett Countian is one who is unemployed, is on the brink of starvation, lives in a house with no indoor plumbing and has very few teeth.

During the truckers' strike we mentioned above, the television reporters made sure that the only shelves in a local grocery store which were captured on tape were a few empty ones. It is true, these particular shelves were empty, but many which did not get on film were far from empty. Again, there was no untruth reported, but the image created was that the people of Garrett County were about to starve.

Surprisingly, even reporting nothing but the truth can sometimes distort the way things really are. It is the responsibility of journalists to not allow this to happen. The TV network news broadcasters have notoriously neglected this responsibility. News broadcasts are no longer just broadcasts, but resemble Broadway productions. Editorial comments literally permeate every report. Such activity can lead nowhere, but to the complete loss of public faith in television newscasting, which would be a tragedy.

Just For Ewe . . .

by Carol Fox

Living in Garrett County isn't easy—particularly if you were born and raised in a city.

I've lived here for six years now, and I simply can't get the hang of it. For instance, I still have haunting memories of the first story I did about the county fair for this newspaper. It centered on the sale of the grand champion steer, its owner, the amount of money the animal sold for, etc. All I knew about a steer at that time is basically what I know now—that from that four-footed animal comes my favorite food. Anyway, in my citified ignorance, I underpriced the poor animal, gave little or no credit to its owner, and made a general fool of myself in the eyes of area farmers and cattle ranchers.

Well, I've gone and done it again! This week, a source of 4-H information in our area called in a news item concerning an upcoming meeting. This gentleman happens to be interested in sheep. Now, my knowledge of sheep is even less than that of cattle, and anyone reading the news item on page 38 of today's paper will readily see what I mean. I apologize to the owner of the "Ewe 'n Me" Shop in Aurora, W. Va., for what I did. I thought I'd made great strides in the direction of sheep when my family and I attended a lamb sampling dinner held at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren several months ago. I tasted lamb prepared in a number of ways, collected leaflets on sheep and their by-products, took a fist full of lamb recipes home, and even touched a woolly example of a sweater before its creation.

Now, I've blown it all. Sheep farmers, unite! City folk who don't understand the complexities of raising animals should be firmly restricted to only walking by the pens in a petting zoo.

STRANGE...I NEVER TOOK THIS SATURDAY MORNING TV VIOLENCE BUSINESS SERIOUSLY, BEFORE...

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Why the cartoon in last week's editorial page? I saw it on the news also last week and what amazes me is how people can misinterpret, mock and degrade those doing good!

Some people keep God in a book on a shelf; Oral sees God as real and unlimited.

The Bible states in I Cor. 12:9 some are given the gifts of healing by the same Spirit.

Maybe why I am so defensive when anyone speaks against Oral Roberts is, I am one of those people God healed from an incurable disease through Oral Robert's prayers. There was no money asked for or given for my healing.

I know a big Medical Research Center such as he is building to help others needs a lot of financial support. It is something that gives greater hope to those who have given up hope because God is there. He is working with great professors, doctors and nurses for your and my good and I thank God for him.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Clayton Martin

To the Editor:

As a lifelong resident of, and for the past 20 odd years a taxpayer to Garrett County, I have seen a great many changes in our school system: the consolidation of schools to create Southern and Northern High Schools in the '50s, the further changes to build middle schools in both areas, as well as building others within the county and also the creation and construction of Garrett Community College.

Over these years I have read in the county papers and heard street conversations about the improved education all these changes have brought about. If this is true, and I am sure some of it must be, as we have had Doctors, Lawyers, Judges and highly skilled craftsmen and professional people of all types to come out of these schools, then why do we have to import people to hold some of our highest paid jobs in the county? i.e., hospital administrator, county clerk, county administrators, county supervisor of schools, food service administrator for schools and probably many more.

I am sure if our educational system is half of what I hear and read we have many local people who could handle these jobs well.

Richard E. Kitzmiller, Sr.

To the Editor:

Conerning the cartoon you printed in your February 2 paper, I would just like to say:

It seems when a minister tries to do good (in this case, a man trying to find a cure for cancer through research and with God's help and guidance) he is immediately ridiculed because of his religious beliefs. This man was asking for money to research the deadly disease of cancer which is killing many of our friends and loved ones. No one was obligated to send money if they did not want to, so why is it that instead of people hoping this man succeeds in his endeavor (which could help thousands), some people would rather put down on this man and his belief in God which gives him the desire and courage to fight this dreaded disease?

While many are selling drugs and alcohol to our young people which is destroying and killing many, we should thank God for those ministers and others who try to find ways of helping others rather than destroying them. Instead of ridiculing these men, we should pray that God will help them in their endeavors.

In helping others, we often help ourselves.

Wanda Dawson

P.S.

I found the cartoon to be in very bad taste.

To the Editor:

Something's wrong because teamwork is gone.

I feel that our employers (coal mining companies) deal harshly with anyone who brings up safety problems or health questions. The Mining Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) is in the middle, realizing that large corporations cannot be allowed to use their great power to force unusual hardships on its employees. But because miners do not know how to use the medium of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977 to achieve a safe and lawful work environment, they cannot help them.

Meanwhile, miners breathe dust, eat smoke and work in unsafe areas and gripe because they are frustrated by unfair treatment and because they have no voice in how the law is interpreted or how safety is handled by the company.

Act 103 (f) (a part of it) follows:

"Subject to regulations by the Secretary, a representative of the operator and a representative authorized by his miners shall be given an opportunity to accompany the Secretary or his authorized representative during the physical inspection of any coal or other mine made pursuant to the provisions of subsection (a), for the purpose of aiding such inspection and to participate in pre- or post-inspection conferences held at the mine . . ."

So, surface miners, let's get together to relieve our frustrations over safety and health issues and try to form a team to protect our jobs, conserve our health and create an efficient, productive, safe and healthful coal mining facility that makes everyone proud. This can be accomplished with a team consisting of: company safety man, MSHA, and a representative authorized by the miners. In all fairness, the miners must be represented on the team!

Any one wishing more information about the miners' representative may call Ralph Arnott, Route 3, Box 66, Deer Park, Md. (334-2825), or MSHA, (301) 334-3831.

(See Ephesians 4:13-32).

Sincerely,
Ralph Arnott

To the Editor:

I am concerned with the number of persons who lose their pets because they do not take them to a veterinarian for immunization shots. The cost is really not that much and worth the investment to keep a loved pet healthy and alive.

I have seen many animals ill with distemper and parvo virus, a very unpleasant sight. I work for a vet and do not enjoy cases where an animal has to be put to sleep because of its illness which could have been prevented.

Re:Closing of the Accident-Friendsville Road.

This decision reflects poor judgment and false economy on the part of the county roads department and the county commissioners.

This road has served the farmers and other local people well for almost 100 years. It is still used daily by farmers, Texas Eastern employees and local people who travel between Friendsville and Accident.

Don't close it just because it is not used by city tourists going to Deep Creek Lake and Oakland.

Sewer Extension

against.

There is a possibility that area five may be divided into two segments, since the majority of those on Third Street Extended, as far as the Buzz Updyke residence, are in favor of a sewer extension and those beyond that point seem in opposition. Additional votes are expected from several in that area who picked up questionnaires Monday night.

If the sewer is extended there, gravity flow could be utilized, according to France.

So far, there have been 123 responses from the 243 sent questionnaires.

Rates Explained

Information about the system and the rate schedule was explained by France, who noted that these rates are tentative pending completion of the contract work.

As projected now, those in town limits with water service would pay 67 percent of their water bill for sewer charges until completion of the system, when the cost would rise to 76 percent to include operating and maintenance costs.

Residents who do not have town water will pay an estimated $152 per year if they live in town and an estimated $265 per year if they live out of town and do not receive water from the town. These rates were computed on average water use figures based on family size.

Those who live out of the town limits but receive water from Oakland will pay the same rates as those in town with water.

Construction This Fall

Plans for the system must be complete by Easter, according to France, who will then submit the proposal for review and approval by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. After their approval, which generally is received in two months, the project will be advertised for bid, which will take approximately one month.

This would mean that construction would begin in early fall, if all goes as planned.

In all, $4,447,400 in local, state and federal funds will be used to purchase the existing industrial wastewater treatment plant at Sterling Processing Company, add additional ponds and equipment there, repair the existing collector system and add an interceptor line between the plant and Eighth Street, and provide whatever expansion is determined upon by the questionnaire.

Jobless Rate

1,100 persons, unemployment diminished by 1,226. During the month, local governments laid off workers, seasonal layoffs were noted in construction and seasonal hiring occurred in trade.

Western Maryland's overall unemployment rate continued to increase from 12.6 to 13.5 percent.

In Allegany County, the rate rose from 13.3 to 14.3 percent.

Among the 11 counties on the Eastern Shore and in Southern Maryland, unemployment increased in all but Cecil County where recalls of auto workers in Delaware caused the county's rate to fall from 11.1 to 10.0 percent.

Montgomery County's rate of 3.6 percent was the lowest.

structured march on Washington, for instance, he said, would accomplish little but bad publicity while offering responsible solutions for their problems could be far more effective.

Although the general sentiment Saturday seemed to be for Congress to repeal the law, Sen. Bambacus said this week he felt that it was unrealistic to expect President Reagan to repeal the entire law. Bambacus also said that "It is becoming very evident that the type of legislation passed by Congress will squeeze out the 'little guys,' the independent haulers who are the last frontier of the industry and representative of this country's backbone."

Second Impression

by Harry Fox

Star Trek fans will recognize the title above as being borrowed from the now-famous episode of the legendary TV show in which Mr. Spock's animal urges get the better of him.

No, this isn't about the glandular functions of fictional aliens. Why go where no man has ever gone before—just to look for trouble? Things are plenty bad right here at home!

For instance—the purple mountains' majesty of the pacific northwest is blowing up again, and the fruited plains below are being covered with ashes.

—In our neighboring state of West Virginia things are not good: roadside parks are up for adoption, since there is no money to reopen them in the spring. (That's a shame, since that state's network of roadside rest stops is among the most pleasant features of vacation travel along its winding highways.)

—And, heaven forbid, the crisis has reached Gov. Rockefeller's mansion. The staff of maids is being cut back. How far can things go?

—On the home front, we went home the other day to discover our teenaged daughter in a state of shock. Her eyes were curiously glassy, and she seemed to be struggling, through clenched teeth, to tell us something. The dishwasher had broken down. (Now, she is threatening the repairman with desperate acts unless it's fixed immediately—and her mother is planning to end it all by joining her in a lethal jump from atop the washing machine.)

—Those festive bonfires burning along Route 40 in Hopwood, outside Uniontown, aren't part of some mid-winter festival. They're coming from the encampment of the striking independent truckers, trying to keep warm in the cold February air. They're not alone. Camping out for your convictions isn't stupid. Shooting is, regardless of who's pulling the trigger.

—By now the president of the striking California (PA) teachers' union must be getting tired of commuting, to jail, on weeknights. As in most situations, the poor and the average will pay the heaviest price for the selfishness and/or stubbornness of the great and the powerful. This particular strike situation seems to deserve nothing but scorn for all parties involved.

—More about the World Council of Churches. Several readers have responded to the column about possible support of communist activities by the international church body. Of course, one doesn't write off all the good that such an institution does because of one or two incidents. But the point of the column was that we don't have to tolerate them or excuse those responsible. It is not so much a question of politicizing the work of the church, as many conservative critics of the WCC and NCC suggest, as allowing devotion to a cause to excuse doing the right thing in a wrong way. Unlike some other criticism, the 60 Minutes report was factual, the incidents happened, it is good watchdog journalism, and I am, as a church member, grateful to CBS for airing the matter.

On the bright side, Monday is St. Valentine's Day, and millions of fans of the legendary bishop will pay tribute to the pangs of love. Go ahead, indulge yourself in a little old-fashioned, romantic display of affection!

Finzel Couple Arrested For Aiding Escape

A Finzel couple, Harold E. Faidley, Sr., 37, and his wife, Mary I. Faidley, 37, were arrested Saturday by Tfc. Gary Berkebile, Maryland State Police, and charged with aiding an escape, which occurred in November of 1982 at the Backbone Mountain Youth Center, Rt. 135.

The two are accused of offering transportation from the camp to one of their sons and another teenager who were committed to the center by the court. The Faidleys are also accused of providing shelter after the escape.

Selby, Suter And Sines Named To Friendsville Council

Some 114 Friendsville voters went to the polls Tuesday, February 8, to choose three town councilmen. After votes were tabulated, Ross Selby, Larry Suter and Roger (Doug) Sines were named to the council for a two-year term.

According to Pearl Bittner, chairman of the election board, Selby had 82 votes; Suter 61, and Sines 55. Other candidates were Floyd Baker, 51 votes; Carl Helmick, 19; and Lucille Sines, 43.

Holdover councilmen now in mid-term are Raymond Schlosnagle, Gene Sines, and James Spear. The town's mayor is Karol Rush.

Friendsville has 233 registered voters.

Robbery Suspect Surrenders To Police Wednesday

An Oakland area man wanted in connection with the beating and attempted robbery of a Terra Alta man January 31 turned himself in to the sheriff's department last Wednesday.

Timothy Ford was charged with robbery and assault and remains in the county jail in lieu of ten percent of $5,000 bond.

Deputy Gnegy preferred the charges after Ford was linked to the incident near Crellin when Joseph Trout was beaten by two young men and his billfold removed from his pocket. The two continued beating Trout when they found the wallet did not contain any money.

Trout was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Bradley Manor, a deteriorating low-income housing project in Oakland, the commissioners felt the criterion for unsafe and unsanitary dwellings has not been met.

In the resolution is stated the criterion the commissioners used in their determination which included consideration whether dwelling accommodations in this County are unsafe or unsanitary, degree of overcrowding, percentage of land coverage, light, air, space and access available to inhabitants of such dwelling accommodations, size and arrangements of rooms, sanitary facilities, extent of conditions which endanger life or property.

Commissioner Gregg also pointed out that the original intent of creating a housing authority was to correct problems at Bradley Manor which is no longer a possibility since the Town of Oakland decided not to enter into a contract with the county PHA.

The commissioners stated they hoped there would be ample housing in the county to accommodate families who one-by-one are moving out of Bradley Manor.

Other points made by the commissioners in their decision to disband the PHA were that HUD would have too much control over the project and that there were adequate incentives to private enterprise to develop housing.

The commissioners praised the members of the county PHA for their work and pointed out towns could form a public housing authority.

Officials' Reactions

Few persons who were supporting the project were ready to make public statements about the commissioners' action.

Dale Harvey, chairman of the PHA, stated the PHA members were to meet this morning to discuss the matter.

Congresswoman Beverly Byron and Duane Yoder, executive director of Garrett County Community Action Agency, were not available for comment.

Bernard Shriber, HUD official, said his department was exploring a few options in solving problems at Bradley Manor, but noted after the commissioners' action there "were not many options left." HUD had offered the $5.8 million and local PHA to administer a housing project as its best solution.

He was reluctant to discuss specific options under consideration, but noted because of the housing shortage in Garrett County some options available in other communities could not be applied in Garrett County.

In response to the commissioners statement that towns could form a PHA, Shriber said his department was investigating that possibility, but "there is a very slim hope we can do anything in that direction."

He pointed out the only program which made new con-

CLEVERNESS WITH CLOTHESPINS — Frank Wilkins, former police chief of Grantsville who had to resign due to health reasons, has literally turned to a new craft—the art of creating with clothespins. Shown above with the five-foot long Victorian dollhouse made from clothespins, Wilkins is holding a grandfather clock made to scale and in keeping with the Victorian aura of the entire house. In the house are 110 pieces of period furniture carved from pine, windows with curtains and plexiglass panes for safety, two meditation rooms in the tower, a ballroom with fireplace, and an old-fashioned bath complete with water closet. Wilkins said that while he was laid up with a back problem, he began horsing around with clothespins and now has an array of items ranging from the dollhouses to tractor trailers, covered wagons, wheelbarrows, violins, owls, windmills, and miniature rocking chairs to mantel clocks. He estimates a dollhouse the size of the one above would take eight weeks to complete, without the furniture. Simple carpenter's glue is used to construct the exterior which is then stained if necessary, as in the case of clocks, lamps, etc. A resident of the National Hotel in Grantsville, where he has set up a craft shop, Wilkins will be giving a crafts show at the Cumberland mall February 17 and 18. The dollhouse above, which also features a music box in the roof, took approximately 1,000 clothespins to complete.

Dates Set For Hike And Bike For Handicapped

The Garrett Organization for the Handicapped (GOH) has set the dates for its annual Hike and Bike for April 30 and May 1, 1983, with rain dates May 21 and 22. GOH is a non-profit volunteer group that serves needs of handicapped citizens of Garrett County, and the Hike and Bike is its biggest fund raiser. At its February 3 meeting the group appointed Dorothy Leuba and Ruth Ryan as co-chairpersons of the 1983 Hike and Bike.

Officers of GOH during 1983 are Dorothy Leuba, president; Dan Elmlinger, vice-president; Alice Ann Ridder, treasurer, and Kathy Railey, secretary. At its January meeting the group established a calendar of events for 1983 and established committees and chairpersons in the areas of advocacy, budget and finance, by-laws and nominations, legislative, social and public relations, and scholarship. New committees this year are legislative and scholarship, the latter to appoint a recipient for the Dorothy R. Leuba Scholarship Fund established at the 1982 GOH Awards Dinner for any handicapped individual in Garrett County seeking education beyond high school.

In the month of February a Valentine's Day Dance will be held Tuesday, February 15 at the Oakland Fire Hall from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Special education students at Northern and Southern High Schools and participants of the Appalachian Center, Oakland, will attend the event sponsored by GOH. Activities will include physical education activities and games, lunch and dancing. Handicapped citizens of Garrett County age 16 and older are welcome to attend.

Louise Sutermeister, Executive Director of the Salem Meadow Mountain Farm located at Lower New Germany Road, presented a slide show and narrative about that program at GOH's February meeting. The home serves children who, as a result of their experiences, are emotionally, mentally and sometimes physically handicapped, or who have behavior, speech or learning difficulties. GOH presented a donation to Ms. Sutermeister for needs identified at the Meadow Mountain Farm.

GOH also donated a new slicer to the Country Oven Bakery, a business in Oakland that employs seven handicapped individuals. GOH provides advocacy services to any handicapped citizen of Garrett County in need of an advocate, and it sponsors the local Special Olympics. People in need of an advocate may call 334-1322 or 387-5810. The group will meet again on Thursday, March 3, at 7 p.m. at the Appalachian Center, 105 South Third Street, Oakland. Interested persons are welcome.

Reward $100-$1000

This week, Crime Solvers and the Garrett County Sheriff's Department are seeking information concerning a breaking, entering, and theft incident.

According to Deputy Richard Kutchman, the incident occurred at the residence of Charles Keefe, located off the Mayhew Inn Road. Investigation has revealed that unknown subjects gained entrance into the building by kicking out a kitchen door panel and unlocking the door. While inside, the subjects ransacked the home, apparently looking for cash. Taken from the home were a quantity of Susan B. Anthony dollars, Eisenhower dollars, Kennedy half-dollars, buffalo nickels, silver certificates, and paper currency.

All leads in this case have been exhausted, and Crime Solvers is seeking the help of the public. A reward of up to $1,000 in cash is being offered for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the person or persons responsible for this crime. Nurse-To-Nurse Consultation Service Noted

A new toll-free nurse-to-nurse consultation service is now available to nurses in Garrett County who work with cancer patients.

The Cancer Information Service (CIS) of the Johns Hopkins Oncology Center initiated this project to link nurses with cancer-related questions to oncology nurses who possess special expertise in a variety of specific subject areas. Developed in cooperation with the Center's Department of Nursing, the service will arrange consultations for nurses on such subjects as psychosocial aspects of cancer, pain control, radiotherapy, chemotherapy, a broad range of cancer sites, infection control, rehabilitation and dealing with pediatric cancers.

The nurse-to-nurse consultations will supplement the types of information currently available to nurses through the CIS including a variety of patient and professional education materials.

Other CIS staff are available to answer questions from cancer patients and family members as well as the general public.

For more information persons may call the CIS toll-free in Maryland at 1-800-492-1444.

Trooper Mattingly Promoted By Md. State Police

State Police officials at the LaVale barrack announce the recent promotion of several officers, including Michael R. Mattingly, who resides with his wife Cynthia, and their daughter, in Grantsville.

Mattingly's promotion includes a new assignment to the Prince Frederick barrack in Calvert County, where he will serve as the patrol supervisor.

Mattingly joined the State Police in 1974, and was promoted to trooper first class in 1977. He served as a road trooper.

Mattingly was presented the Field Operations Bureau's Barrack C Trooper of the Year award in 1982.

The promotions became effective in January.

BEND AND STRETCH — Warming up for the evening's session, these entrepreneurs of the arts make it look like child's play. Garrett Community College will offer a credit course of dance and exercise instruction beginning March 1. Pictured above, left to right, are Jeanne Matras, instructor of the sessions; Sherry Crone, and Ben Sincell. Enrollment is limited to 12 persons, and classes will be held at the Oakland Center dance room. According to Sincell, the classes, which will be held from March 1 through June 2, are "an excellent way to exercise. If I were a high school coach, I would encourage my off-season players to take the course." Sincell added that the late Paul Hunsicker of the University of Michigan attempted to discover the answer to the question, "What's the toughest sport?" He examined 41 physical activities, gauging the demands of each in the areas of coordination, endurance, flexibility, agility, balance, intelligence, and creativity. The answer? Ballet. The classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, beginning with Aerobics at 6:30 p.m.; jazz at 7:30 p.m.; and ballet at 8:30. Interested persons should contact GCC at 387-6666.

Finzel Residence Damaged By Fire

Firefighters from Grantsville were called to assist Eastern Garrett firemen last Thursday afternoon at a hourse fire on Gravel Hill Road near Finzel.

A one-story home owned by Mrs. Mae Hoover sustained an estimated $2,000 damage. Grantsville VFD was summoned by Garrett Central Alarm at 12:25 p.m. to assist Eastern Garrett, which had been dispatched by Allegany County Civil Defense earlier. Grantsville was cancelled about ten minutes later.

Jim Martin, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, said that the fire originated in the front porch area of the house and was apparently the result of a short in the wiring.

Occupants of the home, Gary and Brenda Rae, were not home at the time of the fire. There were no injuries.

Fire destroyed a garage at the same residence just three months ago, Martin said.

Maureen Durst, Robert Bobo Wed In Christmas Eve Ceremony

Maureen Yvonne Durst was married to George Robert Bobo on Christmas Eve. The double-ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. John A. Grant at Our Father's House on Route 135, near Oakland.

Attending the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. George DelSignore of Gormania, W. Va.

Prior to the wedding, Mrs. Bobo had been employed by The Maryland State Health Department as a Health Facilities Inspector. She is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. Mrs. Bobo also recently received Business Administration Training at the University of Baltimore.

Mr. Bobo was graduated as a First Lieutenant from The Culver Military Academy in Culver, Indiana, and from Grove City College in Grove City, Pennsylvania. He is currently the owner of Cornish Manor, Oakland.

For her wedding, the bride selected a champagne-colored, Victorian-styled wedding dress trimmed in Chantilly lace. Her wedding bouquet consisted of a small red poinsettia surrounded by cream-colored rose buds. Flowers for the altar were red and white poinsettias.

Music for the occasion was selected by Kathy Railey who also sang and played an accompaniment of guitar music.

Friends of the bride and groom attended a reception on January 30 at Cornish Manor where the couple now reside.

Library Corner

by Judith Miller

Q. I'm an aspiring writer, but as yet unpublished. I'd like to either get a job in the writing field, or sell some of my things on a freelance basis. What should I do now?

Come to the library, of course. Our new Job and Career Information Center has tons of books for the hopeful author. If it's a job you're looking for, John L. Munschauer's book, "Jobs for English Majors and Other Smart People," tells all about the hidden job market and various strategies for uncovering opportunities. Garrett County can be the exact place to get started if you read, "Writing for Regional Publications," by Brian Vachon, in which regional markets are described, and how the free-lancer can get the editor's attention in his own area. Also, Kirk Polking has written "Jobs for Writers," which suggests things you've possibly never considered such as advertising, public relations, translation, and how to find clients in a wide variety of places.

If you're at a loss for subject matter, even though you know there are plenty of things all around you, try reading "1001 Article Ideas," by Frank A. Dickson. This book is truly an "incredible compendium of article ideas just about guaranteed to capture the imagination of editors and readers," and should keep you busy writing into the indefinite future.

It could be that you already know what you're getting into, i.e., research or technical writing. In that case don't miss "Writing Skills for Technical Students," published by Delaware Technical and Community College. This book is geared to report writing for nurses, laboratory workers, architects, scientists and others who need to write in a clear and concise factual style.

Finally, "The Writer's Survival Manual," by Carol Meyer tells everything you need to know, steps to go about marketing your work, dealing with an agent, negotiating that final contract. Hurry to the Ruth Enlow Library. Who knows, maybe we'll be talking about one of your books in a future column.

C&P To Continue Meeting Equipment Needs Of Disabled

An exception has been granted by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to a ruling which would have prevented C&P Telephone Company from continuing to provide new telephone equipment to its disabled and hearing-impaired customers.

Under the FCC's Computer Inquiry II order, the ruling which deregulated the market for new telephone equipment on January 1, 1983, C&P is not permitted to provide new customer equipment, except from existing inventories as of December 31, 1982. However, the FCC has said that C&P and other Bell telephone companies can continue providing new telephone equipment to disabled and hearing-impaired customers. C&P serves approximately 12,000 handicapped persons in its four-state operating area including Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The FCC said the exception would remain in effect until it can conduct hearings on telephone service issues of concern to the disabled and hearing-impaired.

Joan Ntrios, manager of C&Ps Telephone Service Center for Disabled People in Washington, D.C., said the company is "very pleased" the FCC has made the exception. "Much of our equipment and the services we provide to people with hearing, sight, speech and motion impairments have been specially developed to meet very specific needs," he said. "If we were prevented from continuing to meet these needs, we're afraid many of these people would have a difficult time finding such specialized equipment elsewhere."

Customers with questions concerning C&P's Telephone Service Center for Disabled People may call toll-free on 1-800-424-8655. Deaf customers communicating with telecommunications devices for the deaf (TDDs) may call 1-800-424-8657.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

Chenille flowers and folded stars were created by the Eglon Homemakers at their February 1 workshop in the Eglon Memorial Building. A luncheon followed with assorted beverages and breads provided by the hostesses, Lorraine Fike and Shirley Strite.

The regular meeting followed the luncheon. Devotions were introduced with the reading of the Scripture by Shirley Strite; a reading, "Long Live Valentine's Day;" and a poem, "A Valentine for You." "Beautitudes for Housewives" was read by Lorraine Fike.

It was decided to pay for the morning's craft material from the treasury and to replenish it from the offering. The Safety Committee is to plan a public awareness program and inquire into possible donations to those already providing baby seats. The condolence committee asked that guidelines be provided them and it was decided that members of their immediate families would be given gifts when ill in hospital and on certain other occasions. One hundred dollars was given to the Eglon Ladies Aid Society for the use of the building for the past year and 1983. It was also decided to send $25 to the Jackson's Mill restoration fund.

Special features displayed were a stained glass window made by Shirley Strite, a latch hook hanging made by the hostess' son, Melvin Fike, and a knitted old-fashioned doll made by Marie Teets.

The next meeting will be March 1 at the Memorial Building with Ruth Teets teaching "My Letter of Instruction." Cynthia Wachtel and LaDeana Teets will be hostesses for the 1:30 p.m. meeting.

Rebecca Teets emphasized good buying habits with a quiz in her lesson on "Being a Smart Shopper."

The meeting concluded with a true-false questionnaire which checked knowledge, and sometimes mis-information concerning good buys.

Present for the day were, in addition to those named above, Linda Lewis, Lela Roth, Carolyn Wilt, Nina Layman, Mary Rembold and Shawn, Mildred Wilt, Barbara Heckert and Jean Winters.

Three units and 12 men were on the scene for about two hours with Mt. Grove VFD being called to assist, but returning to their station later.

District Court Cases Involve Assault, Thefts

A number of cases have recently been heard in Garrett County District Court by Judge Jack Turney. Included are charges of assault, battery, theft, and unlawful use of the telephone.

Marvin Wiley, Sr., 42, Grantsville, was found guilty of intoxication and battery charges filed against him by his wife, Nellie Wiley.

According to the record, the couple is separated. Mrs. Wiley claims her husband came to her residence, caused a domestic disturbance with her daughter, and refused to leave the premises.

Wiley was fined a total of $100, ordered to spend 30 days in jail, which was suspended, and placed on 24-months supervised probation.

In other court action, David L. Wilt, 24, Grantsville, was found guilty of battery against William J. Brendle, Fort Hill, Pa. Records say Brendle was helping Karen Wilt remove items from her vehicle when he was attacked by Wilt. An altercation ensued, and Brendle required $165.75 in medical bills.

Wilt was fined $250, ordered to reimburse the medical expense, and placed on two years supervised probation.

In a separate case, Harry Wilt, 19, Grantsville, was found guilty of carrying a deadly weapon on school property, and resisting arrest.

Tfc. Gary Berkebile, Maryland State Police, said Wilt resisted his attempt to take him into custody through a court-ordered warrant several days after the gun incident at the school.

He was fined a total of $200 and placed on 18-months supervised probation.

David Bittinger, Swanton, was fined $100, sentenced to serve a year in jail, which was suspended, and placed on 12-months unsupervised probation for his part in helping another party remove known stolen property from a summer residence along the Lower New Germany Road to an auction sale in Preston County, W. Va.

A Mt. Lake Park woman, Janice Marie Callis, was found guilty of unlawful use of the telephone through evidence supplied by C&P Telephone Company. Anonymous calls to another resident were traced to the telephone listed to Ms. Callis. She was fined $50, and placed on 30-days unsupervised probation.

A Grantsville man, John Greathouse, 64, was found guilty of assault on charges filed by Walter Shriver, Frostburg, concerning an incident in October of 1982.

According to Shriver, an incident concerning his wife was the catalyst for a dispute between the two men. Greathouse pointed a gun at Shriver, according to his testimony, following a highway chase involving both men. Shriver was charged by Greathouse on that highway incident, and found guilty of reckless driving. He was fined $50.

A passenger in the Greathouse auto, Albert Tyas, also of Grantsville, was found guilty of assault in pointing a gun at Shriver during the incident. He was fined $50 and placed on six-months unsupervised probation, as well.

In a separate case, Tildon Wilt, 21, Mt. Lake Park, was found not guilty on charges of theft lodged against him by Tools Unlimited, Oakland.

Cases against the following persons were declared nolle prosequi by the state's attorney: Larry Dunphy; George David Moore; Pauline Frazee; Joseph Graham; Joseph L. Butts; Randall Lowers; Michael Shannon; Benjamin Neal Wilt; Harold William Schmidt; Dwayne Boyce; Michael Boyce; Earl Boyce; Lawrence Ford; Elbert Bittinger; Geoffrey Myers; Robert Richard Rhodes; Glenn Harvey; and Sharon Rutledge.

Rams Slip By Upset-Minded Hawks, 53-52

The Southern Rams had little difficulty in disposing of University High of Morgantown on January 28 when the West Virginians came to Oakland and took home a 60-39 defeat. However, just six days later the two teams met again, this time on the Hawks' floor, and the game was completely different. Southern held on for the win Friday, however, 53-52.

By the end of the first quarter, it appeared that the Rams might again easily defeat the Hawks, as Southern was on top 13-8. But University battled back in the second quarter to tie the score at 27-all by intermission. The third quarter was played almost dead even, as the Hawks took a one-point advantage into the fourth quarter, 36-35.

The Rams surged to a six-point lead with just two minutes remaining in the game, mostly behind the hot shooting of Kevin Winters who hit eight points in the final stanza. However, Southern then proceeded to miss six straight free throws which nearly cost them the game.

Winters led the Rams with 23 points on nine goals and five of nine from the foul line and he also pulled 13 rebounds. Ron Bosley added 16 points on eight buckets.

Scott Bayles was the only Hawk to reach double figures, as he finished with 13 points.

The Rams were outshot from the floor by a 22-21 margin, but made good on 11 of 20 free throws, compared to an eight-for-17 effort by University.

The Southern jayvee team gained its eighth consecutive win by stopping University 66-56 in the preliminary.

Coach Oren Yoders Rams, now 9-7 on the season, will host Northern Friday evening. The jayvee contest will get underway at 6:30 and be followed by the varsity match-up at 8 p.m.

More Trout Stocked Into Bear Creek

Low water conditions and overcrowding at one of the state trout rearing facilities has prompted the Cold Water Program of Inland Fisheries to conduct early trout stocking of certain fishing areas, including one in Garrett County.

Approximately 5500 holdover rainbow trout (two year fish) were stocked during the second and third weeks in January. Nine hundred of that total were stocked in Bear Creek.

Why a Buck Stove?
The Buck Stove heating system's patented air flow pattern is the most innovative system for efficient wood heating currently available. The Buck Stove is constructed of 3 steel walls which create two air chambers. A rear-mounted fan pulls cool air into the outer chamber of the stove, and then blows it over the hot inner walls, where it soaks up heat from the firebox.
From there, four hot air vents direct the heated air out, down and in, resulting in a fast-moving mass of hot air directly in front of the stove, six to ten inches off the floor.

Another Laker Loss Followed By Wins Over Catonsville And Essex

Things got worse before they got better for the Garrett Community College Lakers during the past week. Coach Tom Bosley's cagers were stopped last Wednesday evening by Penn State-Fayette Campus, 88-79, on the Pennsylvanians' floor for their sixth loss in the previous seven outings. However, the Lakers finally returned to the winning track by putting together back to back victories. The first occurred Saturday at home against Catonsville, 80-76, and the second the following evening against visiting Essex, 81-74.

Garrett fell behind early against Fayette and was down 50-33 by halftime. The Lakers rallied to outscore their opponents 46-38 in the second half, but the effort fell short. Garrett hit only 36 percent from the floor.

Don Crawford paced the winners with 19 points, while Mike Potkul hit 17, Mike Brubisa 16, Jerry Hariston 14, and Dwight Henderson 13.

Eric Everhart, who is averaging almost 21 points per game for the Lakers, finished with 24 points on seven buckets and ten of 13 from the foul line. He also grabbed 14 rebounds.

Kip Washington bucketed 18 points for Garrett, while Bobby Smith, Tom Fulwood, and Tim Winters each chipped in ten.

The Lakers were outgunned from the floor by a 32-28 margin and converted 21 of 31 free throw opportunities, compared to a 24-for-30 performance by Fayette, whose record was improved to 16-4.

The Lakers scored the first 12 points of the game and held a comfortable lead against Catonsville on Saturday until the final minute of the contest when the Cardinals cut the margin to four points, 75-71, at the 45 second mark. Garrett had led by as many as 14 points and were on top 36-25 at intermission.

The Lakers were again outshot from the floor, this time by a 35-34 margin, but secured the win at the foul line by sinking 12 of 18 tosses, compared to a six-for-11 effort by Catonsville.

Fulwood emerged as the Lakers' top scorer, netting 24 points on 11 goals and a pair of free throws. Everhard followed with 17 points and recorded 11 rebounds. Winters was close behind with 16 points.

Catonsville's Billy Swann led all scorers with 25 points on a dozen buckets and one free throw. Joe Rhodes and Tony Hill each netted 14 points and David Brown contributed 11.

The Cardinals dropped to 12-13 overall.

It was again at the foul line that the Lakers achieved victory Sunday afternoon against Essex, as the visitors meshed 34 field goals compared to 33 by Garrett. The Lakers hit 15 of 18 free throws, however, while the Knights managed to connect on just six of 11 tries.

The game was unlike the one the day before, though, as it was the Lakers who had to rally in the second half to overcome a 41-35 deficit at intermission.

Garrett jumped out to a 9-4 advantage, but the Knights caught fire and went on top by as many as nine, 39-30, before the first half was over.

Kip Washington put the Lakers on top for good, 62-60, when he hit a jump shot at the 8:51 mark of the second half. Garrett then reeled off 13 of the following 15 points scored to put the game out of reach for the Knights.

Fulwood again paced the Laker offensive attack as he hit 11 baskets and all four of his free throw opportunities for 26 points. He also was credited with five steals.

Everhart was close behind with 25 points on nine buckets and seven of eight at the line, plus seven rebounds. Washington provided 12 points and eight assists and Tim Winters chipped in ten points.

The Knights were led by Otis Brown who finished with 24 markers on ten baskets and four free throws. Elias Kanaris added 16 points and Lawrence Green, 11.

The win improved the Lakers' overall mark to 11-12 and their JUCO conference slate to 5-7. Essex fell to 16-10 and 4-8 in league play.

The Garrett cagers will attempt to make it three wins in a row this evening when they entertain Hagerstown Junior College.

Huskies Whipped By Undefeated Aggies, 68-55

Flintstone has emerged victorious in all 16 of its varsity basketball encounters this season and the most recent victims of the Aggies were the Northern Huskies who were stopped 68-55 Friday evening at Flintstone.

Carlos Owen, the Aggies' leading scorer, finished with 23 points on 11 of 21 shots from the field and one free throw. The 6-8 center also hauled down 15 rebounds, blocked four shots and provided six assists.

Nothern's Brad Yoder, who is leading the area in scoring with a 29 point average, was held to just seven points in the first half, but came back after intermission to finish with 24 on ten buckets and four of six free tosses.

The Huskies' only lead in the game was after Yoder sunk the first bucket of the contest. The Aggies immediately took control from that point and surged to a 19-8 lead by the end of the first quarter. The Huskies were down 37-21 at the half and 51-37 when the third stanza ended.

Northern managed to come within six points, 40-34, at the 4:17 mark of the third period, but they could get no closer as Owen answered with a dunk and a layup.

Also reaching double figures for the winners were Greg Rinker and Bill Rice who netted 16 and ten points, respectively.

Brent Beachy finished with 12 points for the Huskies.

The Aggies outshot the Huskies by a 29-22 margin and converted ten of 16 free throws, compared to an 11-for-13 effort by Northern.

It was the second time this season Flintstone defeated Northern, having won the first contest 76-63.

The loss dropped Harv Speicher's Huskies to 9-8 on the season. They will play again Thursday evening at home against Meyersdale and are scheduled to face Southern Friday in Oakland.

Ram Wrestlers Notch Sixth By Stopping Campers

The Southern High wrestling team picked up its sixth win of the season against a single loss and two ties by edging Allegany Monday evening, 28-23, on the Campers' mats.

Southern Jayvees Hold Eight-Game Winning Streak

The most successful Southern High School basketball team so far this season is the jayvee Ram squad, under Coach Ken McLaughlin, which has been unbeaten since December 30. The current eight-game winning streak is the longest of any jayvee team since McLaughlin took the helm in 1978. The team holds an 11-3 record, with just a handful of games remaining.

The sophomores are led by Steve Bennett in scoring, by Dave McLaughlin in defensive ball handling and by J. R. Gibson and Wayne Dixon in rebounding.

Allegany High transfer Terry DeWitt, who plays guard, has also contributed greatly to the quickness of the team, according to McLaughlin. He recently hit both ends of a one-and-one foul situation with no time remaining to give the Rams a win over previously undefeated Keyser.

Mike Hill assumes the dual role of guard and forward and is, McLaughlin says, most valuable as the sixth man. Joe Kavanaugh and Scott Hershman round out the line-up.

The team utilizes a pressure defense and a fast-breaking offense. McLaughlin believes that if the team wins its remaining games, "this Ram squad could lay claims as the best jayvee team in the area."

The team is scheduled to meet Northern this Friday in Oakland. Tip-off will be 6:30, and the game will be followed by the varsity contest between the Rams and Huskies.

Dumpster Site Locations Listed

Citizen queries about current county dumpster site locations prompted staff in the Garrett County commissioners' office to release those locations as well as announce plans for future consolidation of sites.

The plan is a continuation of the reduction of the number of dumpster sites which began the first week of January.

County clerk Robert Fousek noted the county commissioners are considering consolidating three current sites into one and are negotiating for a piece of property to be the consolidation site. The three sites under consideration are the Bethlehem Road site, the Crellin site, located on Rt. 39 west of Oakland, and the Ben DeWitt Road site, located on land at the fork of Ben DeWitt Road and Rt. 219 south.

The remaining county dumpster sites are:

Friendsville, located on Rt. 42 west of Friendsville and serving the northwest section of the county;

DNR, located on Rt. 40 west of Chestnut Ridge Road and east of Grantsville and serving the northeast section of the county;

Bumble Bee Road, located on Bumble Bee Road in the McHenry area and serving the central section of the county;

Kings Run, located on Kings Run Road off of Rt. 219 north and serving the central east section of the county; and Salt Bin, located on Rt. 135 next to the State Highway salt storage site and serving the southeast section of the county.

All county officials involved in the consolidations have expressed delight in the response to the actions by county citizens.

The county commissioners, the sheriff, the roads department administrator and Browning-Ferris Industries operations manager all stated citizens have cooperated and incidents of mislaid trash have been minimal.

Garrett County Forestry Board To Be Revived

The Maryland Forest and Park Service is attempting to revitalize county Forestry Boards, which have been inactive for one-and-a-half years, project forester Ernie Metz reported last week.

Metz, who noted Garrett County's board was among the most active in the state, said county forestry boards became inactive one-and-a-half years ago after large-scale resignations of members occurred in response to a State Ethics Commission requirement that they file financial disclosure statements.

Forestry board members reasoned they performed as volunteers in an advisory capacity only and should not be required to file extensive reports similar to those filed by elected officials.

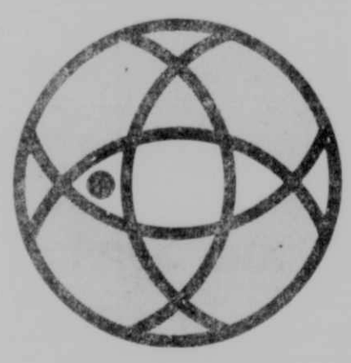
After the massive opposition, the ethics commission has since ruled that only those forestry board members who are regulated in any way by the state need file a shortened financial disclosure form. Those considered to be under state regulation include licensed forestry products operators, licensed tree experts and participants in tax programs.

Four of the seven members of the Garrett County board resigned during the controversy, but have indicated they were willing to rejoin.

Metz said the county board was valuable to the forestry department because it represented the views of county citizens.

Several programs sponsored by the board included the bicentennial tree dedication program, the arbor day program, forest conservation workshops and the county tree selection program.

One issue the revitalized county forestry board will be asked to undertake will be assistance in planning a snowmobile trail program, said Metz.



Metz said the official members of the board will not be announced until after a meeting in February when former members will discuss the financial disclosure requirements to determine whether they will rejoin the board.

Body of Christ?

The Church of Jesus Christ is his body. Consider it this way. Jesus no longer walks the earth. He no longer reaches out his hand to feed . . . or heal . . . or teach.

But his work of feeding, teaching, healing is still being done through the people he calls together through baptism.

That's us. The Church is the Body of Christ . . . banded together to do the work of our Lord. That is the Gospel. It brings us together. It is our reason for being. You will be welcome to join us in partnership with Our Lord.

Would you like to know more of this confessional and ecumenical church? A cordial welcome will be yours.

Icy Roads Cause Minor Mishaps

Weather-related causes were listed as contributing factors in several accidents around the district this week, which resulted in minor injuries and property damage. State police pressed charges against several of those involved in the mishaps.

Early Friday, an accident was reported on US. Rt. 48, near the state line. Tfc. Ron Georg, investigating for the McHenry detachment, said William Martin, 33, Bridgeport, W. Va., and Marcy Kendall, 21, also of Bridgeport, escaped serious injury when they were thrown from a jeep in which they were riding.

According to the trooper, the eastbound vehicle went out of control on the slippery roadway, crossed the slow lane onto the shoulder, hit the guardrail, crossed back over both lanes, and hit the center guardrail.

Martin was charged by police with negligent driving. Northern Rescue Squad responded to the scene, and personnel examined the pair, but no transport was made.

A second accident on Friday morning resulted in a charge of failing to keep right of center to be lodged against Roger L. Strouse, Jasper Riley Road, Oakland.

According to the investigating officer, Strouse was driving a pickup truck which was making a left turn onto Marsh Hill Road from Sang Run Road when he struck a vehicle operated by Barry F. Conger, 27, Marsh Hill Road. Neither vehicle was able to stop because of the snow-covered highways, and the two collided nearly head-on.

Another Friday accident in Friendsville occurred when a vehicle driven by John H. Frazee, 24, was traveling eastbound on Maple Street. According to police, when Frazee turned into the Friendsville Discount Gas Mart, his vehicle skidded on the icy driveway and slid into the gas pumps. Neither Frazee or his passenger, Beth Ann Frazee, 21, was injured. The accident occurred approximately 9:45 a.m.

In a seperate accident, Robin L. Taylor, Swanton, was treated and released from Garrett Memorial Hospital last Wednesday morning following an accident on the Swanton Hill Road, near the Rt. 135 intersection.

Police say the accident involved two trucks owned by Interlease Corporation of Baltimore and John E. Cogley, Swanton, and a car, driven by Taylor.

Last Wednesday, a school bus carrying three students struck the back of a dump truck driven by Hetzel Berg, Maysville, W. Va., which was stopped on Chestnut Grove Road, off Rt. 135. The bus driver did not see the truck because of dense fog, and after hitting the brakes, slid into the rear of the unoccupied truck.

None of the children was injured, and police charged Berg with parking on the traveled portion of a highway. The bus was driven by William W. Lipscomb, Swanton.

Patricia A.Starford, Mt. Lake Park, escaped serious injury Wednesday morning when she lost control of her vehicle along the Sand Flat Road at approximately 7:25 a.m.

Police say the woman was northbound on the highway when the car skidded off the roadway, struck several fence posts, and overturned on its top in a field.

Police charged Starford with traveling at a speed too great for road conditions.

Violence reports due to the current independent truckers strike seem at a minimum in the Garrett County area, with only scattered reports of vandalism. Police say that several rocks were thrown at trucks as they traveled U.S. Route 48 in the Finzel Road area, and Thursday, the State Highway Administration sent crews to remove nails that were strewn on the road on Route 48 in the westbound lane. One flatbed truck driver reported a flat tire to police, and one county resident reported a flat tire in his personal vehicle after it traveled through the nail-strewn lane. Several reports of nails strewn on a section of Rt. 48 near Cumberland and a section on Route 495 near Grantsville, were also received by local law enforcement personnel.

Public Hearing On Proposed Road Abandonment Set

A public hearing on proposed abandonments of some county roads has been scheduled by the Garrett County Commissioners for Tuesday, February 22, at 1 p.m. in their meeting room in the county courthouse, Oakland.

County officials stated the roads total to 9.6 miles and have no persons living along them or were short distance roads.

Sheriff Gains Two Interns

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is providing on the job educational assistance for two Allegany Community College students through the college's intern program.

The two students, both working toward their Associate of Arts degrees in criminal justice, are working nine hours a week learning actual police procedures for four types of police work, radio dispatch, patrol, criminal investigations, and administration.

The two students assigned here are Larry Eugene Jacks, son of Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Jacks, Red House, and Brenda Hawkins, of Grantsville. Ms. Hawkins is also employed at Goodwill Nursing Home in addition to attending college.

Both young people began their duties last week, and will continue working until the second week in May.

Dry Run Mennonite School Now In Third Year Of Operation

The following article was written by Martha Glotfelty, Bittinger-Glades news correspondent for The Republican.

All over our nation in recent years we have seen an increase in private schools, many of these financed and supported by various churches. Many folks are dissatisfied with our public schools.

One such school was relocated near Bittinger and is called the Dry Run Mennonite School. For two years, the small building which houses the school was located on the Foxtown Road. Then a plot of ground was obtained near Bittinger and Beitzel Welding and Rigidply Rafters moved it to its new location.

The primary goal of the school is to recognize God as the Author of all truth and to prepare students to live according to His divine plan.

This is the third year for the school and at the present time there are 24 students. I recently visited this remarkable school and saw how it functions.

Free-will offerings from the Dry Run Mennonite Church support the school. Alva Maust is pastor of the church and Sanford Bender is his assistant. Parents provide transportation and children bring a packed lunch.

There is one large room which is the Learning Center, an office, two restrooms, and recreational facilities, coat-racks, etc., in the basement.

The day's work begins at 8:45 a.m. and closes at 3:15 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The day's work ends at 2 p.m. on Fridays.

Sanford Bender is the principal of the school and Sonya Bender is the supervisor. Wanda Maust is a monitor and Wilma Maust is a student teacher's aide.

Each student works at his own rate of speed and the individualized work is put up in 12 Self-Pacs per year for each subject. A student needing help raises a small flag.

There are four major subjects: Mathematics, electives of Business Math and Accounting; English, including penmanship; social studies, including world history, American history, civics and geography; and science, including levels of biology and chemistry.

Study materials used are purchased from Basic Christian Education, Inc., Nottawa, Michigan. Over 500,000 students are enrolled by the company producing this curriculum. They are being used in 51 countries and are produced by an editorial production staff of over 250 experienced personnel.

Arts and crafts are taught one semester, as well as music, including vocal work and basics of music. Electives include typing, home economics, etc. Guest speakers and special events give variety to chapel periods. Bible memory verses are learned and recited each month.

There are recreational activities of all sorts: races, games, singing, picnic lunches, Christmas banquets, making homemade ice cream and trips. Last year, their school annual showed pictures of trips taken, including those to Blackwater Falls, W. Va., Arlington Cemetery, The Air and Space Museum, other museums, and a visit to the nation's capitol.

The Board of Directors of the school include Alva Maust, chairman; Sanford Bender, administrator and principal, Larry Champ, and Leonard Orendorf, secretary-treasurer.

A brochure from the school states that one new school of this type is being organized and set up every six hours.

Function And Statistics Of FmHA Explained

The following is an article supplied by Timothy T. Taylor Garrett County supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, which describes the function of the FmHA and 1982 statistics.

FmHA is a lender of last resort. The agency cannot lend to any farmer who can get a loan on reasonable terms from a bank or any other lending institution. As a result, FmHA makes loans to the highest risk farmers, those who have been turned down by others. The 270,000 FmHA farm borrowers account for only 12 percent of all farm credit in the country. Loans are repaid, with interest, to the U.S. Government.

Despite hard economic times and dire predictions of massive foreclosures, FmHA was able to stay with over 97 percent of its farm borrowers in FY 1982.

Through its regular loan programs, FmHA enabled nearly 100,000 farmers to stay in business in FY 1982. In addition, another 42,000 borrowers are still in business because FmHA went the extra mile in working out deferral, rescheduling and subordination agreements. The agency deferred principal and/or interest payments for 3,600 farmers and rescheduled or reamortized loans for 12,000 borrowers. FmHA also subordinated its security for nearly 30,000 borrowers to enable them to obtain loans from private lenders. In addition to these servicing actions, 25 percent of the 270,000 FmHA borrowers were being carried as delinquent at the end of the year.

Under three percent, or about 8,000 high-risk FmHA borrowers went out of business during FY 1982 for one reason or another. Six thousand (1.4 percent) liquidated their loans and 1,245 (4/10ths of one percent) chose bankruptcy because of economic pressures. Foreclosure was completed in only 844 cases (3/10ths of one percent). In a large number of these cases, the decison to leave the land for financial reasons was not caused by Farmers Home.

FmHA will continue its lenient loan policy during 1983. The agency will assist farmers, on a case-by-case basis, even if they are behind in payments due to circumstances beyond their control if they have kept their agreements with FmHA, are using acceptable management practices and have properly maintained secured chattel and real estate. FmHA expects to stay with almost all of its seriously delinquent borrowers if they can show that any new loan, plus interest, can be repaid out of the current year's receipts.

Present interest rates for established farmers are 10-3/4% for real estate, 10-1/4% for farm operating purposes. Lower rates of 5-1/4% for real estate, and 7-1/4% for farm operating purposes are available for new and beginning farmers.

Rural Housing loan rates of 10-3/4% or less are available for applicants meeting certain eligibilty guidelines.

For further details persons may contact Timothy T. Taylor, county supervisor, Farmers Home Administration, Garrett County Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland 21550 (334-9544).

Oakland Police, Deputy Assist On Two Arrests

Oakland city police and the sheriff's department collaborated on two arrests involving intoxication on February 6. The two arrests were unrelated, according to police.

Robert Ray Coffman, 29, was arrested by Officer Ron Beeghly and Deputy Charles Nolan on a driving while intoxicated charge. Coffman was later released on his own recognizance.

Terry Wayne Sharpless, 22, was arrested by the same police officials for battery, resisting arrest, alcoholic beverage intoxication, and disorderly conduct following an incident at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Sharpless remains in the county jail in lieu of $2,000 bond.

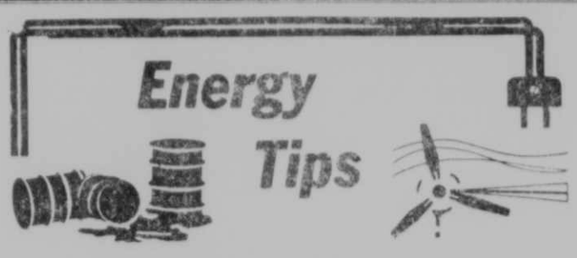
Mathias Sponsors Legislation For Conservation Corps

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) recently sponsored legislation aimed at providing 100,000 jobs for young people on projects to improve the natural and cultural resources of the country.

The American Conservation Corps Act would include young men and women, with special consideration for the disadvantaged, between the ages of 16 and 25. They would be employed at conservation centers working on projects that deliver long-term benefits to the public.

"This program reflects the spirit of the old, but not forgotten, Civilian Conservation Corps, perhaps the most popular and successful public works program this country has ever undertaken," Mathias said. "With overall unemployment now at 10.8 percent and minority youth unemployment over 50 percent, it is not hard to draw a parallel to the 1930's when the CCC was in full swing."

The conservation centers would be placed in areas of high youth unemployment and provide skill training, job guidance and placement information to the enrollees. Projects would include reforestation, erosion and flood control, strip mine reclamation and rangeland management as well as work in urban areas on parks and community facilities.



Mathias said, "President Reagan says he does not believe in federal job creation programs, yet each time he visits Camp David he enjoys the fruits of the CCC's labors. He need only look around him as he enjoys the beauty of Camp David and the Catoctin Mountains to see the concepts embodied in this measure area a proven success."

Last June the House of Representatives passed a similar bill, but the Senate failed to take any action.

"It is a hard work program that is based heavily on cost-effective work for urgent urban and rural resources protection and productivity," the Maryland Senator pointed out. "The addition of skill training and post corps placement make sure that it is not a 'dead-end' program.

"This bill is not the final answer to youth unemployment but passage of this legislation can play a significant role in easing the tragic situation," Mathias said. "Futhermore, passage of the American Conservation Corps will send a ringing message to the American people, namely that the Congress is willing and able to deal with our unemployment problem."

CONTROLLING MOISTURE

In areas where January temperatures average 35° or lower, the first signs of spring may include dark stains and peeling paint on house siding caused by condensation.

A typical family of four produces about 8-12 lbs. of water vapor by respiration a day. Cooking for the same family generates about 5 lbs. of water per day, showering generates about ½ lb. of water vapor per shower. Unless this excess water vapor is removed during the heating season, it will increase the humidity and condense on cold surfaces such as window glass. It can also move through walls or the ceiling to the cold surface, and condense as ice or frost. During the warm periods the frost melts, causing moisture in the structure, and consequently staining, paint blistering and decay. In addition, moisture breaks down insulation and reduces its effectiveness. Ironically, insulation can make moisture problems worse. Generally, the more efficient the insulation is in retarding heat flow, the colder the outer surfaces become and the greater the potential for moisture condensation.

One way to limit the amount of water vapor in the house is to control the water vapor at its source. Some of the most critical moisture sources are: poor site conditions; uncovered ground in a crawl space; concrete floor slabs (at or below grade); clothes dryers; and kitchens, laundries and baths.

All of these moisture sources can be controlled. Some solutions are:

1) Poor site conditions: grade the lot correctly for good drainage; use wide overhangs and/or gutters and downspouts to divert rain water away from the foundation.

2) Uncovered ground in crawl space: lay a 4 or 6 mil polyethelene film vapor barrier over the ground to stop the rise of vapor from the ground; provide foundation vents.

3) Concrete floor slabs: install a 4 inch base of gravel or crushed rock under the slab, place a 6 mil polyenthelene film between the gravel and the slab.

4) Clothes dryers: vent clothes dryers to the outside.

5) Kitchens, laundries, baths: provide an exhaust fan, either manually or automatically controlled.

Another moisture control mechanism is the vapor barrier. A vapor barrier of aluminum foil, polyethelene film, or kraft and asphalt building paper minimizes moisture movement into the wall structure. A separate polyethelene film vapor barrier is recommended in addition to any vapor barrier that may be attached to one side of roll blankets or batts.

Vapor barriers should be placed as close as possible to the warm side of all exposed walls, ceilings and floors. They may be attached to the back of the plaster base or drywall (as in the case of aluminum foil on the back of the wall board). Aluminum foil or kraft paper barriers are often attached to the face of blanket or batt insulation; and polyethelene film is often used to cover the entire insulated wall, and is attached to the face of the studs. In remodeling work, a barrier is sometimes applied to the existing wall surface and then a new interior wall finish installed over it. To be effective, the barrier should be continuous and unbroken to prevent moisture passage around it. All joints should be lapped and securely fastened on studs, joists or bracing.

Next month's article will conclude the topic with a discussion of ventilation as a third way to combat moisture problems. Kitzmiller Water $310,500 from an Appalachian Regional Commission grant; $244,000 from a Housing and Urban Development block grant obtained by the town, and $126,000 as the local share to be recovered through user costs.

Operation and maintenance of a treatment facility owned by the town has been tentatively estimated to be $17,000 per year, whereas estimated costs for obtaining water from West Virginia were $21,000 annually. This would not include water use metered by West Virginia, which could escalate rapidly in the case of a large fire or serious leak in the transmission system.

Beitzel said the town had also been concerned about the possibility of system failure if water came from West Virginia. Since there is a 700 foot drop in elevation from Elk Garden to Kitzmiller, this would mean some 300 pounds of pressure per square inch of line, a hazard if there should be any weak place in the system, particularly in the pressure reducing valves or in private homes.

If the town constructs a treatment facility, the capacity would be 75 gallons per minute, or more than 100,000 gallons per day. This water could be treated during operation of one eight hour shift per day and stored in the town's storage tank. The town's water would also flow to the storage tank through gravity system which would not even need to include a large impoundment. All that would be needed is a small water intake impoundment on the stream, which would direct water into some 1,500 feet of line and thus into the 140,000 gallon tank.

Prison Officials Propose "Temporary" Penal Housing On Eastern Shore

+ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Eastern Shore lawmakers complained Tuesday they were not consulted about an agreement that could lead to construction of temporary prison buildings in Somerset County.

"I heard no discussion of it even. It's really hard to believe," said Delegate Mark Pilchard, D-Worcester.

State corrections officials and prisoner lawyers agreed Monday on a plan that calls for the construction of 840 beds in temporary housing at the site Gov. Harry Hughes selects for the state's next prison, said Emory Plitt Jr., the state's legal counsel for the corrections department.

A gubernatorial task force last week recommended to Hughes the construction of a prison in Somerset County. Hughes told the group he wanted more information about possible sites in the county before he makes his final decision, probably later this week.

Some Somerset County officials initially expressed an interest in attracting the prison as a way to reduce the county's chronic unemployment. But county officials changed their mind and met last week with Hughes' advisers to express their opposition.

Plitt said the agreeexent, which was filed in U.S. District Court and is subject to the court's approvag, permits the state to continue the practice of housing two inmates in cells built for one.

The new temporary housing, which will be used to reduce crowded conditions at the House of Correction in Jessup, could be constructed as early as December, Plitt said. If approved by the 1983 legislature, construction of a new prison would take about four years.

But several legislators vehemently objected to the location of the temporary buildings in Somerset County, saying they primarily feared for the public safety.

Delegate Lewis Riley, R-Wicomico, echoed Pilchard's complaint that he was not consulted.

"It certainly came as a surprise to me. It certainly seems like an unfair change of plans," Riley said.

Sen. Joseph J. Long Sr., D-Wicomico, said he was "personally very upset. We don't want a prison and we sure as heck don't want temporary housing either."

Long, whose district also includes Somerset County, noted potential logistical problems with building temporary facilities in areas without an adjacent prison to provide support services.

"I don't know where they going to get food. Maybe they'll set up outdoor chow lines like we had in the Army," he said.

Delegate Paul Muldowney, D-Washington, who last year fought unsuccessfully to stop construction of temporary housing used to alleviate crowded conditions at Hagerstown prisons, said: "Those temporary things up in Hagerstown are nothing but problems."

He said the three temporary buildings were built to hold 100 inmates, but are packed with about 150 each.

"There is no facility for recreation, no facilities to take the edge off. We've already had disciplinary problems there," said Muldowney, vice chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee that oversees correctional facilities.

Muldowney agreed with Long that it would be difficult to feed inmates at the Somerset County temporary units.

"They will have to be fed out of some state facility or catered or something," he said.

Long vowed he would emphasize to Hughes that the former Naval training center in Bainbridge should be converted to a prison because it is closer to the Baltimore metropolitan area where most inmates come from.

"Why build a prison so far away when family members have to commute to visit their relatives? Somerset is 300 miles from Baltimore," Long said. "At least build it within a stone's throw. Bainbridge is only an hour away."

Long conceded selecting a site for a penal facility is a thorny issue, adding, "Nobody wants a prison."

"But I don't know what we can do to fight it. I don't know if we have the votes," he said. "A lot of times your fellow lawmakers will smile at you and then vote against you."

New Measure Would Move Prisoners From County Jails To State Facilities

+ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A bill that would shift state inmates out of local jails and into Maryland's already overcrowded penal system would necessitate construction of another prison, a orrections division spokesman said Tuesday.

"There is a well-known burden on the corrections department. Our average daily (prison) population was 7,800 in December 1981. That population grew to 10,990 in December 1982," said Mason Waters, a spokesman for the corrections department.

"This bill would have a tremendous impact. There are about 800 prisoners in local jails that would be transferred to state facilities," Waters said. "I suggest that is the equivalent to building another state institution."

The measure, introduced by Sen. Julian Lapides, D-Baltimore, would permit judges to order convicts sentenced to more than three months to serve their sentences in a state facility instead of local jails. Current law permits convicts to be housed in local detention centers or jails for sentences up to 18 months.

"Local jails do carry the great burden as far as paying the expenses of the incarcerated," Lapides told the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee Tuesday. "It's safe to assume that Baltimore and Prince George's County will be the major beneficiaries of this bill because they have the bulk of the prisoners in local facilities."

Mary Ann Willin, director of the Baltimore Mayor's Coordinating Council on Criminal Justice, said local facilities "cannot properly utilize programs such as medical care and rehabilitation for the short-term inmate because they are too crowded."

Are you dropping hard-earned bucks all along the highway?

Let's face it.

With the cost of gasoline out of sight it makes better cents, and dollars too, to shop locally.

Driving all over the countryside just to save a few cents just doesn't make sense.

The small amount of money you might save may be more than eaten up by the cost of gas. Shop locally, and save time, your energy, fuel and money.

No need to roam... the best shopping's here at home!

Judge Reinstates Student Editor Expelled After Discrimination Story

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A judge Tuesday reinstated a Howard University student newspaper editor who was expelled under a cloud of controvejsy, saying her constitutional rights were violated, the student and her lawyer said.

School officials said Janice McKnight was expelled Feb. 1 for making false statements on her admissions application.

But Ms. McKnight said she was dismissed for publishing a series of stories in the campus newspaper "The Hilltop" about a sex discrimination suit filed by a university attorney who was fired.

District of Columbia Superior Judge George Goodrich issued a temporary 10-day restraining order, instructing "the university not to interfere with my rights as a student and editor," Ms. McKnight said.

"He said that he had reviewed the articles and heard the arguments by both counsels and was persuaded that my First Amendment rights had been abridged," she said.

Her lawyer, John M. Clifford, said the court ordered Howard officials to stop "interfering with her exercise of free press rights, guaranteed by the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution."

University officials were not available for comment.

Earlier, about 300 students staged a rally to protest the school's alleged censorship of the campus newpaper and expulsion of Ms. McKnight.

"I feel really good. I feel like justice has prevailed," she said. "He (the judge) said it was a breach of contract in terms of my being a student in good standing at Howard University. And that I should be able to return.

"Judge Goodrich said I had not receivedsdue process as prescribed by the Board of Trustees of Howard University," Ms. McKnight said.

Some students demanded the resignation of Howard President James E. Cheek, saying McKnight's dismissal was an example of "censorship."

Debbie Nelson, the Hilltop's managing editor, said the staff was "outraged at the lack of due process" shown Ms. McKnight. "If Congress cannot make a law abridging our First Amendment rights, then neither can James Cheek," Ms. Nelson said to the cheers of the student group.

Ms. McKnight, a senior and editor since last April, filed suit Monday seeking reinstatement as well as $100,000 damages.

Ms. McKnight said she was expelled because she printed articles detailing sex discrimination charges filed by school attorney Michael Harris against the university's general counsel, despite Cheek's request that she not run the stories.

Harris was fired last week for "being at odds with the university's objectives," a university statement said.

McKnight returns to court Feb. 18 for Goodrich to hear the case in its entirety.

Hughes May Back Reform In '83

Pension For State Employees Will Be Subject Of New Study

+ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Trustees of the state's retirement boards ordered a new study of the state pension programs Tuesday, but legislators intent on reforming the program this year said another study would not stop them from trying.

"I'm not backing off," said Delegate Clayton Mitchell, D-Kent, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, after a briefing on the mounting cost of the pension programs by the state actuary, the firm of Milliman and Robertson.

Mitchell is expected to introduce legislation that would change the way the state retirement programs work, and similar proposals are also expected to be introduced by Senate President Melvin Steinberg, D-Baltimore County.

Gov. Harry Hughes, who originally said the pension problems should be studied until next year, indicated last week that he, too, may join those who want the program changed this year.

Thomas Bleakney of Milliman and Robertson tried to explain to the trustees of the retirement systems why the increase in pension costs to Maryland this year was about $103 million more than had been anticipated.

With the aid of a slide projector, Bleakney and his assistants showed graphs and tables and talked about the state's six different pension programs, about contribution rates, and pension costs as a a percent of payroll, and finally conceded: "We tend to live in a world of mumbo-jumbo."

He tried again to explain where the $103 million increase came from, saying, "There are a number of peculiarities to the process that generate irregularities."

He said his firm could pin down those peculiarities and avoid future irregularities in a 60-day study that will cost the state approximately $50,000. The trustees agreed.

"We're going to try to see if we can get some real pertinent information back real soon," said Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Employees' Retirement and Pension Systems.

But legislators such as Mitchell said the study would show how to even out annual state contributions to the pension systems, but would not address the question of whether the programs cost too much to begin with.

"The only thing he's going to try and find is a way to afford the system we're in. We have to make the policy decision as to whether we can afford that system," he said.

Bleakney said about 70 percent of this year's unexpected increase would not necessarily occur again in future years. He said $57 million of the increase was the result of a bookkeeping shift in when the figures on which the actuary bases its annual estimate of pensions cost were made available.

Actuaries determine the longrange cost of pension programs and, under Maryland's constitution, the governor must include in his budget the amount of money the actuary says is needed to cover the cost of the pension programs.

"The whole point of what we're trying to do is avoid surprises," Bleakney told a group that was obviously surprised late last year when the sudden increase in pension costs was suddenly revealed.

Violence Declines In Western Pa. As Truckers' Strike Dwindles

Pennsylvania state police said Tuesday violence stemming from the nine-day-old independent truckers' strike may be abating, and marketers in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia contended the strike was having minor effects.

Police spokesman Thomas Lyon said there were 26 incidents of violence reported from 4 p.m. Monday until 8 a.m. Tuesday, bringing the number of incidents reported since the strike began to 458.

"The incidents have dropped," said Lyon. "It can change very quickly. We hope it's winding down."

One of the incidents reported overnight Monday resulted in two arrests.

Lyon said the men were arrested about 10:45 p.m. for allegedly shooting at trucks traveling on Interstate 81 in Greenfield Township, Lackawanna County.

Arrested were Thomas F. Donnelly Jr., 24, Nicholson, Wyoming County, and George Stein, 43, Hop Bottom, Susquehanna County.

Police reported no injuries in 26 incidents — +15 rock throwings, three shootings, seven acts of vandalism and one threat.

Meanwhile, marketers in the state's two largest cities reported little, if any, effect from the strike. At least one of those officials expected things to be back to normal next week.

"Supplies are great," said Raymond Farber, market manager of the Philadelphia Fresh Food Terminal Corp. "Anyone in fruit and produce can come down and buy anything they need."

Gerald Good, president of the Superfresh Food Markets Inc., a chain of 33 stores in the Philadelphia area, said his firm was experiencing no supply problems "of any significance."

In Pittsburgh, three market officials said they were experiencing price increases — some as high as 10 to 15 percent — but generally downplayed the problem.

"Obviously, there are cost increases but basically if you want to pay the cost of goods, there are no significant shortages," said Joseph Faccenda, vice president of Giant Eagle Markets Inc.

Dick Battaglia, president of the 23-member Wholesale Produce Industry of Pittsburgh, believes the worst of the strike is past.

"It's all over," said Battaglia. "More (truckers) are going back every day."

Contractors Discuss Merits

The commissioners reported that county opinion on the issue was about 50-50. Representatives of one faction which showed support for the project, to the surprise of the commissioners, met with the commissioners Tuesday morning before the commissioners announced they had dismantled the PHA.

Fifteen representatives of county building contractors and building materials suppliers discussed the merits of the project.

Though most stated they were not happy with the PHA concept, they still saw the project as a boost to the economy by providing opportunities for local contractors to do the work, thereby providing jobs.

The project, several persons said, would provide affordable housing to people who work but receive poverty level wages.

Several also stated they believed a local PHA, which would be the project manager, would insure a quality project.

Other points raised were that there are numerous examples in the area of government-funded housing projects which have been successful and that contractors cannot become involved in low-income housing projects without federal assistance.

SIGNS AND MUSHROOMS

In the spring, "for sale" signs pop up like mushrooms after the rain. Many prospective sellers wait until the tulips bloom thinking that their homes will bring a better price in a lush setting.

Spring is not necessarily the best time to sell your house. Perhaps you do not realize that large companies inform their employees of transfers shortly after the first of the year. Consequently, we see many transferees, (some of our finest buyers) before the bloom of spring. Although these people come early in the year, they will gladly wait until the school year ends to make their move to the area.

During the months between notification and the actual move, the buyer is most anxious for the security of an established address in his new town.

If you are thinking of selling your house, we will be happy to give you all the fix-it-up advice you need, if any.

Don't wait for the grass to grow under your feet.

Some men are remembered for their deeds . . . the battles they won and the prizes they gained. But not A. Lincoln!

Men still call him "honest Abe," and they take courage in his humility. Men honor his devotion to the principles for which he stood; they esteem his love for humanity; they marvel at his capacities for sympathy, understanding and forgiveness.

History has known few men whose memory could survive the hatreds of war and find sanctuary in the hearts of victor and vanquished alike. But Abe Lincoln belongs to all of America. Christian nobility is revered for itself, whether it wore blue or gray.

As the character of a man can bind up the wounds of a nation, so the Christian faith which moulded Abe Lincoln can build under God a world of peace and understanding. To that proposition our Churches and Synagogues are dedicated.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE BOND
February 13, 1983

Background Scripture: Luke 22:1-23.
Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 11: 23-26.

A widow sits and stares at the four walls of her one-room apartment, just as she has for the past 10 months since her husband died. Friends have been "kind" to her and tried to be supportive, but no matter how well-intentioned these efforts have been, she feels all alone and aches in loneliness.

WHEN THE HOUR CAME

A middle aged father cries alone in his bedroom mourning the loss of his "little girl," a young woman still not out of her teens. Extremely close ever since his wife, the girl's mother, walked out of their life when the daughter was only five years old, he feels utterly "crushed" by her announcement that she is quitting college and going off to live with a young man whom the father is certain will ruin her life.

These are only two examples of the wounds we experience in life. The situations may vary widely, but the results are the same: feelings of unreplaceable loss, of unquenchable grief, unresolved bitterness, unbearable loneliness, and unremitting pain. There may seem to be no possible cure to heal these wounds. With no one to really understand what we are feeling and to share it with us, we may begin to dispair of life itself.

It is this mood which seems to hang over the Upper Room when, as Luke puts it, "the hour came" and Jesus "sat at table and the apostles with him." At that table, along with Jesus and the 12, there was fear, distrust, dismay, and betrayal, Jesus probably knew that his very hours were numbered, that Judas had betrayed him, and that the other eleven apostles would scatter like frightened sheep before the night was over. As in the lives of so many of us, Jesus, too, experienced the coming of a fateful "hour" that would test his soul.

UNTIL IT IS FULFILLED

Yet, somber and fearful as was that Upper Room gathering, there was also a light to shine in that darkness. And the light that Jesus offered them (and us) is more than enough to dispel any darkness that falls upon us. For even in the darkest hours, just as Jesus offered an unbreakable fellowship to his disciples, so he offered us that same oneness with him, that same communion that assures us that, no matter what the circumstances may be, we are one with him and he with us. Thus we need never face the wounds of life alone. The bond between Christ and ourselves will enable us to meet and conquer any of life's most painful blows.

"Holy Communion" is not just something that happens in church when we share the Lord's Supper. It is a fact of life with Christ and the ritual is only a reminder to open our lives and let Christ share them. The bread and the cup speak to us of his sacrificial self-giving which, in one way or another, is sufficient to meet all our deficiencies. The bond that links us to Christ will bear any load—if we want it to.

Comptroller Answers Questions On '82 Maryland Income Tax Returns

In most instances, Maryland income tax law follows Federal income tax law, allowing Maryland taxpayers to use the Federal adjusted gross income as their starting point on the Maryland income tax returns and simply transfer many items from the Federal return to the State return. But this year, some new Federal provisions are handled differently on the Maryland income tax return. Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein answered the following questions for State taxpayers filling out their State returns.

Q. How is the new Federal two-earner married couple deduction treated on the Maryland return?

A. Married couples who claim the new Federal deduction for two-earner married couples on their Federal return must file Maryland Form 502, listing the deduction as an addition modification on line 50 in Schedule C on the back of 502.

The reason for this is that Maryland has for many years provided a method for working couples to receive the same tax advantages they would normally get by filing separate returns. This is the combined separate method, and it allows both incomes to receive the full advantage of the graduated tax with both incomes reported on only one form. If a husband and wife file a joint Federal income tax return for 1982, they have a choice of filing either a joint Maryland return or a combined separate return, using columns A and B. Generally, the combined separate status will be advantageous when both husband and wife each have taxable income in excess of $800 before deducting exemptions, or $1,600 if they are over age 65. Taxpayers should determine their tax by both methods, but file only under the most advantageous method. Read the instructions in the tax packet carefully.

Q. Does Maryland have a provision similar to the new Federal Direct Charitable Contribution Deduction—available to taxpayers who do not itemize deductions?

A. No. The new Federal Direct Charitable Contribution Deduction will not "flow through" to the State return and it will not affect the computation of the Maryland income tax. For Federal purposes, the new deduction will be used by taxpayers who do not itemize deductions, and it is subtracted from the adjusted gross income to arrive at the taxable income. Since it is not reflected in the adjusted gross income and it is not an itemized deduction, this Federal provision does not change the Federal adjusted gross income, which is the starting point for figuring your Maryland income tax. Taxpayers who itemize deductions using either the Federal Form 1040 Schedule A or the Maryland Form 502A will continue to include charitable deductions and will not be affected by the Federal Direct Charitable Contribution Deduction.

Q. In recent years, many more people have been able to file the Federal short form, and there's a new Federal form, 1040EZ, available this year. How can taxpayers file with Maryland?

A. There are various options for Maryland taxpayers filing the State return. You can file Maryland short form 503 if you had a total income of $20,000 or less, with no income modifications or itemized deductions. Or you can file Maryland long form 502 and claim the standard deduction—anyone can do this, no matter what Federal form you filed. If you itemize deductions on your Federal return, you may also itemize on your Maryland form 502. And finally, it may be advantageous to itemize on your State return if you didn't qualify to itemize on your Federal return.

Q. I couldn't itemize on my Federal tax return, but it would be advantageous to itemize on my Maryland income tax form. How can I do this?

A. You file Maryland long form 502 and itemize your deductions on Form 502A which is included in the State tax packet. The deductions claimed on Form 502A cannot exceed the Federal Zero Bracket Amount—$2,300 for single taxpayers, $3,400 for married couples filing joint.

Q. How does Maryland treat interest income from All-Savers Certificates?

A. Any interest income from All-Savers certificates is exempt from Maryland income tax, up to a maximum of $1,000 for single taxpayers and $2,000 for taxpayers filing jointly.

Q. What about contributions to IRA's?

A. Maryland tax law conforms to Federal tax law regarding the taxability of contributions to an IRA, so the same provisions that pertain to the deferral of Federal taxes on IRA contributions also apply to the Maryland income tax.

Q. Does the State continue to offer a tax break for volunteers who work for certain organizations?

A. Yes. State taxpayers who use their own vehicles while volunteering services for non-profit volunteer fire companies and organizations whose principal purpose or function is to provide medical, health or nutritional care can subtract up to 20 cents per mile from their total income on the State return. This benefit also includes volunteers who use their own vehicles to provide assistance to handicapped students at community colleges in the State. Driving handicapped students solely to and from community colleges is not deductible, however. The actual amount you can deduct depends upon the extent of any reimbursement for travel expenses and any amount claimed under the charitable contributions category of itemized deductions. Incidentally, this benefit is available whether or not you itemize deductions.

Q. Is there anything I can do to speed up my refund check?

A. Yes. The best way to speed up your refund check is to have a properly prepared, error-free return. Read the instructions carefully. Do not complete your return in pencil. Be sure to double-check your computations. And use the yellow label on the tax packet—as long as the information is correct. Attach all your W-2 statements and any additional forms. Be sure to sign your return, and if someone else prepares your return, make sure they sign it also—this is for your protection.

Q. What else should I make note of?

A. An application for property tax credits has been included in the State tax packet once again this year for the convenience of Maryland homeowners. The application, however, is NOT related to the State return. There are two separate colored envelopes provided for the documents. DO NOT INCLUDE THE STATE RETURN WITH THE PROPERTY TAX CREDIT APPLICATION. Mail the application in the BLUE envelope provided, and mail the State return in the GRAY envelope.

Q. Where can I get help?

A. You can get various kinds of free assistance from any of the 14 offices of the Maryland Income tax Division listed on the back of the tax packet. Four of these offices were recently opened in Multi-Service Centers located in Denton, Centreville, Frederick and Ellicott City. Our State tax experts will be offering free help to all State taxpayers working on their Maryland returns on holidays, certain weekends, and during special evenings between now and the filing deadlidne, Friday, April 15, 1983. You can call or visit any of the offices, and there are even special telephone lines for deaf taxpayers listed on the packet.

AIDES ATTEND WORKSHOP — The Chapter I Aides from Broad Ford and Dennett Road recently attended a workshop at the Broad Ford Elementary School. The workshop was conducted by David Miller, regional specialist for Chapter I. Focus was placed on research which dealt with effective teaching. Miller related some major research findings to the role of classroom aides. As part of the training session, the aides devised strategies which incorporated these findings into their work with students.

Two-Earner Married Couple Deduction Not Recognized By State

Married couples who claim the new Federal deduction for two-earner married couples this year are reminded that they must file Maryland Form 502 and list the deduction as an addition modification on line 50 in Schedule C on the back of Form 502, according to Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

Goldstein said the "add-back" is necessary since Maryland law has for many years provided a method for working couples to receive the same tax advantages they would normally get by filing separate returns.

"Our combined separate method allows both incomes to receive the full advantage of the graduated tax with both incomes reported on only one form," the Comptroller stated.

If a husband and wife file a joint Federal income tax return for 1982, they have a choice of filing either a joint Maryland return or a combined separate return, using columns A and B. Generally, the combined separate status will be advantageous when both husband and wife each have taxable income in excess of $800 before deducting exemptions, or $1,600 if they are over age 65.

"Taxpayers should determine their tax by both methods, but file only under the most advantageous method," the Comptroller advised. "Read the instructions in the State tax packet carefully."

Charity Deduction Not Included On State Tax Form

A new limited charitable contribution provision available to taxpayers who do not itemize on their Federal returns will not "flow through" to the 1982 Maryland income tax return and will not affect the computation of the Maryland income tax, according to Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

For Federal purposes, the new deduction will be used by taxpayers who do not itemize deductions, and it is subtracted from the adjusted gross income to arrive at the taxable income.

"Since it is not reflected in the adjusted gross income and it is not an itemized deduction, this Federal provision does not change the Federal adjusted gross income, which is the starting point for figuring your Maryland income tax," Comptroller Goldstein noted.

Taxpayers who itemize deductions using either the Federal Form 1040 Schedule A or the Maryland Form 502A will continue to include charitable deductions and will not be affected by the Federal Direct Charitable Contribution provision.

Marylanders Filing State Income Taxes Earlier Than Usual

"We sent out more than twice as many Maryland income tax refund checks during January, 1983 as we did during the same month last year. If you're not among the 38,230 taxpayers who filed early for their quick refund, then this coming weekend is a good time to get free help to complete your 1982 state income tax return," Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced.

All 14 Maryland income tax offices will remain open Friday, February 11, 1983, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., while most other state offices will be closed in observance of Lincoln's birthday. In addition, the offices will be open during special hours on Saturday, February 12, 1983 to help taxpayers free of charge. The hours are 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m.

Comptroller Goldstein attributed the growing number of early filers to both the uncertain economy and state government efficiency. "More people are looking for every dollar that's due them so they're getting that state return in the mail for their refund check," he said. "At the same time, the Central Payroll Bureau of our office processed and distributed W-2 statements to state employees earlier this year than in previous years."

The Comptroller reminded taxpayers still working on their state returns that free taxpayer assistance is just a phone call or quick visit away. "Our state tax experts will be happy to answer any questions, provide the necessary forms, and even complete your state income tax return free of charge, if you like. Just bring along the necessary W-2 statements and a completed copy of your federal return."

The addresses and telephone numbers of the state income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in local telephone directories.

They will provide all the necessary forms and even complete the State return for any taxpayer free of charge, as long as taxpayers bring a completed copy of their Federal return and all necessary W-2 statements.

All 14 offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division, including four in the new Multi-Service Centers recently opened in Denton, Centreville, Frederick and Ellicott City, will remain open during the following hours on the following days:

The addresses and telephone numbers of all the branch offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division are listed on the back of the tax packet as well as in local telephone directories.

Rep. Byron Mails '83 Questionnaire

Sixth District Congresswoman Beverly Byron said last week that her constituents should be receiving her annual questionnaire sometime this week. The questionnaire is mailed to every household in the Sixth District and has provisions for two sets of responses from each residence.

Representative Byron remarked, "This is the best way for me to get feedback from the citizens in my district as to their feelings on the legislation pending before the 98th Congress. We face some difficutl decisions, and it's very important that I know what the opinions are of the people I represent."

The 1983 questionnaire contains questions on Social Security reform, unemployment, the Clean Air Act, and congressional priority.

The results of the quesionnaire will be tabulated and released to the media.

Maryland Income Tax Provisions Affecting Pensioners Explained

Senior citizens and other pensioners should take note of certain provisions affecting them on the 1982 Maryland income tax return, according to Louis L. Goldstein, Maryland Comptroller. Some benefits that appear on the State return do not appear on the Federal return, so the following questions and answers Goldstein says, should prove to be informative regarding their tax situation.

Q. I understand that Maryland's maximum retirement income exclusion has been increased this year.

A. Yes. Maryland's maximum retirement income exclusion has been increased to $8,700 for 1982. The calculation appears on the back of Form 502 in the Maryland income tax packet and it is explained on Page 19 of the instructions.

Q. Who is eligible for the retirement exclusion?

A. In order to qualify for the pension and retirement annuity exclusion, a taxpayer must fulfill the following requirements:

—they must have reached age 65 before the close of taxable year 1982 or be totally disabled;

—they must have received benefits from an employee retirement system, a pension, annuity or endowment which was included in their Federal adjusted gross income;

—and have received less than $8,700 during the taxable year under the Social Security Act and/or Railroad Retirement Act.

Q. Must I itemize on my return to get this retirement benefit?

A. No, you do not have to itemize deductions.

Q. Must I pay State income tax on any Social Socurity income I receive?

A. No. The income received under the Social Security program is not subject to the Maryland income tax and should not be included in your return. The same applies to benefits received under the Railroad Retirement Act. However, you must reduce the maximum pension exclusion by any Social Security or railroad retirement benefits you received.

Q. What about the taxes on capital gains?

A. Taxpayers who receive a lump sum distribution will be glad to know that only 40% of the capital gain portion of the distribution which was treated as ordinary income for Federal income tax purposes must be added to the Federal adjusted gross income for Maryland tax purposes. As an added benefit to taxpayers, Maryland has also adopted the Federal minimum distribution allowance.

Q. Isn't there another important feature concerning capital gains?

A. Yes. If you sell your home, there is a once-in-a-lifetime exemption of $125,000 on the capital gain from the sale of a residence, provided that you are 55 years or older, and you have owned and lived on the property during three of the last five years.

Q. As a disabled taxpayer, I understand that I don't have to keep filing medical documents certifying my disability. Is this true?

A. Yes, indeed. If you are filing as totally disabled for the first time, you should include a Federal Form 2440, along with a statement by a physician identifying the disability. For subsequent returns, no physician's statement is required—just attach a copy of your Federal form 2440 to your State income tax return.

Q. Aside from the benefits we've discussed, can I qualify for any other benefits this year as a retired taxpayer?

A. Yes, you can. Retired homeowners can look forward to the application for property tax credits included once again this year in the tax packet for the convenience of Maryland homeowners. This application is NOT related to the State return, however. DO NOT include the state return with the application. Mail the application in the BLUE envelope provided for that purpose. Income Tax Provisions Explained mail the State return in the GRAY envelope included in the tax packet. Keep these forms separate.

Q. Some senior citizens perform volunteer work in their leisure time. I understand that this can mean a tax savings on the State return.

A. That's right. Maryland taxpayers who use their own vehicles while volunteering services for certain non-profit organizations can subtract up to 20 cents per mile from their total income, depending upon the extent of any reimbursement for travel expenses. This benefit also includes volunteers who use their vehicles to provide assistance to handicapped students at community colleges in the State. Driving handicapped students solely to and from community colleges is not deductible, however. Taxpayers wishing to claim the mileage benefit must file Maryland form 502 and form 502V, which is available at any office of the Maryland Income Tax Division listed on the back of the State tax packet.

Q. What about interest income from All-Savers certificates?

A. Any interest income from new All-Savers certificates is exempt from Maryland income tax, up to a maximum of $1,000 for single taxpayers and $2,000 for taxpayers filing jointly.

Q. Isn't there another benefit that affects widows and widowers?

A. Yes, there is. If you are a surviving spouse with a dependent child, you can benefit from special filing provisions. The widow or widower is entitled to file a Maryland return as a surviving spouse if they are entitled to file as a surviving spouse on their Federal return. As a result, they are not required to file a return if their income was less than $4,000 for the year. If they had withholding they should file a tax return to get the refund. Check filing status 5 on the face of the return.

Q. What else should I keep in mind as I file as a retired or disabled taxpayer?

A. Keep in mind that you may be entitled to certain additional exemption benefits. You are entitled to a second $800 personal exemption if you are 65 or older—and another exemption if you are blind. Look for this information on the front of your return. These benefits are the same as last year.

Q. Where can I get help in completing my State return?

A. Income tax personnel offer a variety of taxpayer services at 14 locations throughout Maryland, including four new offices recently opened in Multi-Service Centers in Denton, Centreville, Frederick, and Ellicott City. Our expert personnel will complete your Maryland income tax return, if you like, free of charge. They're there to answer questions and supply all of the necessary forms. During the filing season, all of the branch offices will offer extra hours on holidays, certain weekends, and during special evenings. You can also call for information. The address and phone numbers of all of the offices are listed on the back of the tax packet, and in telephone directories. Also listed on the back of the tax packet are special telephone lines available for deaf taxpayers. Taxpayers who want help with their Maryland returns should bring copies of their completed Federal return, their Maryland income tax packet with the yellow address label, and any other relevant documents, such as W-2 forms.

Physician Stresses Complete DTP Immunization

Data from the largest pertussis (whooping cough) outbreak in Maryland since 1964 suggest that infants with incomplete Diphtheria Tetanus Pertussis (DTP) immunization face the most risk of contracting the disease, according to Dr. Feng-Ying Lin, Medical Epidemiologist with the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

The study was performed on the 79 pertussis cases reported in the state during the calendar year 1982. Four additional cases of whooping cough have been reported since January 1, 1983. One two-month-old infant is currently in the hospital and was recently removed from the respirator.

The study revealed that sixty-five cases (82%) had received less than three doses of pertussis vaccine. The reason for incomplete immunization in those who contacted the disease ranged from illness (50%), prematurity (11.5%), religious belief (11.5%), fears of side effects (11.5%), etc.

Dr. Lin reminded parents that it is "very important" that their infants receive the complete series of whooping cough immunization to achieve optimal immunity. Young infants, the group at the highest risk of complications due to pertussis, are not adequately protected for at least the first three months of life. Their protection, Dr. Lin said, during this period derives largely from immunization of their older siblings who then do not transmit illness to them. The recommended schedule for the proper immunization of infants against pertussis involves a primary series of pertussis vaccine at two, four, six and 18 months of age and a booster dose between four and six years of age.

Utility Council Offers Help On Electric Bills

You are faced with an electric bill that you cannot possible pay. What should you do?

There is help. The Maryland Energy Assistance Program, the Fuel Funds and other energy assistance programs still have over $12.5 million to aid homeowners and renters with heating bills.

The Maryland Electric Utility Council urges persons to first call the local electric utility company and talk to a representative who is professionally trained to help obtain aid. Callers will be directed to an agency that can make direct payments to the energy supplier in their behalf.

Persons who have already contacted an energy assistance agency should also make sure that they notify their utility also.

Even if a person does not qualify for energy assistance, the Customer Representative will work with him to make special arrangements about his electric bill.

"Whatever you do, don't do nothing," a Council official said. "The bill is not going to go away and the quicker you go for help, the sooner your problem will be solved."

The Maryland Electric Utility council, an information service for the power companies in Maryland, offers a listing of the local Customer Service numbers of the utilities serving Maryland. All calls should be made during business hours. It will save time if callers have their latest electric bill with them when they call.

Jim Willis Trends

In view of the cost of living, most of us cannot afford to live alone. And since economy has never been one of the better reasons for matrimony, many of us have roommates.

In our enlightened age it is no longer a requirement that the roommate be of the same gender as ourselves. I have had roommates of both genders (there are only two genders that I am aware of, unless, of course, you live in California) and it is my recommendation that men make better roommates than women. They aren't as pretty, but neither do they use your razor to shave their legs.

In case you haven't noticed, the female of the species wears more and different types of undergarments than the male of the species. For some inexplicable reason, some territorial trait of the female requires her to string undergarments around the bathroom. Back when I had a female roommate, our bathroom always resembled the foundation garment department of Bloomingdales.

Women also tend to keep things in the refrigerator that either ought not be kept refrigerated or ought to be more boldly labeled. I once served what I thought was guacomole dip to some guests only to find that it was some sort of strange concoction that women smear on their faces and then have to chisel off.

Women also have little regard for personal belongings. My personal belongings. Usually, when my roommates ask to borrow a tool, they return it to me in respectable condition. I have had to explain to several ladies that it is often helpful to clean a paint brush after it's been used with oil-based paint and that, perhaps, my golf clubs were not the best available tool to use to pound tomato stakes into the garden.

I remember the college days when my roommates and I were so poor that we ate Kraft macaroni and cheese dinners about five nights a week. We've certainly come up in the world since then. Now we drink wine with our Kraft macaroni and cheese dinners.

One advantage of living with roommates over living alone is that cooking becomes a team effort. When I did live alone, dinner required 15 minutes—the time it took to warm up a boiling bag of something. Now, with two roommates, dinner takes upwards of three hours with someone in charge of salad, someone to oversee the entre and a third to prepare the vegetable.

I've observed that men are neater and more organized than women. Everything in our kitchen now is right where it belongs. Last night I found the onions in the cabinet with the paper cups and the bar glasses. The cheese puffs were across the room with dish towels and the glass cleaner. A place for everything and everything in its place, I've always said. Women do dumb things like group all of the canned goods together.

Men are also easier to get along with than women. One of the biggest bones of contention in a lot of living arrangements, especially in one-stereo/one-television households, is which music to listen to and which TV program to watch.

Women are given to sentimentality and like to listen to "romantic" music. Some of them even watch "Little House on the Prairie."

Men are much more easily pleased. They'll watch anything with a ball in motion and/or scantily clad women.

Men are also less moody and take less time in the bathroom. My roommates and I could shower, shave and repaint the bathroom in less time than it takes most women to get ready for work.

I have to say that my roommates and I get along very well. But I suspect that if any of us ever found a young lady that didn't hang underwear all over the bathroom, and didn't hide poisonous substances in the refrigerator, and promised not to watch "Little House on the Prairie," and didn't barricade herself in the bathroom, we'd probably move in a minute.

Birth Center Program Slated

Dr. Michael R. Yura of West Virginia University will return to the Preston County Educational Center from 9:30 to noon Feb. 12 to talk again on behavior management for preschool children and toddlers in the third of a series of parent workshops sponsored by the Preston Birth Center of Preston Memorial Hospital, Kingwood, W. Va.

The workshops are free and open to the public. Free childcare is provided as long as parents pre-register for the service.

To pre-register for the program persons may contact Hilda Heady or Rosemary Helmick at 329-1400.

Legislation For Nurses Introduced

In order to facilitate and encourage the thousands of non-baccalaureate registered nurses to obtain their baccalaureate degrees in nursing, legislation is being proposed by Maryland Senator Rosalie S. Abrams, Democrat, 42nd District, and Delegate Paula C. Hollinger, Dem., 11th District, (both of whom are nurses), for the 1984 session of the General Assembly.

This legislation would provide for a baccalaureate level of entry by a certain date, coupled with a mandate for 60 credits to allow these nurses to gain entrance to state-run baccalaureate programs. The nurses who choose not to take advantage of entry into a baccalaureate program will be "grandfathered in." Therefore, they will retain their RN status, and by maintaining their license, will be able to continue practicing their profession. These nurses will not be disenfranchised.

Senator Abrams, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee stated, "Nurses at every level must be given support as well as the opportunity to increase their skills and levels of achievement. This legislation will provide the tools necessary for advancement."

After four years of meetings with nurses throughout the State, Delegate Hollinger further stated, "As a diploma school graduate, I can identify with the 80% of the nurses in our State who have felt disenfranchised because they are lacking a baccalaureate degree. At the same time, they have met with deterrents when trying to enter these programs. The aim of our legislation is to retain these nurses in their chosen field and give them the opportunity to continue growing and practising in their profession for many years ahead."

As the preparations are underway, both Senator Abrams and Delegate Hollinger said they welcome comments and are contacting nurses from around the State who would be affected by their proposed legislation. Their addresses are:

Senator Rosalie S. Abrams, President's Wing, James Senate Office Building, Annapolis, Md. 21401; Delegate Paula C. Hollinger, Room 310, Lowe House Office Building, Annapolis, Md. 21401.

Fewer Work Permits Issued During 1982

A statistical breakdown of 54,491 Maryland work permit certificates issued to minors during 1982 indicates a decrease of 15,317 issued certificates when compared to 1981, and a decrease of 41,555 when compared to 1980, stated Commissioner of Labor and Industry, Harvey A. Epstein, recently.

The number of work permits issued for federal, state, county-city employment for 1982 totalled 12,447 compared to 19,190 for 1981 and 35,022 for 1980. The decline from 1982 to 1980 is 22,573 fewer jobs. Most of these jobs would fall within the category of CETA and neighborhood youth corps opportunities.

"Surprisingly, certificates issued for retail in 1982 were 20,613, against 21,338 for 1981 and 22,482 for 1980 which represents an unexpected consistency," Epstein said. In the restaurant industry where fast foods represent major employment opportunities, 18,094 certificates were issued for 1982, against 22,964 for 1981 and 26,302 for 1980.

The number of permits issued in Garrett County in 1982 was also down over the two previous years. A total of 356 were issued last year, compared to 390 in 1981 and 635 in 1980.

In Maryland, employers must have certified and validated work permits in their possession before minors are permitted to work. The State Employment of Minors Law provides coverage to persons who have not reached their 18th birthday. Maryland issues a certificate only when a young person gains employment.

For more information on work permits or the State law, contact the Maryland Divison of Labor and Industry, Employment Standards Service, 501 St. Paul Place, Baltimore, Maryland 21202, (301) 659-4314 or call toll-free 1-800-492-6226.

Attendant Care Project Underway For Handicapped

Certain handicapped people in Maryland are eligible for attendant care services under a $150,000 state pilot project administered by the division of vocational rehabilitation of the State Department of Education.

Eligible are physically handicapped people who are employed or who are actively seeking employment, those who can leave a nursing home and live in the community if care is provided, or those for whom institutionalization would be prevented if an attendant is provided.

Examples of the services an attendant could provide are helping in and out of a wheel chair, bathing, dressing, preparing meals, transportation, and assistance with routine bodily functions.

"This project opens exciting possibilities to handicapped adults who qualify," said assistant state superintendent for vocational rehabilitation Richard A. Batterton. "It means, in some cases, that people who might otherwise be dependent and tax-consuming may become independent and taxpaying."

Participants in the project will be reimbursed for approved outlays for attendant care. Family members are not eligible for compensation under the project.

Application forms and additional information are available from Ms. Myrtie Adkins, Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, State Department of Education, 200 West Baltimore Street, Baltimore 21201.

nutrition NEWS

The Nutrition Committee of the American Heart Association has prepared a series of articles providing information and recipes for healthier diets. Another of those articles, supplied by Wendy Norris, dietician for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and a member of the commmitte, is as follows:

FEBRUARY: NATIONAL HEART MONTH

Have you ever wondered exactly what the American Heart Association is? It is a major health organization of more than two million volunteers dedicated solely to the reduction of early death and disability from heart disease, stroke and related disorders.

The Heart Association's Nutrition Committee is committed to providing you with practical and sound menu ideas for healthier eating throughout 1983. Just as we did last month, easy recipes will appear in weekly columns. Clip our recipes each Wednesday and by the end of the month you will be able to enjoy a well-balanced, appetizing meal by combining the month's ideas.

February's feature not only supports National Heart Month, but will give us some energy saving ideas for this cold blustery month. This week's recipe is . . .

Crispy Baked Chicken

1 frying chicken (2½ to 3 pounds), cut into serving pieces
1 cup skim milk
1 cup cornflake crumbs
1 teaspoon rosemary
freshly ground black pepper

Remove all skin from the chicken; rinse and dry the pieces thoroughly. Dip in milk, mix cornflake crumbs with rosemary and pepper and roll in the seasoned crumbs. Let stand briefly so coating will adhere.

Place chicken in an oiled baking pan. (Line pan with foil for easy clean-up.) Do not crowd; pieces should not touch. Bake at 375° F for 1 hour or more. Crumbs will form a crisp "skin".

Yield: 4 servings
Approximate Calories per serving: 270

An oven meal has been chosen for February because three recipes can be baked at the same oven temperature while varying cooking times, a "save time and energy" method. If you use the frozen chicken for this week's recipe, thaw first in refrigerator to save baking time. Interested in the Heart Cookbook? Call Wendy Norris R.D. - 334-2155.

It's National Heart Month, and you will be making your contribution to the Heart Association. Do you ever wonder where your money goes?

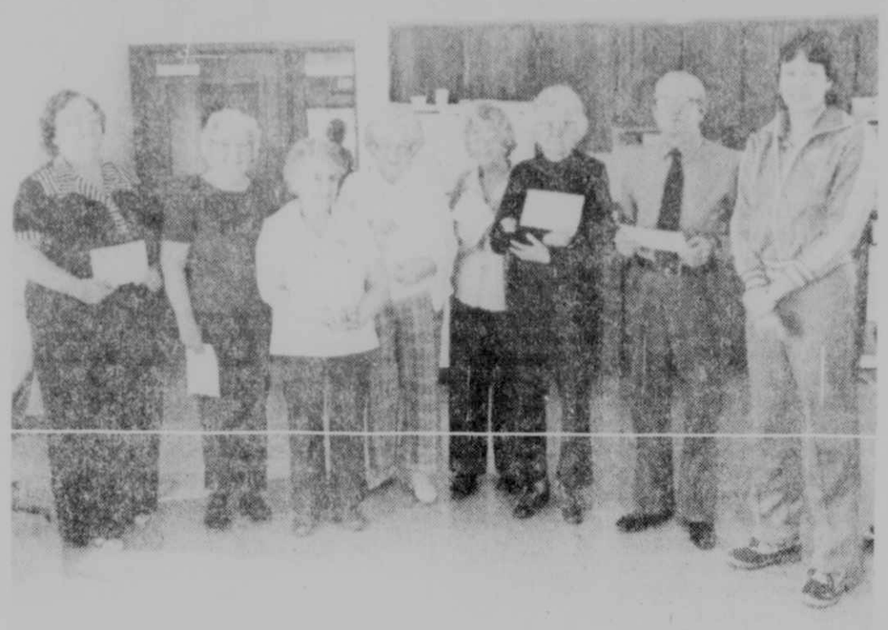
Your heart dollar goes toward research. This research effort has contributed to the extraordinary progress in improved patient care—from prevention and diagnosis to treatment and rehabilitation. Some of the benefits have been improvements in control of high blood pressure, development of artificial heart valves and pacemakers and new x-ray techniques to help improve diagnosis of heart and blood vessel disease just to name a few. Your heart dollar is used wisely and benefits are widespread.

The Heart Association's Nutrition Committee is committed to providing you with practical and sound menu ideas for healthier eating. This week's feature is a vegetable recipe that can be prepared and put in the same preheated oven with last week's entree recipe.

SCALLOPED POTATOES

4 cups thinly sliced, peeled raw potatoes
1 onion, peeled and sliced thinly
1 tablespoon chopped parsley, if desired
3 tablespoons flour
Freshly ground black pepper
3 tablespoons margarine
1½ cups skim milk

In a lightly oiled casserole, place a layer of potatoes. Sprinkle with flour, then a layer of onions. Sprinkling each layer with flour, alternate potatoes and onions until all are used. Season with pepper.



Heat the milk and margarine together and pour over the potatoes. Cover casserole and bake at 375° for one hour, then remove cover and bake another ½ hour to brown.

Yield: 6 servings
Approximate calories per serving: 150

In this February column, energy saving ideas are being addressed each week. These tips should help you deal with the soaring costs of energy more efficiently.

This week's dish, scalloped potatoes, needs to be covered. The week's energy tip is do not peek!! Surveys show that people have a tendency to peek and, in so doing, you lose 50% to 75% of the heat each time the oven door is opened. Peeking increases cost and may result in baking failure or improper browning. Cook vegetables with a close fitting lid. Vegetables best suited for oven cooking are potatoes, carrots, beets, turnips, parsnips, onions, squash, and corn.

Nest week's feature is a delightful salad recipe to complement the rest of February's recipes.

Maryland Tax Revenues Show Upward Trend

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced last week that the state's two largest sources of revenue, the state income tax and retail sales tax, both posted good revenue gains during January, 1983, compared with the same month last year.

"We hope these increases continue through the remainder of the fiscal year," he said. "The increases in sales and income tax revenue during January indicate a higher level of consumer buying during the Christmas season, since January sales tax revenue is based on December retail sales. It also reflects a higher level of employment during December, since the state income tax withheld from employees' paychecks in December is sent to our office during January."

Goldstein stated that when state and local income tax revenue and retail sales tax revenue received during Fiscal Year 1983 to date is combined and compared with the revenue estimate given Governor Harry Hughes on December 16, 1982, these revenues are above estimates by $3,473,203.

The comptroller noted that state and local income taxes produced $191,533,429 during January, 1983, up 31.7% over the $145,464,413 collected during January, 1982. For the fiscal year to date, state and local income taxes amounted to $1,179,642,246, an increase of 8.2% over the $1,090,408,041 received during the same period of Fiscal Year 1982.

"When we compare actual income tax collections with the revenue estimate presented to Governor Hughes on December 16, 1982, we find that these revenue collections are almost exactly on the mark. We have collected 99.75% of the revenue estimate for the period," Goldstein stated.

Comptroller Goldstein stated that sales tax revenues present an even brighter picture, noting that January, 1983 sales tax revenues total $97,489,677, the largest amount of sales tax ever collected during a single month. This reflects holiday purchasing by consumers and exceeds January, 1982 collections by 15.7% and the revenue estimate for the month by nearly 6%.

"Our preliminary analysis of sales tax returns indicates that, overall, the department stores and discount stores provided significant increases in revenue during the month," he said.

The comptroller stated that for Fiscal Year 1983 to date, retail sales tax collections total $447,757,660, an increase of 7.4% over the $416,801,346 collected during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

"The Fiscal Year 1983 retail sales tax collections are above the revenue estimate submitted to Governor Hughes on December 16, 1982 by $5.4 million or 1.25%," Goldstein said. "We will continue to monitor the revenues closely and will provide updated revenue estimates to the governor in March."

Gasoline Use Up In November

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says gasoline use during November, 1982, totaled 156,818,923 gallons, up by nearly 4.2% from the 152,066,005 gallons of gasoline used during November 1981.

"Good weather and stable or falling retail prices during the fall seem to be the primary reasons for increasing gasoline use," Goldstein said. "November marks only the second time during Fiscal Year 1983 that gasoline consumption increased."

The Comptroller noted that retail prices have continued to fall since November, 1982, and stated that Maryland continues to have lower prices than most comparable east coast areas.

"The worldwide gasoline glut is one reason for the nationwide stability of gasoline prices, but here in Maryland we also benefit from the Retail Service Station Divorcement Law, which prohibits the major oil companies from operating retail stations. This fosters competition among dealers who are all independent businesspeople seeking to serve their customers," Goldstein said.

Motor Fuel Tax revenue for the first six months Fiscal Year 1983 amounts to $124,183,566, up more than 29% over the $96,077,502 collected during the same period of Fiscal Year 1982. "This dramatic increase is primarily the result of the Motor Fuel Tax increase enacted by the 1982 session of the Maryland General Assembly, which affected both the tax on fuels and the road taxes paid by trucks and other motor carriers," Goldstein stated.

Public Pressure Requested To Push Automobile Safety Seat Legislation

Bills have been introduced in Annapolis to require use of car safety seats by infants, and safety seats or belts by children under age five. But the attempt to protect Maryland's children from their No. 1 killer and cripler nationally—the automobile—may fail again if the bills do not pass.

According to the National Traffic Safety Board, up to 90% of the deaths and 80% of the serious injuries to infants and young children are preventable with car safety seats. In Tennessee safety seats have been required by law since 1978, and the death rate for young children there has been cut in half.

"We used to support legislation in Maryland because we hoped it would help," said Dr. Kenneth Roberts, speaking for the Maryland Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics and the Maryland Child Passenger Safety Association. "Now, based on the Tennessee experience, we support legislation because it works; it saves children." Twenty states and the District of Columbia have laws to protect young child passengers.

"Infants and young children are at special risk in cars," explained Dr. Roberts, who is Associate Chief of Pediatrics at Sinai Hospital of Baltimore. "They cannot protect themselves, and, because their heads are relatively large for the size of their bodies, they are more likely to hit their heads and suffer brain injury than are older children or adults.

"Public support is needed now, since our legislators will soon decide about these bills," said Dr. Roberts. "These bills help to protect young minds and bodies, and to reduce a lot of suffering," he said.

Maria Waters, of Columbia, knows about car safety seats. Her car was hit by a turning vehicle; both cars were totalled. Mrs. Waters suffered a concussion, dislocated shoulder, broken arm, broken fingers, and damage to her jaw that still is not resolved. Her 8-month-old daughter was with her in a compact two-door Chevette, sitting in her car safety seat. "My little girl did not even suffer a scratch," she said.

Terri Jo Regan, of Owings Mills, also knows. Her daughter escaped harm thanks to the infant car safety seat Mrs. Regan rented from the Baltimore County Eastern Regional Health Center loaner program. This program is one of 41 presently in Maryland, according to Andrea Gielen of Project KISS (Kids in Safety Seats).

"Close to 2,000 loaner seats are in use in our state now," said Mrs. Gielen. "There are programs in nearly every county, sponsored by Health Departments, hospitals, and civic groups such as Maryland Jaycee Women."

Project KISS, a program of the Maryland State Health Department and the Department of Transportation, has assisted in the development of many of these programs and has produced many free educational materials, including "A Consumer Guide to Car Safety Seats." Copies of Project KISS material can be obtained by writing to the Health Education Center, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, 300 W. Preston Street, Baltimore 21201.

Information On State Legislation Available By Phone

Maryland citizens can obtain information about proposed legislaiton by calling, toll-free, Legislative Information in Annapolis. There is also a TTD number for the hearing impaired. This service is available Monday-Friday from 8:30 to 5:30, and evenings and Saturdays when the General Assembly is in session.

Through Legislative Information Desks, the Department of Legislative Reference provided up-to-date status on all proposed legislation. Information is available by the subject, the sponsor, and the number of a bill. Time and location of committee hearings may also be obtained.

On Dean's List

Seven hundred and sixty-three students, including one from Oakland, have been named to the Dean's List at Bucknell University for the first semester of the 1982-83 academic year.

H. Vernon Leighton II, son of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Leighton, Dennett Road, was included on the list. He is a sophomore.

A graduate point average of 3.5 or better is required for selection to the Dean's List.

Bambacus Supports Appointment Of Elderly To Boards

Senator John N. Bambacus announced that Senate Joint Resolution N0. 6 was heard on February 3 by the Constitutional and Public Law Committee. The Resolution, co-sponsored by Bambacus, relates to the appointment of senior citizens to Maryland boards and commissions.

The purpose of SJR 6 is to request that the Governor consider appointing more elderly citizens to membership on state boards and commissions, and especially those that deal with the interest and affairs of the elderly.

"Our older citizens can make great contributions to the governing of Maryland by participation as members in various appointed positions," Bambacus stated. "Thefe is a tremendous resource out there that should be tapped."

There are approximately 395,000 older residents of the state, comprising about 10% of the total population.

Goal-Setting Workshop Set

"The Importance of Goal-Setting" is the title of a free career workshop to be held at the Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library on February 14 from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. The workshop is sponsored by the Homemaker Career Opportunities Program of Garrett Community College and will be conducted by the Outreach Coordinator, Sandra Schofield.

This workshop is geared to the individual who is seeking to establish occupational or career goals (both immediate and long range) and desires assistance in determining these goals and the strategy needed to obtain them. "Career planning or job hunting should not be entered into haphazardly and should be approached with a definite plan in mind," Mrs. Schofield said. "This workshop is designed to help in formulating such a plan."

For further information concerning the workshop and/or other services offered by the Homemaker Career Opportunities Program persons may contact the main office by calling 334-9184.

C&P Advises Consumers About Effects Of Telephone Deregulation

For consumers who plan to order new telephone service or make changes in their existing telephone service during 1983, New Year's Day marked a significant departure from the way they have done business with C&P Telephone Company in the past.

The reason for that has to do with a Federal Communications Commission ruling known as Computer Inquiry Two which took effect January 1. Designed to promote competition in the telecommunications industry, that ruling prohibits C&P from marketing new telephone equipment. At the same time, it requires that such equipment be marketed through AT&T's new subsidiary, American Bell.

According to C&P spokesman, Leroy Fisher, consumers unaware of the changes related to the FCC ruling may find themselves inconvenienced and confused.

The following are some of the changes he said consumers should be aware of:

Basic Telephone Service—Essentially, nothing changes here. C&P will continue to provide basic telephone service. Included in these services are access to C&P's local telephone network, access to the long distance network, a telephone number, dial tone, and a local calling plan allowing customers a certain amount of local telephone usage. White pages directory listings will also be provided.

Telephone Equipment—During 1983 C&P will continue to sell or lease equipment from existing inventories, but only while supplies last. Should a particular telephone set model or color be unavailable for leasing, customers will be given other choices.

The same applies to customers wishing to purchase equipment. These customers, however, will also have the option of purchasing telephones at a number of retail and telephone equipment stores, including those operated by American Bell, Inc., AT&T's new subsidiary.

Since the Maryland Public Service Commission has approved a C&P proposal to sell basic telephone equipment already in place, residence and single-line business customers now have the option of purchasing outright their rotary or Touch-Tone standard, Trimline, or Princess telephones. Both wall and desk sets are included under the plan.

Presently, C&P is only permitted to sell Design Line telephones.

Where To Purchase Or Lease Telephones—As of January 1, C&P's 27 PhoneCenter Stores in Maryland will no longer exist. Fourteen will be transferred to American Bell, and most of the others will become C&P Telephone Service Centers.

These centers will however, function in much the same way as PhoneCenter Stores.

They will serve as product showrooms and as centralized locations for the replacement or pick-up of equipment, but only that already in stock. Consumers will also be able to drop off equipment for return or repair. In addition, do-it-yourself installation products will still be available.

As with PhoneCenter Stores, C&P Telephone Service Center employees will not handle monthly phone bill payments, service order requests for new or transferred service, or billing inquiries. Courtesy phones will be available, however, so that walk-in customers can contact the appropriate C&P business office responsible for these transactions.

Meanwhile, the way in which monthly telephone bills are paid and service requests negotiated will remain unchanged. These services will be performed in the customary way through C&P business offices.

Installation And Repair Service—Consumers will be able to pick up and drop off telephones at C&P Telephone Centers. They will also be able to make deposits on leased phones and bring in phones needing repair.

Consumers unable to come into a Telephone Service Center will have the option of paying a minimal fee for direct delivery of telephones either through the mail or a parcel delivery service. Or, equipment may be picked up at a C&P service agency such as a convenience store. Premises visits will be made only if a customer rejects all other options.

In addition to its leased telephone equipment and that sold prior to or after January 1 and covered by maintenance agreements, C&P will be responsible for the maintenance and repair of telephone protection equipment, C&P installed wiring, public telephones, and mobile radio transmission.

Customers will have a choice in how they obtain and maintain simple inside wiring and charge customers accordingly. Customers, however, will have the option of going elsewhere for inside wiring and may, in fact, install it themselves.

However, in the new competitive environment, C&P would not be responsible for servicing equipment other than its own.

Service For The Disabled—AT&T has requested that the FCC approve a waiver allowing C&P and other Bell telephone companies to provide disabled customers with new equipment. If approved, the waiver would permit C&P to purchase and provide new equipment for disabled customers when unavailable from existing inventories.

Business Customers—As in the case of its home customers, C&P will be prohibited from marketing telephone equipment except for that already in existing inventories. If C&P is unable to supply requested equipment, it will suggest customers go elsewhere, including American Bell. However, C&P will continue to maintain complex business systems.

Under the terms of the FCC ruling, American Bell will provide equipment previously offered by the Bell telephone companies, as well as enhanced communications such as "Dial-It" services. American Bell may then contract C&P to install, maintain, and engineer any of a full line of business communications equipment.

In turn, C&P would be fullly compensated for services performed on behalf of American Bell.

Therefore, during 1983, American Bell will arrange for the installation of customer equipment, but have C&P do the actual work. And if the equipment needs maintenance, C&P would be called directly.

Customers will be responsible for coordinating the installation of terminal and network services, but will have the option of assigning a third party, such as American Bell, to coordinate such activities.

Finally, C&P will continue to provide business customers with their telephone numbers, white and yellow page directory listings, dial tone, a local telephone calling plan, and access to the long distance network.

To help customers better understand the changes scheduled to take effect February 1, C&P has been conducting a consumer information campaign called "Let's Talk." The program focuses on mass media advertising to create a dialogue between C&P and its customers.

The ads raise and answer specific questions about repair service, PhoneCenter Stores, regulatory changes, and other telephone company topics. Consumers are invited to call toll free on 1-800-555-5000 for additional information.

Equal Rights Ratification Bill Gets Good Report

Senate Joint Resolution No. 1, co-sponsored by Senator John Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) and concerning the Equal Rights Amendment, has been reported favorably out of committee.

The measure, introducted January 12, urges the U.S. Congress to again pass the ERA so that it may be submitted to the states for ratification. Copies of the resolution will be sent to the Maryland Congressional Delegation.

"A Constitutional Amendment is the only permanent guarantee women will have of equal opportunity in employment, credit, education, so many areas," Bambacus said. "Public opinion shows that a Constitutional guarantee is favored." Bambacus also noted that existing constitutional language will not mandate the changes that are needed, since the Supreme Court has not applied the same strict standards in sex discrimination cases as it has in racial discrimination cases.

The Equal Rights Amendment recognizes the fundamental dignity and individuality of each human being by requiring that governments treat each person, male or female, as a citizen under the law without regard to gender.

The resolution was heard by the Constitutional and Public Law Committee of the Maryland Senate on January 18.

Office Procedures Class Scheduled

The Homemaker Career Opportunities Program of Garrett Community College, in cooperation with the Continuing Education Department of GCC, has scheduled an eight-week Office Procedures Class to begin in March at the McHenry Campus. The class will meet Friday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The class will include typing, bookkeeping, filing, and receptionist skills for those individuals thinking of returning to work and needing to develop or "brush up" on these skills for employment.

Tuition assistance is available to qualifying individuals through the Homemaker Career Opportunities Program. An eligibility form may be obtained at the HCO Center at 104 E. Center Street in Room 306 by persons interested in applying for assistance.

A minimum of ten persons must be enrolled in the class before it can be held. For more information regarding the exact starting date of the classes and the cost of tuition persons may contact the Homemaker Career Opportunities Program at 334-9184.

CLOTHING SALES TERMINOLOGY

February is a month of clothing sales and as a consumer, it is important for you to be sure that these sales are really bargains. In order to do this, it is important for you to examine the merchandise carefully and to understand the following "sales" terminology.

•"Irregulars:" indicates that there may be imperfection in color, size or fabric construction. These imperfections will not necessarily affect the wear of the garment and are not always visible from the outside of the garment. Try to discover why the garment is "irregular" and determine its effect on your use before making the purchase.

•"Seconds:" may have some mend, tear or run, or a color loss which may or may not affect wearability or acceptability. The imperfections are usually visible. Again, find them and assess their impact for you.

•"Sample merchandise:" refers to merchandise used by manufacturers as samples to show their lines to retail buyers.

•"Fire Stock:" is clothing that has come from a building damaged by fire. These items have not necessarily been damaged at all.

•"Odd lots:" left over merchandise that is out of style, no longer being made, or different sizes (broken sizes).

Knowing what these terms mean could save you money.

FOOD NOTES

Here's a nutritious dish that will warm your tummy on a cold winter evening.

VEGETABLE AND BEEF STEW

Makes about 6 servings.

1 lb. lean chuck, cut in pieces
1 onion, diced
2 carrots, sliced
2 potatoes, diced
3 1-lb. cans tomatoes
2 bay leaves
¼ tsp. pepper
1/8 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. thyme
1 c. water (optional)
10 ozs. frozen corn
5 ozs. frozen peas
1 T. grated orange peel
1 T. parsley
½ green pepper, diced

Brown meat in large pot. Add onions and cook until transparent. Add tomatoes, carrots, potatoes, spices and water (if needed). Simmer for 30 minutes. Add peas, corn, orange peel, parsley and green pepper and simmer 20 more minutes or until vegetables are done. (If thicker stew is desired combine ¼ C. stew liquid with 2 T. flour, stir into stew and cook until thickened).

Oakland Court Of CDA Meets

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America, Oakland Court #2209, convened January 27 in St. Peter's Parochial School. Twenty members and four officers were in attendance.

The group unanimously voted to allow the American Cancer Society the use of bingo equipment and approved several other monetary donations.

Cindy Stem presented a program on Project ART, Action for Responsible TV. Members are allocated particular programs for evaluation over a three-month period. These evaluations will be given to the Knights of Columbus and forwarded to the NBC network.

A motion was carried for Crime Solvers representative, Carol Fox, to discuss the aspects of the program at the next meeting.

Mason To Be Honored With Dinner Saturday

Edward J. Mason, former Maryland State Senator, will be honored this Saturday, February 12, at the Cumberland Country Club with a Testimonial Dinner. Over 200 people from across the state, as well as from his home district of Garrett and Allegany counties, are expected to attend this affair marking his 12 years as a legislator.

Recognition of Sen. Mason's accomplishments will be the focal point of the evening. During his tenure in office, he served as a member of the powerful Budget and Taxation Committee and Minority Leader of the Senate.

A part of his legislation passed was a bill giving relief to the homeowner by removing the sales tax from the fuel adjustment portion of the home utility bills. Better laws for more effective land reclamation, as well as being the initial author and later a supporter of the Coal Severance Tax bill, were a part of Senator Mason's legislative program. He co-authored the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act.

He served as chairman of the Task Force on Educational Needs and Related Matters for the Juvenile Services Committee and chairman of the subcommittee on Transporation of the Scanlon Task Force. He became an outspoken proponent of transportaion needs throughout the state leading the longest filibuster in state history attempting to defeat the Baltimore subway legislation.

Mason became a leader in the Republican Party in Maryland starting as a Young Republican in the 1960s. In 1967, he was selected as Allegany County Young Republican of the Year and in 1968 he was named Maryland Young Republican Man of the Year. Twice he served as Delegate to the Republican National Conventions. In 1971, he represented the United States at the NATO Conference, Young Political Leaders in London, England. More recently, the Maryland Republican Party selected him as the Outstanding Republican in the state.

Crossmatch Nabs More Violators

Unemployment Insurance claimants who illegally collect unemployment insurance benefits while working continue to be discovered through the computerized system called Crossmatch, according to Mike Ashley, director of the Unemployment Insurance Division of the State Employment Security Administration.

Through Crossmatch, records of unemployment insurance benefits paid to claimants are compared with wage records reported to the Employment Security Administration by employers throughout the State.

In recent weeks, the District Court of Maryland for Baltimore City has convicted Walter R. Bridges, Linda S. Soto, David H. Crofton, Theodore W. Hill and Zonnie L. Green of fraud.

For their actions each claimant was ordered to make restitution ranging from $466 to $2,484, fined $200 to $500, paid court costs from $15 to $20, received suspended sentences of 89 days in jail and placed on probation to the Employment Security Administration for 12 months to 36 months.

Veteran Council Proposal Receives Favorable Report

Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) has cosponsored Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 concerning Vietnam and disabled veterans. Introduced on January 17, the resolution has been reported favorably out of committee.

SJR 3 requests that the Governor establish a Vietnam and Disabled Veterans Business Resource Council. The Council would assist Vietnam and disabled veteran owned businesses in obtaining financial assistance from all levels of governments. The composition and responsi-responsibilities of the Council are set forth in the Resolution.

Bambacus, a Vietnam veteran himself, stated that "additional capital for Vietnam and disabled veterans' businesses can only have a positive effect on economic development in the state of Maryland, which supports the establishment and expansion of small businesses. The Congress of the U.S. has appropriated some $25 million for this kind of use. We must make every effort to bring these businesses and resources together."

The Council would be composed of representatives of veterans groups, the banking industry, the Small Business Administration, and the Department of Economic and Community Development.

Local FFA Youth At Conference In Annapolis

Sixty blue-jacket high school students are presently touring the Maryland State House and have met with Governor Harry Hughes during the sixth annual Future Farmers of America Citizenship Conference on February 8 and 9.

State Future Farmers officers and local chapter presidents from all over Maryland are meeting in Annapolis for a fast moving schedule that includes tours of the new Maryland Department of Agriculture headquarters, the Naval Academy, and the Government House. They are hearing from representatives of the Executive, Judicial and Legislative branches of state government, and are participating in a mock session in the Senate chambers conducted by Senate President Melvin A. Steinberg.

Attending from Garrett County are Leonard Custer, president of the Oakland Chapter; Karen Hamilton, junior president of the Oakland Chapter; Truman Kahl, president of the Junior North Garrett Chapter, and Daniel Meese, reporter for the North Garrett Chapter, who are representing the chapter president. Accompanying the group is Harold Lougherie, regional coordinator and Nothern High School advisor.

Governor Hughes met with the group on Tuesday, and presented a proclamation to State FFA president Carol Irvine.

During their stay in Annapolis the youth have had the opportunity to observe the House and Senate in session, and to attend a committee hearing and have visited with their legislators.

The conference is sponsored by the Maryland Farm Bureau and Nationwide Insurance Company, in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Nationwide Company is hosting a dinner for the visitors at their office in Parole.

Farming in Maryland

Registration Forms Sent To Beekeepers

I. Barton Smith, Jr., chief apiary inspector for the Maryland Department of Agriculture, says that bee colony registration forms are now in the mail.

Persons who have not received a form, or have very recently become beekeepers or, for some reason, have not registered their colonies in the past, are asked to contact Smith for the proper forms by writing to: "Apiary Inspection," Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, Maryland 21401.

Maryland law requires all bee colonies to be registered. Several benefits of registration, Smith says, are the free inspection of the bee colonies for disease, help in promoting the rental of colonies to interested fruit and vegetable growers, and guidance and advance warning of pesticide spraying by gypsy moth control programs.

In 1982, some 2,800 apiaries were registered in Maryland containing 14,700 colonies, or hives, of bees.

Funds Authorized For State's '83 Conservation Plan

William B. Crum, chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said that $869,000 had been authorized for the State's 1983 Agricultural Conservation Program. The allocation was determined by the Secretary of Agriculture, based on conservation needs in the State.

Crum said $190 million was set for the 1983 ACP at the national level.

Program funds are available for Vegetative Cover, Stripcropping Systems, Diversions, Sod Waterways, Animal Waste Control Facilities, Forestry Plantings, and others. These practices will provide enduring solutions to the problems of farmland being a source of agricultural pollution or land affected by wind or water erosion. The program also authorizes two or more farmers to pool their resources, efforts, and finances to perform practices which will solve a mutual conservation problem on their farms.

MARYLAND BUREAU HONORED — Mrs. Martha Clark, Maryland State Women's Committee Chairman, displays two plaques awarded to Maryland Farm Bureau at the 64th Annual National Convention held recently in Dallas, Texas. The Gold-star award, left, was accepted by Maryland Farm Bureau President, Leon Enfield, for 1982 achievements in membership gain (11 years of growth and all-time high). Mrs. Clark accepted the Silver-star plaque, right, awarded to Maryland Farm Bureau Women's Committee for having the most-improved program in each of the 12 program areas for each membership class. This was the first time in history that Maryland Women's Committee has been awarded this honor. Presentations were made by American Farm Bureau Federation President Robert Delano and Vice-President Elton Smith in the Dallas Convention Center.

Sharing up to 75 percent of the cost of conservation measures on farmland, ACP is aimed at making sure the public tax dollar is buying needed conservation beyond that which the farmer would accomplish with his own resources.

Each County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee in Maryland identifies critical conservation problems in the county, determines priorities for cost-sharing to obtain the maximum solutions to the problems, and selects practices for the county program.

"The basic allocation includes amounts for technical services provided by the Soil Conservation Service," Crum said. The allocation does not include amounts transferred at the national level to the Forest Service for technical services, he explained.

The ACP offers both annual and long term conservation agreements. To apply persons should contact the local ASCS office.

Signup For '83 Payment-In-Kind Program Begins

Signup for the 1983 Payment-in-Kinc Program began on January 24 and will continue until March 11, according to William B. Crum, chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. March 11 will also be the final date to sign up for the previously announced Acreage Reduction Program.

The Payment-in-Kind (PIK) Program will allow farmers of wheat, corn, or grain sorghum to take out of production additional acres over what they agree to take out under the current Acreage Reduction Program and receive as payment an amount of the Commodity that would have grown on those acres. Commodities for the PIK Program will come from farmer-owned reserve, regular loan, or Commodity Credit Corporation owned stocks.

"PIK will help to bring supply more in line with demand by reducing production and reducing surplus stocks," said Crum. "It will also avoid increases in the federal budget that would have been necessary if the Acreage Reduction Program was merely expanded."

"Farmers have four possible options for making their 1983 plans," Crum said. "They may participate in the regular Acreage Reduction Program; participate in the regular programs plus the 10-30 percent PIK; withdraw the entire base acreage if their whole base bid is accepted; or not participate at all."

Farmers participating in the Acreage Reduction Program (ARP) agree to put 20% of their base acres in conserving use in order to be eligible for deficiency payments, diversion payments, commodity loans, and the farmer-owned reserve. In addition to enrolling in the ARP, all producers have the option of diverting an additional 10 to 30 percent of their base and receiving PIK bushels as payment. Producers in the 10-30 percent PIK will receive as their bushel payment, 80% of their established yield for corn and sorghum, and 95% of their established yield for wheat per acre of base acres they diverted for PIK.

A farmer wishing to take his entire base acreage out of production may bid to do so by specifying the percent of his yield that he will accept in return for diverting all of his acreage. However, no bids will

Day In Annapolis Set For Feb. 23

At a recent meeting, in Randallstown, of County Women's Committee chairmen and state directors, attended by Shirley Sines and Donna Glotfelty, plans were announced for the Annual Farm Bureau's "Day in Annapolis" on Wednesday, February 23. Those planning to go from Garrett and Allegany counties will have the opportunity to meet and have lunch with their local representatives in Annapolis, and to attend House and Senate sessions and committee hearings. Reservations must be made before February 15, by calling Mrs. Sines at 387-4929, or Mrs. Glotfelty at 245-4345.

Farmers May Take Advantage Of Reduced Fee

Senator John Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) would like to advise area farmers of a little-known law which could help them control costs, even if only in a small way.

Article 13-935 of the Annotated Code of Maryland provides that a registration fee of only $1.00 may be charged from any Class K vehicle. Class K farm area vehicles are defined as those which are owned by a farmer and operated on a farm or roads adjacent to a farm.

"It has been brought to my attention that some farmers have been paying full registration fees for their farm vehicles. Under this provision, they need only pay the $1.00 fee per vehicle," Bambacus said.

Registration forms for Class K Farm Area Vehicles may be obtained by contacting the Department of Motor Vehicles on High Street in Oakland or the Searstown Shopping Center in LaVale.

Wye Angus Bull Auction Slated

The fifth annual auction of world-famous Wye Angus bulls is scheduled for Monday, March 28, at the Wye Research and Education Center near Queenstown.

This year 50 yearling bulls, products of the University of Maryland Foundation's Wye Angus program, are catalogued for sale at the noon public auction, according to Richard Beck, herd program manager.

Inspection of the sale offering by prospective buyers and guests is scheduled for Sunday, March 27.

The Wye Angus herd was established in 1938 with 18 heifers and one bull calf by Arthur A. Houghton, Jr., former chairman of the board of Corning Glass.

Houghton donated the herd to the University of Maryland Foundation, Inc. in 1978.

Today, the near-500-head herd is an integral part of the University of Maryland's Agricultural Experiment Station research in animal science and husbandry.

It is valued world-wide for its production of bulls used in every beef cattle-producing state in the United States and more than a dozen foreign countries.

be accepted that are higher than rates established for the 10-30 program.

"Because no more than 50 percent of the total base in any county may be diverted into conservation use, the number of whole base bids accepted will depend on the level of signup for the regular ARP and the 10-30 percent PIK," said Crum.

Producers entering PIK with outstanding reserve or regular price support loans must make the commodity under loan available to Commodity Credit Corporation for liquidation of their loans. They can not forfeit or redeem their commodities under loan and then draw additional commodities from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks. Loans which mature before producers receive their payment-in-kind will be extended and storage will be paid by Commodity Credit Corporation from maturity until receipt of the payment-in-kind.

Program participants in Maryland will receive title to their PIK commodity on July 15 for wheat and October 15 for corn and sorghum. In order to give the producer marketing flexibility, the Commodity Credit Corporation will allow participants up to five months beyond the availability date in which to take title to their commodity. Commodity Credit Corporation will pay storage during these five months at a rate of 26½ cents per bushel or if the grain is in a warehouse, the storage rate will be the approved rate for the warehouse where the grain is stored.

Crum urged all farmers to visit their county ASCS office to obtain details on the 1983 programs.

January 1 Grain Stocks Reported

Corn stored in Maryland on January 1, 1983 totaled nearly 44 and one-half million bushels, according to the Maryland Crop Reporting Service. This volume is three percent more than a year earlier, and a record. The corn stored on farms, at 26.1 million bushels, amounted to 16 percent more than a year earlier. However, this increase was partly offset by a 12 percent decline in corn stored in commercial off farm facilities.

Maryland producers had 3.6 million bushels of soybeans in storage on their farms at the first of the year, up 45 percent from January 1, 1982. Oats in storage totaled 743,000 bushels compared with 662,000 a year earlier. Seventy-one percent of these stored oats were on farms.

All barley stored in Maryland facilities on January 1 amounted to 1.7 million bushels, 65 percent more than a year earlier. The grain in off farm storage increased from 334,000 million bushels last year to almost one million bushels this January.

Wheat stocks were down considerably; just over a million bushels were in storage, compared with almost two million a year earlier. Most of the drop was in commercial facilities.

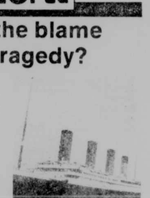
Who takes the blame for Titanic tragedy?

By Debra Morgenstern Katz

Was the sinking of the Titanic an "act of God," as many in 1912 said it was? Or was it "more the result of the foolishness of man"?



Experts and survivors discuss that question in a chilling documentary on PBS' Enterprise airing Feb. 16, called "Titantic: A Question of Murder." (Local times may vary; check listings.)

That people are still rehashing the Titanic tragedy 71 years after its sinking is tribute to the fascination and horror that surrounds the event. There is even an organized Titanic fan club, so to speak, called the Titanic Historical Society, comprised mainly of people unrelated to the event who are obsessed with it. When asked why, they come up with vague references to the romance and melodrama surrounding the disaster.

Luxury liners are certainly romantic, and the Titanic with its notable passenger list of the wealthy and famous, on its heralded maiden voyage, was a glittery setting. And the sinking of a great "unsinkable" ship — the biggest in the world — all ablaze with lights as the band played on is an image that etches itself on the mind forever.

As for the melodrama — what before was an unfortunate drama indeed becomes even more horrendous with the information in this documentary.

More than 1,500 lives were lost in the Titanic sinking, according to this program, and for one main reason. In a ship that carried more than 3,000 persons, there were only enough lifeboats for a mere third of them.

British journalist Peter Williams presents evidence that the owners of the ship ignored designs by the builders that called for more than three times the amount of lifeboats ultimately used. Blueprints, documents and trial testimony are produced as evidence.

But the ship's owners were not the only foolish ones in this tragedy. There was the voice on the Titanic's radio who listened to repeated warnings about treacherous icebergs in the waters from other ships in the area.

"We are stopped and surrounded by ice," said the S.S. Californian in its second warning to the Titanic, just one hour before the Titanic's collision with an iceberg.

"Shut up," responded the Titanic. "I'm busy."

Not only did she not stop, as the Californian did, but at the time of impact she was traveling faster than at any time before in her voyage.

By the end of the film, when one survivor says poignantly, "It was almost like murder, wasn't it?" a viewer is inclined to agree.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Country hideaway for married soap couple

By Nancy M. Reichardt

Stephen Schnetzer (Cass Winthrop on "Another World") and his wife, "One Life to Live" star Nancy Snyder (Katrina Karr), have been spending all their spare time away from their respective soaps remodeling a 100-year-old barn they purchased in upstate New York.

Stephen Schnetzer

"We hope to turn this old barn into a three-bedroom hideaway," says Stephen.

While Stephen and the contractors are busy with the handiwork, Nancy keeps herself occupied scouring the countryside for the antique furniture the couple plan to furnish their love nest with.

In the midst of sagging Nielsen ratings, ABC has relinquished the head-writing reins of "Ryan's Hope" back to the show's original creators, Claire Labine and Paul Avila Mayer.

The 12-time, Emmy Award-winning writing team left "RH" last year when the web took over the production of the show.

Denise Pence (Katie Parker on "Guiding Light") and her actor husband, Steve Boockvor, have decided to call their expected second child Brett — no matter what the infant's sex turns out to be.

"We think it's a terrific name for a boy or a girl," said Denise.

Meanwhile, Denise's "GL" star Don Stewart (Mike Bauer) has been keeping as busy as ever with appearances with the Fort Lauderdale Symphony Orchestra and at a benefit for the San Antonio Multiple Sclerosis Society.

On a recent segment of "Hour Magazine," Kin Shriner reported that he enjoys the new image of his "General Hospital" character, Scotty Baldwin, who "has gone real bad." Kin said one reason he likes playing a villain is that the writers of "GH" move his plots line forward at a much faster pace.

Also discussed in the segment were facts about Kin's move to Hollywood with his twin brother, Wil, and the car accident that killed his mother and father, humorist Herb Shriner.

Tip O'Neill

Tip on 'Cheers'

A familiar Boston figure enters a familiar Boston bar this week when Rep. Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, D-Mass., guest-stars on "Cheers."

The Speaker of the House is an avid fan of the half-hour comedy, which stars Ted Danson as a retired Red Sox pitcher who owns a bar and Shelley Long and Rhea Perlman as waitresses.

When O'Neill joked to his former administrative aide, Dolores Snow, "Can you imagine me sitting next to Norm (George Wendt) at the 'Cheers' bar?" he didn't expect her to put him on that bar stool.

But Mrs. Snow is the mother of the "Cheers" casting director and she thought his idea a good one.

O'Neill will play himself in the episode called "No Contest," airing Thursday, Feb. 17 on NBC. In the show, he ducks into the bar to avoid a political conversation.

Said Miss Long about the native Bostonian's acting ability, "He was very natural."

O'Neill said he will donate his salary for the episode to the Cambridge Boys' Club.

Chef turns owner

David Garo Sokitch, a chef in a top restaurant in San Francisco, was "one of the best in the city" when he quit to open his own restaurant, taking a chance in a high-risk, low-return business. The failure rate of new restaurants is 80-to-90 percent.

"Everybody, somewhere along the line in life, wants to do his own thing," says Sokitch.

PBS followed him along that line in his life, filming him through the planning, construction and opening of his new restaurant, Garo's, for an "Enterprise" episode called "Chef's Special," to air Thursday, Feb. 17 on PBS. (Local times may vary; check listings.)

Polly Bergen portrays Rhoda Henry, who loves her husband but is drawn to another man, in "The Winds of War," a seven-part miniseries airing Feb. 7 through Feb. 13 on ABC.

Horne, Sinatra album; Scavullo retrospective

By Cindy Adams

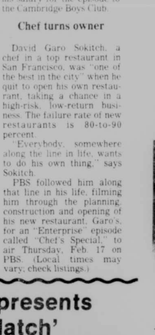
NEW YORK — A couple of young kids starting out, Lena Horne and Frank Sinatra will make their first album together. They'll do it in Los Angeles with Grammy-winner Quincy Jones doing the arrangements. Harper & Row is publishing a retrospective of Francesco Scavullo, called "Just Scavullo." But try to control yourself. It won't be out until Christmas '84.

Assuming that one of those persons attracted to the foot-light-life has talent, he or she then has to strike the right luck at the right time. And maybe even be one of the rare ones who finds a perfect role and sticks with it.

A century ago, Joseph Jefferson found his personal gold mine in touring for decades as "Rip Van Winkle." Not all that surprising, when you consider that in his time there weren't even movies, much less television.

More surprising today, is the magnetic Yul Brynner, who, though he does movies, too, has found his personal gold mine in stage productions of "The King and I."

Television — a widespread gobbler of productions that it is — may be even more unpredictable for thespians than the old theater circuits.



One route to career survival — and a rara avis this one is — is to juggle two dissimilar series roles the same season.

Robert Reed pulled it off back when he starred as the family head in "The Brady Bunch" and managed also to report for a running role as a police officer in "Mannix," which starred Mike Connors.

This year, it's been happening to the talented Fern Fitzgerald. She's been the rich one — inquired of Mikhail Baryshnikov if he'll make more movies. He answered: "That part of my career was long ago. I am getting too old." I don't know. He looked good to me.

'Playhouse' presents 'File on Jill Hatch'

"The File on Jill Hatch" is a three-hour miniseries in three parts that ranges across two continents and several decades.

On "American Playhouse" on PBS Tuesday evenings starting Feb. 15, "The File on Jill Hatch" stars Gloria Foster, Penny Johnson, Joe Morton, Frances Tomelty and Tim Woodward, the first three Americans and the latter two from England. (Local times may vary; check listings.)

The production is a co-venture between the BBC of England and WNET Thirteen of New York, with producers and directors from both countries participating.

The story concerns a young black woman named Jill Hatch (Miss Johnson), who is the daughter of a black American GI (Morton) and a white Englishwoman (Miss Tomelty), who fell in love in England during the second world war.

When they returned to America the Englishwoman was dismayed to find that the GI's mother (Miss Foster) disapproved of her as being beneath her son socially and intellectually.

The class issues raised in that scene, and the conflicts and disillusionments portrayed later as the couple experience the civil rights movement of the '60s, as well as the love story between the GI and the Englishwoman, are several elements of the drama.

But all are subordinate to the story of the daughter, Jill Hatch, and how all the events around her affect her life and growth.

In the first episode, airing this week, the story opens in 1981 with the uncle of Miss Hatch, a police officer accused of misconduct, who is defending himself through the telling of this story.

Part two will air Tuesday, Feb. 22 and part three will air on Tuesday, March 1.

Kathryn Harrold stars as the girlfriend of a modern-day bounty hunter, played by Steve McQueen, in the motion picture "The Hunter," to air Saturday, Feb. 12 on CBS.

Finding work is still an actor's hardest job

By Ruth Thompson

Earlier generations heard there were hundreds of broken hearts for every light on Broadway. That, of course, is still true.

Assuming that one of those persons attracted to the foot-light-life has talent, he or she then has to strike the right luck at the right time. And maybe even be one of the rare ones who finds a perfect role and sticks with it.

A century ago, Joseph Jefferson found his personal gold mine in touring for decades as "Rip Van Winkle." Not all that surprising, when you consider that in his time there weren't even movies, much less television.

More surprising today, is the magnetic Yul Brynner, who, though he does movies, too, has found his personal gold mine in stage productions of "The King and I."

Television — a widespread gobbler of productions that it is — may be even more unpredictable for thespians than the old theater circuits.

One route to career survival — and a rara avis this one is — is to juggle two dissimilar series roles the same season.

Robert Reed pulled it off back when he starred as the family head in "The Brady Bunch" and managed also to report for a running role as a police officer in "Mannix," which starred Mike Connors.

This year, it's been happening to the talented Fern Fitzgerald. She's been the rich

Fern Fitzgerald

Marilee Stone on "Dallas," who dallied with J.R. Ewing now and then for a couple of seasons. Things perked up for her character when her husband died and J.R. (Larry Hagman) went back to his wife, leaving Marilee some dramatic shouting to do as a woman scorned. Fern loved it.

But she's even more at home in the moonlighting gym that's also come her way this season. That's as the bartender, Pat, which was meant to be a guest spot on "Archie Bunker's Place" on CBS, but which, to Fern's joy, was stretched to two shows.

Fern is also a one-time cheerleader, who identifies with feisty, upbeat types, so she's retained both goodies that came her way this season.

Answer to TV Circles
Archie Bunker's Place

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

WHO IS HE? — There was a character called Capt. Freedom on "Hill Street Blues." Was he played by one of the actors starring in "Simon and Simon"? — Mrs. R.G., Bridgewater, Va.

No, Dennis Dugan played Capt. Freedom. He had a series that was on briefly called "Richie Brockelman, Private Eye." He also played that character on some segments of "The Rockford Files." The two gentlemen playing "Simon and Simon" are Gerald McRaney, the brother with the moustache, and Jameson Parker.

Dennis Dugan

FALLING FOR A GAL — On "The Fall Guy," there is a character played by Heather Thomas. Could you please tell me where I could write her? — D.L., Heather Thomas' No. 1 Fan, Apple Valley, Minn.

Write Heather, who plays Jody, the aspiring stunt woman, in care of the show at 20th Century-Fox Studios, 10100 Pico Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90212. Heather Thomas is one of two beautiful, blond actresses named Heather on a TV series this year, and some people confuse them. The other is Heather Locklear of "T.J. Hooker."

Heather Thomas

HAPPY TIME — I have watched almost all the "Happy Days" shows and I wonder what happened to the oldest Cunningham son. Did more than one actor play him? — L.P., Lawton, Okla.

Chuck, the college-bound son, disappeared after the first season. Presumably he is still studying. Gavan O'Herlihy and Randolph Roberts both played the role.

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Avenue, Room 602, New York, NY 10166.)

Value Of 1982 Maryland Crop Production Down

Principal crops grown in Maryland in 1982 are valued at 406.6 million dollars. These preliminary Crop Reporting Service figures indicate the value is down five percent from 1981. Field crops, accounting for 94 percent of the total, dropped five percent in value from the previous year. The value of fruit at about $12.5 million increased two percent, but vegetables were off 10 percent to $13.4 million.

Maryland grain corn production is valued at $162.4 million, off 17 percent from 1981. A smaller acreage and lower prices account for the drop. The value of soybeans, at $64.6 million, is down four percent from the 1981 crop. Lower prices more than offset increased production.

Oats value, at a little more than two million dollars, was off 12 percent from 1981, due to lower prices. Barley, one of the few crops valued higher, accounted to $11.7 million, up eight percent from a year earlier. Wheat also increased two percent in value to 18.7 million dollars.

Preliminary data, based on 1981 prices, indicate the value of Maryland tobacco is near $65 million, an increase of 14 percent from 1981. Hay is valued at $50 million, 24 percent more than the previous year. The value of the potato crop is offset from 1981 due to lower prices. Irish potatoes are valued at $1.5 million compared to $2.8 million in 1981 and sweetpotato values are offset 47 percent to $1.9 million.

Hog Numbers Drop

Hogs and pigs on Maryland farms December 1, 1982 numbered 200,000, 20 percent below a year earlier.

Hogs kept for breeding dropped the greatest amount, 29 percent, but market hogs were off 18 percent. Market hogs showed the largest drop in the under 60 lb. and 120-179 lb. weight groups.

A total of 403,000 pigs were born last year, eight percent below a year earlier.

NO. 8325 EQUITY
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT
MARYLAND

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District No. 14 of Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland to Roy F. Elliott:

One acre of land, more or less, assessed in the name of Martin A. Carney, in Election District No. 14, Garrett County, Maryland, and being the same as described in two deeds, the first from John G. The bill states, among other things, that title to said property was vested in the above named defendants at the time of said tax sale and still so remains; that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than one year and a day from the date of sale has expired.

IT IS THEREFORE, this 17th day of January, 1983, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ordered that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 10th day of February, 1983, warning all persons interested in said property to be and appear in this Court by the 21st day of March, 1983, and redeem the property herein described and answer the bill, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property and vesting in the plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

DNR To Sponsor "Rivers Month"

The Department of Natural Resources will sponsor a "June Is Rivers Month" in Maryland.

The observation, to be marked by exhibits, special activities and a photographic contest, is designed to call public attention to the value of the state's waterways.

DNR's Scenic Rivers Program is urging citizen participation in river related activities during the month.

Maryland's observance will coincide with "America Rivers Month," also to be celebrated in June, if national legislation expected to be introduced soon in the Congress is signed by the President.

A major component of Maryland's campaign will be a calendar of events for June. It will list river and water related activities occurring regionally throughout the state during June.

"It will be a great way to start the summer season," said Isedora Ballard, Chief of DNR's Wild and Scenic Rivers Program. "Citizens can help the program and help their civic groups and clubs by sending in any regular or special events their organizations have planned or scheduled for June.

"Information stating the type of activity, date, time, location, fees, who to contact, registration and deadlines should be included.

"Even though the month of June seems distant, early responses are necessary so that the finished calendar will be ready by the end of April."

The Scenic Rivers Program is also sponsoring a Photography Contest in support of American Rivers Month and will send out contest rules and agreement forms upon request.

Information should be sent to Ms. Ballard or Derek Richardson at the Scenic Rivers Program Office at the Tawes State Office Building (C-3), Annapolis, Maryland 21401. They can be reached by telelphone at (301) 269-3656.

St. John's congregational choir will meet Thursday, February 10, at 7:30 p.m., in the church.

Ellen Friend was lector at St. John's on Sunday, and Margie Brenneman was Emmanuel's lector.

A Ministers' Fellowship will be held all next week at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church. About 100 ministers are expected from all parts of the country. Public services will be held at the church Monday through Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m.

All newsletter items are due Thursday, February 10.

A booklet of annual reports of the entire Parish was distributed on Sunday at all three churches. Sharon Lowery is editor of the booklet.

Zion's LCW Meets

The LCW of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held its monthly meeting in the church on February 1, with six members and one visitor, Alta Broadwater, in attendance.

The topic "Racism and Me" was introduced by Leota Baker and endeavored to define racism and help the group sense a growing self-awareness of those racist tendencies and actions that are a part of its lives and society. The scripture lessons from Galatians and James were read by Ruthella Resh and Alta Broadwater.

Mrs. Nellie Yommer presided over the business meeting which she opened with a scripture reading and prayer.

A total of 40 hospital gowns were made and sent to the Passavant Health Center in Zelienople, Pa. A sewing project for the same home will continue during the ensuing months, making bibs from terry cloth hand towels and quilted type potholders. Handcraft items for the gift shop will be accepted for this project also.

Subscriptions were taken for Lutheran Women's magazine.

The missionary benediction closed the meeting and Mrs. Broadwater led the group in singing "Savior, like a Shepherd lead us."

Correction: An item last week said Lois Brenneman was in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland. It should have read Olis Brenneman.

DNR Announces Last Call For Wye Oak Seedlings

A limited number of Wye Oak seedlings can be purchased from the Maryland Forest and Park Service, Department of Natural Resources.

The seedlings, grown at the Buckingham Forest Tree Nursery at Harmans, grew from acorns gathered around the Wye Oak, Maryland's State tree. The Wye Oak, located in Wye Mills, Talbot County, Maryland is the National Champion White Oak. It is about 450 years old, stands 95 feet tall and has a spread of about 165 feet. The trunk measures 50 feet around at its base.

Orders are being taken by mail for the one-year-old seedlings. Persons desiring one should mail $5.00 for each seedling requested to: Maryland Forest and Park Service, Buckingham Forest Tree Nursery, Harmans, Maryland 21077. Checks should be made payable to Department of Natural Resources. Persons should print name and address where trees are to be sent and designate the number of seedlings desired. These seedlings are being sold on a first-come, first-served basis. Wye Oak seedlings may not be available again for several years, the DNR said.

Seedlings will be shipped during March, 1983. A certificate will accompany the seedling stating that it is a bona fide seedling from the Wye Oak.

Census Bureau Slates Survey

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in Garrett County during the work week of February 14-19, 1983, John Bell, acting director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia, announced last week.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals, according to Bell.

SNOW, SNOW AND MORE SNOW — A lone automobile, its headlights struggling to pierce the wall of white, (pictured center) creeps down Second Street in Oakland during Friday's onslaught of snow. The storm dumped nearly two feet of snow on the mountaintop, but left even more in areas to the east of Garrett County. Area Legislators Introduce Liquor Control Measure

The pace is increasing in the Maryland General Assembly as the number of bills to be considered increase each week. New legislation introduced within the past week by Garrett Sen. John Bambacus and Del. George Edwards include a bill which would effect sweeping changes in the county's liquor control board and liquor license rate structure.

The bill has been crossfiled in both House and Senate. Known as House Bill 961 and Senate Bill 545, the bill calls for repealing of certain additional fees based on certain percentages that are currently added to Class D liquor licenses. The bill also would repeal a certain maximum liquor license fee for this Class D license; require the commissioners to set a new license fee structure; require the State's Attorney's office to enforce the liquor laws in the county, and decreasing from $1,800 to $600 the annual compensation for the liquor control board members.

Senate Legislation

SB 35, concerning collective bargaining rights for all public school employees here, is still in committee. There has been no acceptance of any bills yet by the various committees examining the senate bills, according to a report Tuesday afternoon.

Four hearings were held yesterday on competitive bids, time of annual fiscal report, truck vendors' licenses, and changing the membership of the Board of Education to allow a county commissioner as ex officio member. Although it is too early to predict the fates of the bills, Sen. Bambacus stated that he is optimistic these will receive favorable reports.

Sen. Bambacus noted his disappointment that SB 240, which would permit fire chiefs in Garrett and Allegany counties to use flashing lights on their vehicles, has received an unfavorable report in the Constitutional Law committee. Senators Cushwa and Bambacus voted in favor of the measure, while the other four committee members voted against the proposal. Those opposed feel that the measure would set a precedent. Such emergency signals are presently allowed in Harford County although there is some discussion about repealing the measure there.

Hearings are scheduled as follows for senate legislation: SB 288, on the county's sludge disposal and transportation measure, February 25;

SB 289, on bond forfeitures for land reclamation after strip mining, February 18 at 1 p.m. in the Economic Affairs com-

Cloudy tonight, low in the 20s. Cloudy Thursday with a chance of rain or wet snow. Highs in upper 30s. Partly cloudy Friday and Saturday. Sunny Sunday. Highs mainly in the 40s. Lows in the 30s except 20s in the Maryland mountains.

New Draft Of Yough River Bill Now Complete

A new draft of legislation which would change the designation of the Youghiogheny River from "wild" and "scenic" to all "scenic" in this county was introduced recently by Sen. John Bambacus and Del. George Edwards.

The new draft, as first studied by the commissioners, has earned their approval, unlike a previous draft which the commissioners felt shifted the responsibility but not the control of the river from the Department of Natural Resources to local government.

The revised legislation says that if the commissioners determine that their county laws conform in a reasonable manner to the transition plan, control shall revert to the commissioners.

The bill says that the commissioners must appoint a committee of seven members: six appointed by the commissioners and one by the Governor to represent the Department of Natural Resources, to complete a transition plan within one year.

Such a transition plan should include consideration of local county ordinances and zoning regulations, and once completed, there must be a public hearing to obtain public input and suggestions, as noted in the proposal.

After the hearing, the committee will finalize the plan and present it to the commissioners for their approval.

Yoder School, NHS Architect Are Board Of Education Topics

Discussions about budgets, selection of an architect for renovation of Northern High School, a meeting concerning Yoder School, and visits from students representing both high schools and Garrett Community College were highlights of the February 10 meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education.

During executive session, the board tentatively ratified the teachers' contract pay increase for the 1983-84 year. The proposal is now in the hands of the Garrett County Teachers Association.

The board was also informed that by February 8, some $5,103,767.95 had been disbursed from the unrestricted funds budget, which is approximately 44.7 percent of the amount budgeted for the year. James Lupis, assistant superintendent for administrative services, reminded the board that two major expenditures, for fuel and the maintenance contract, have not come due as yet so the percentage figure could be misleading at present.

Hearing Scheduled

The board has scheduled its annual public hearing on its proposed budget for 1983-84 Thursday, February 24, at 7 p.m. at Garrett Community College. All members of the public are invited.

Meeting Organized

After considerable debate during two board sessions, the group decided to continue meeting on the second Thursday of each month beginning at 1:30 p.m. However, the board will now begin with an executive session, so that meetings will be open to the public at approximately 2:30 p.m.

The board also agreed to make every effort to end its sessions by 6:30 p.m., rather than the more usual 9 or 10 p.m.

Anyone who desires to meet with the board may be placed on the agenda by making a request to the superintendent of schools one week prior to the meeting date.

Yoder School Discussed

More than 60 parents met with the board members at 7 p.m. last Thursday for a two-hour discussion of the Yoder School. The Rev. Elmer Maust read a prepared statement of parents' concerns, chief of which were suggestions for the admission criteria currently being developed by the Board of Education staff for the school.

According to Rev. Maust, the parents are suggesting that two of the criteria be that first consideration be given to students who can be served by either regular school bus transportation or by parental transportation, and that students not be transferred to the school because of behavior problems elsewhere.

Although the maximum number of students at the school could be 100, budget reductions have dictated that only three teachers be placed at the school. Ideally, this means that there should be only 75 students there. At present there are 82.

Al Coviello, director of pupil/personnel services for the board, will present a draft of the proposed admission guidelines at the March 10 board meeting.

It is possible to have four classrooms at the school, although one of the rooms is presently in use as a library. There is also space in the basement, but this room could not be used as a classroom due to fire regulations.

Parents were also assured by Albert Ringer, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, that the board has no plans to close the school.

1983 FFA WEEK PROCLAIMED — The Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday proclaimed the week of February 19-26 as FFA Week in Garrett County to recognize the service of county FFA chapters which develop leadership, encourage cooperation, promote citizenship, teach modern agriculture methods and inspires patriotism. Bill On Collective Bargaining Stirs Local Conflicts

Senate Bill 35, introduced by Sen. John Bambacus to require that the public school employer in this county shall designate which employee organization shall be the exclusive representative of all public school employees, is still in committee following a first reading January 12.

The bill, which would give non-certified employees of the Board of Education collective bargaining rights if 30 percent or more agree that a certain employee organization has the right to be their exclusive representative.

Although not contested by the local board, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, county superintendent of schools, testified in a Senate hearing January 27 that the board would like to see the percentage of employees upped

BPW Approves Land Purchase For Park In Park

The State Board of Public Works, acting on a recommendation of the Department of Natural Resources, has approved $45,225 in Program Open Space (POS) funds for purchase of recreational land in Mountain Lake Park.

The sum of 100 percent of the cost of 12 lots at L Street and Philadelphia Avenue to be known as the Mountain Lake Park Neighborhood Park — North.

The site is that of the former elementary school, and the property includes several pieces of playground equipment which can be used by area children. The town has not yet begun work toward submitting another application for POS funds to further equip the playground for smaller children, according to John Nelson, Program Open Space coordinator for the county.

Delbert Bittinger, who owns lots 1109, 1111, 1113, 1117, and 1119, also owns the former school structure and plans to retain the building as apartments.

Other lot owners are Harold Park, 1116, 1118; David Glaze, 1114; Harland Kelley, 1112; and Robert G. Speicher, 1108, 1110. One landowner, Glaze, does not wish to sell his 50-foot property and the town may have to consider the option of condemnation if Glaze continues in his refusal.

The Board of Public Works is comprised of Governor Harry Hughes, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer William S. James. Program Open Space is a division of the Department of Natural Resources' Capital Programs Administration.

1,150 Potomac Edison Customers Powerless Saturday

A five-man repair crew from Potomac Edison Power Company used snowshoes to reach the source of a power failure Saturday in the Deer Park area. The outage, which caused 1,150 residences and homes to be without power from shortly after 2 o'clock until 8 p.m., was in an area inaccessible by vehicle.

When the trouble was first discovered, the repair crew began tracing the 69,000 volt line between the Loch Lynn substation to the substation near Arnold's Store in Deer Park.

Approximately 75 percent of the line is visible and accessible by vehicle from Garrett Road, but the problem was found to be in a remote area approximately one-half mile from Garrett Road. An insulator was found to be broken but the cause of breakage was not determined, according to Gerald Kremer, line superintendent for the Garrett County division.

The power outage also affected numerous cable television customers outside the Deer Park area when power was cut off to the cable tower in the Bethlehem area. Bausch and Lomb was also reported without power on Saturday during the outage.

Few Problems Friday

Very few problems were reported on Friday despite the blizzard which dumped two feet of snow on the area. Kremer noted that some 12 residents in the Garrett Community College area were without power for a time due to a downed line, and several other customers were affected when two transformers failed.

County Sportsmen Unite Efforts To Clarify Game Violation Laws

Two separate factions of the Garrett County population, both interested in the same goal, are meeting with legislators, writing letters to Department of Natural Resource personnel, and contacting groups such as the Maryland Conservation Commission in an attempt to find a clear way through the maze of hunting and fishing laws and their violations, according to spokesmen from both groups.

Unofficially, the groups, made up of interested wildlife enthusiasts, are questioning such items as penalties for those who poach and illegally take game not in season, confusion in reading and understanding game law regulations, and what they deem as "lack of listening" on the part of government and legal officials to the pleas of the hunters and fishermen who do observe the laws.

A total of five petitions are located throughout the county, protesting the lack of proper punishment, among other things, for game law breakers. The petitions, located in the Sports About Shop, owned by Lynn Brennemen, in Grantsville; Buckel's Store, Bittinger; The Winds Restaurant, McHenry; R&S Sports Shop, Gortner; and Schrock's Farm Equipment, Underwood Road, will be presented to either local government officials or state Department of Natural Resource representatives when signed, in the hope that some attention will be given to what the signers feel are valid complaints and questions.

Among the ideas proposed by the outdoorsmen are a Deputy Game Warden system, to help the current DNR staff patrol the woodlands and waterways; a cash reward fund, similar to the Garrett County Crime Solvers plan; and further public awareness of the wildlife problems through the media, public meetings, and printed materials.

As a positive step, according to Shaun Sanders, spokesperson for one group, a meeting will be held this Saturday morning at 10 a.m. at Garrett Community College with Senator John Bambacus and Del. George Edwards to air views on the matter. Hopefully, according to Sanders, public awareness will help ease the way for further contact with Natural Resource representatives, lawyers who prepare cases, judges who hear cases, and law enforcement officials who make the arrests and conduct the investigations.

Snowstorm Chief Conversation Topic

The huge snowstorm Friday which dumped up to two feet of snow along the mid-Atlantic region left many cities paralyzed by abandoned vehicles and snowdrifts, but most stoic Garrett Countians plowed and shovelled their way out by Saturday. Skiing was rated excellent here over the weekend.

According to meterologists, a warm jet stream from the south and a cold jet stream from the north just happened to converge over the mid-Atlantic states and this merger is what provided a never-failing topic for conversation for several days.

In the county, temperatures continue to fluctuate, with the week's high noted Monday at 47 and the week's lowest of overnight lows on Sunday night, when the mercury dropped to six degrees.

High last Wednesday was 34 after the preceding night's low of 19. Thursday the high was 33 degrees following the drop to 12 degrees.

Precipitation began before midnight Thursday, and by Friday the blizzard was doing its damage. High on Friday was 28 degrees after the overnight drop to 12. According to Weber's weather station, .73 of an inch of precipitation was recorded, in the form of 16 inches of snow.

An additional two inches of snow was recorded through Saturday, when temperatures climbed to 32 after the night's low of 11.

Sunday was sunny with a high of 43 after the previous night's low reading of 12. No additional measurable precipitation was recorded Monday, which had a high of 47 after the drop to 6. Tuesday's high was 39 following a low of 13, and Tuesday night's low was 31.

Commission Votes To Continue With Sewerage Project

Members of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission voted unanimously Tuesday night to proceed with the Deep Creek Lake sewerage project.

Their decision remained unchanged from that made January 25 to proceed with the project as the most sensible long-range solution to present and potential pollution of the lake.

The sanitary commission had to review its decision during a public hearing February 10 after nearly 50 lake area residents petitioned the commission to reconsider its decision to proceed.

The next step in the battle to stop the project on the county level will be for the lake residents to petition the Garrett County Commissioners to halt the $17.3 million project. Such a petition would have to contain at least 20 names of those who had petitioned the sanitary commission to reconsider, and Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, says the commission expects those in opposition to carry their case to the county government.

Hearing Today

There will be a hearing today in Baltimore before Judge Frank Kaufman to determine whether an Environmental Impact Study should be completed on the project. That suit, instigated by members of the Property Owners Association of Deep Creek Lake and other area homeowners, could effectively halt the project long enough that grant funds would be channeled into other projects.

February 10 Meeting

The meeting February 10 showed that the petitioners and other area residents still feel strongly opposed to this project as designed by Rummel, Klepper and Kahl.

Kate Filsinger, who is a resident of Route 219 south of the lake ond one of the 27 attending said Thursday that she personally had conducted a house-to-house survey along that route, and no homeowners and only five businesses want the project to go through.

Some 27 persons were present and informed the sanitary Commission chairman Harry Filemyr that the meeting was not being conducted to answer questions but to take statements.

Comments ranged from that made by Bill Burke that maybe the commission had forgotten their duties as commission members and now regarded the project as a personal challenge, to copies of letters sent to the county commissioners asking that board to halt the project.

The latter were written by Mary Kathryn Speicher since July of last year, and pointed out that several homeowners stood to lose their properties because of the costs involved in hookup and operation and maintenance fees.

One citizen, Ted Riffle, stated "We should drop it (the project) and you, too." His sentiments were echoed by Louise Harvey, who said she is opposed to the project as vehemently as possible. She also said she feels the members should resign before putting the residents further in debt and such power as the commission has should be returned to the county com-

BRAVE ACTIONS COMMENDED — The Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday presented a letter of recognition to Robert Charles Grove, Mt. Lake Park, commending him for his "brave and courageous actions" in assisting four young people in escaping from their burning home in Mt. Lake Park on January 9. The commissioners acknowledged Grove's efforts to also rescue 15-year-old Ta Quang Nguyen who died in the fire. Pictured above, left to right, Commissioner Ernest Gregg presents a framed letter to Robert Grove while Commissioners Elwood Groves and John Braskey stand by. Grove was the first person to spot the fire at the residence of Mrs. Trong Hebb, G Street, as he and his sister and mother were driving to church. Grove immediately instructed his sister to go to a neighbor's house to call the fire department and then proceeded to assist the four children out of the burning house. He caught one of the youngsters as he jumped from a second floor window and then he made several attempts to enter the house to save the 15-year-old youth, who was a cousin of the Hebb children. Grove is the son of Mrs. Virginia Grove.

Lions Schedule Grantsville Days June 23-26

Planning has begun for the annual Grantsville Days Celebration to be held June 23, 24, 25 and 26th. A general meeting will be held Feb. 28th, 1983 at 7:30 p.m. in Grantsville at the United Church of Christ. Members of the Grantsville Lions will meet with anyone or any organization interested in establishing a crafts booth, entertainment or refreshment booth, or antique sales area during this weekend celebration.

In addition to the weekend of crafts and antique sales, groups that would be interested in participating in the parade scheduled for June 24th or parties interested in furnishing entertainment or demonstrations for the weekend of June 25 and 26 should contact any member of the Grantsville Lions at once.

During the past five years the Grantsville Days Celebration had grown steadily and succeeded in drawing several thousand spectators over the four-day weekend. This years activities are expected to be larger and better attended with the addition of more entertainment and new crafts shows and demonstrations.

Police Probe Theft Reports; One Arrested

Maryland State Police are investigating several thefts around the county, arresting one man as a result.

The theft of a Stihl Farm Boss chain saw, valued at $400, was reported last week, and Tfc. Larry Rosage began an investigation which led to the arrest of James Ora VanSickle, 33, Accident.

VanSickle was released on his own recognizance, pending a hearing.

The chain saw, taken from a shed owned by Sheldon G. Smith, McHenry, was returned to Trooper Rosage.

An unidentified person entered the home of Kenneth Jamison, Oakland-Sang Run Road, on Monday, removing an undetermined amount of coins, firearms, and stereo equipment. According to police, the suspect entered via an unlocked garage door, and ransacked several drawers.

Unknown persons caused approximately $700 damage to a vehicle at Bell Brothers Used Car Sales on February 9 when they fired a shotgun blast through the windshield radiator, and grill of a 1980 Chevrolet truck. Damage was estimated by the owners, and the investigation is continuing.

Kitzmiller Officials, Engineering Rep Debate Firm's Fee

Town officials from Kitzmiller met Tuesday night during the regular Garrett County Sanitary Commission with a representative from the engineering firm of Frederick Ward and Associates as part of that town's efforts to obtain a water system.

After right of way problems stymied the town's attempts to get water from the Mt. Top Public Service District in West Virginia, town and sanitary commission officials turned their eyes to alternatives here in Maryland.

The town may decide to go along with a sanitary commission recommendation to utilize Wolfden Run by constructing a treatment plant there but no decisions have been made, says Mayor Lois Mosser. The town is awaiting further research and design information before committing itself to Wolfden, said the town attorney John Tosten, but Wolfden appears to be the best of the alternatives.

David Hall represented the Ward firm Tuesday and stated that the firm is requesting additional funds before it will proceed with design of a water treatment plant. Hall alleges that due to the change in scope of the project and the amount of time needed, an additional $30,000 will be required.

Before attempting to comply with the engineering firm's request, the town officials have scheduled a meeting Friday evening with Harry Filemyr, sanitary commissiion chairman, and Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator.

Lenten Services Scheduled By Oakland Churches

Community Lenten services, sponsored by several Oakland area churches, will begin next Wednesday, February 23, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mark's Lutheran Church. The services will continue each Wednesday through March 23, rotating locations among the participating churches.

The theme chosen by area ministers is "Words to the Cross of Jesus." The February 23 service will be led by Rev. Allen Ridenour, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, preaching on the Words to the Cross from the people standing at the foot of the Cross: "He claimed to be the Son of God."

The offerings from the services will be divided between the House of Hope, the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and the Southern Rescue Squad.

Refreshments and fellowship will follow each of the worship services. The public is invited by the pastors to join in this Lenten observance.

Winterfest X Plans Underway

With the snowfall that Garrett County recently received, combined with the best snow making equipment and best skiing on the eastern coast, officials at Wisp Ski Area, McHenry, and winter sports enthusiasts are gearing up for the tenth annual Winterfest.

Winterfest, held each year at Wisp, celebrates the closing of the winter season. This year's festivities are slated for March 25-27.

The Winterfest schedule is laden with a wide variety of the usual winter contests, as well as many bizarre and unusual events.

For people preferring the more reserved winter activities there will be such events as ski competitions to include Scholastic ski contests and a slalom race, horse-drawn sleigh rides, woodsmen competitions, fireworks and torchlight parade, and the unique contest of endurance by man and machine scaling Wisp Face slope on snowmobiles.

Those seeking events for the young at heart may prefer contests such as the fun ski races to include Backwards "Shy" Race, Stein Race, Yankee Jumper, and the costume "Yakapah" Parade.

An evening of dancing and entertainment with the crowning of the Winterfest Queen will kick off the festivities on Friday evening, March 25. The weekend will conclude on Sunday with an awards presentation for winners of that day's events.

New events for this year will include several contests for children, such as bubble gum blowing contest and a snow shoe race. Several events returning this year will be a Tug of War, Wrist Wrestling, Las Vegas Night, and a Firemen's Slalom Race. Another new addition this year will be a Fashion Show.

Winterfest is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lions Club and co-sponsored by Anheuser-Busch, Wisp Ski Resort and the Village Inn. All proceeds go toward community projects, local charities, and the Lion's Club Blind Skiers program.

For more information on this or any other Garrett County event persons can contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council at (301) 334-3888 or write to the council at Courthouse Annex, Oakland, Md. 21550.

Oakland Accepts Contracts Monday

The mayor and council of Oakland met in special session Monday night to accept the proposed contracts for legal services and administration services for the Oakland sewerage project.

The firm of Burnett, Eiswert, Crawford, and Janes, PA, was retained by the town to perform the needed legal assignments. T. R. Janes will be lead attorney with Leonard Eiswert as his assistant.

Their first assignment will be to prepare a contract with Sterling Processing to purchase a portion of the site, set user rates for Sterling, and guarantee that the poultry processing plant or its successors would be responsible for their portion of the construction costs.

Potomac Engineering has been retained as project administrator.

Poll Results

Results of a poll to determine if sewer service should be extended to areas outside the town limits were also brought out Monday by Morgan France, of Franklin Associates, project engineering firm.

Because of the poll results, the town will design a system to include residents on Cherry Glade Run, Dennett Road (10th, 11th and 12th Streets), and South Third Street as far as the Buzz Updyke residence.

Present Monday in addition to Mayor H. D. Swartzentruber and council members Terry Helbig, Von Johnson, James Stanton, Frank Eberly, and R. Mark Durst, were Henry Moomau and Dave Skillman, from Potomac Engineering; Janes, from Burnett, Eiswert, Crawford and Janes; Elmer F. Rhodes, P.E., Art Busbar, Judi Kahl, and France, all of Franklin Associates.

DWI Arrest Results Noted

Three persons were charged by Maryland State Police with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs during the last seven days.

The three include Marvin Wade Friend, 51, Friendsville; Royce G. Riley, 34, Deer Park; and Kenneth Roy Durst, Jr., 19, Grantsville.

Troopers making the arrests included Tfc. Chester Miller and Tfc. Jerry Michael.

Accident Voters To Select Mayor, Two Councilmen

The town of Accident will hold election for mayor and two councilmen to serve for two year terms. Nominated at the town convention for the office of mayor was Wayne Fratz, the incumbent, who is unopposed.

Nominated for councilmen were David Davis, Clarence Glass, Dale Rodeheaver, and Charles Strauss. Davis and Strauss are incumbent councilmen whose two-year terms are expiring.

Holdover councilmen in midterm are Richard Carlson and Owen Bach.

The election, open to all the town's 99 registered voters, will be held Tuesday, March 1, at the town hall. Polls will be open from 4 to 8 p.m.

Southern Student Is Finalist In Senate Program

Verne Leininger, a junior at Southern High School, has been selected as a finalist in the United States Senate Youth Program, according to Pam L. Peddicord, counselor at Southern.

The Senate Youth Program, funded by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation, is sanctioned by the U.S. senate and was developed for outstanding high school student leaders interested in political science to broaden their knowledge of the federal government and, in particular, the United States Senate. The program's goal is to provide students with an opportunity to observe, learn and converse with elected and appointed government officials on the national level.

After meeting with the president of the United States, members of the Cabinet and other government leaders, state winners will also tour many of Washington's historic landmarks. The Hearst Foundation will make available to each of the delegates who participate in this year's program a $2,000 scholarship award.

Leininger is a son of Rev. and Mrs. Verne Leininger, Deer Park.

Oakland Election Set For March 14

Three council members and a treasurer will be chosen by Oakland voters during the town's municipal election on Monday, March 14.

The terms will expire for council members James R. Stanton, Frank Eberly and Von W. Johnson, and treasurer Beryldine Stanton. Other council members are James Evans, R. Mark Durst and Terry Helbig.

Treasurer Stanton announced Tuesday that she will not seek another term, after completing 27 consecutive years of service to the town.

Any resident of Oakland, age 18 or over, may register to vote or file as a candidate at City Hall during regular office hours. The town of Oakland maintains a separate register of voters and registration at the Board of Election Supervisors does not qualify a person to vote in the municipal election.

To be eligible to vote in the March 14 election, persons must register by 4 p.m. February 25.

WHAT BETTER WAY to spend time off from school because of lots of snow than to build your very own snow castle? This is exactly what young Jason and Christy Martin, Loch Lynn, did with their free time Friday and Saturday in their back yard. Jason, who is a Boy Scout, spotted an article in a Boys' Life magazine explaining how to construct such a dwelling. The castle measures eight by 11 feet, is complete with candle lighting and, the first day it was built, it was tall enough for the youngsters to stand in, although warmer temperatures have caused it to sag somewhat since then. Christy and Jason said that they plan to spend the night in the structure, but it was unknown at presstime whether or not permission from their parents, Sonny and Andria Martin, had been granted for such an adventure.

Actress Cather MacCallum Dies

Actress Cather MacCallum, known locally for her work at the Garrett County Playhouse, died January 19 at her home in Santa Fe, New Mexico, of cancer.

MacCallum, a writer, playwright, actress and director, appeared in and directed plays at the Playhouse for nine seasons. Her first appearance was in 1963, but she did not again appear until 1975 and had performed and directed there every season since.

MacCallum spent a large part of her life acting in the west appearing in performances in St. Paul, San Francisco and throughout New Mexico. She also taught theatre at the University of New Mexico.

MacCallum's play, "Lizzie Borden in the Late Afternoon," was produced last year by the American Conservatory Theatre in San Francisco.

Members of the theatre group performed parts of her play at a benefit called "Cather!", held for her and the hospice group assisting her at her home. The benefit, which raised $3,000, was attended by 250 persons.

Also during the benefit, held in December, the Canyon Road Ensemble read a diverse sampling of her poetry and short stories.

MacCallum described herself in an interview for The Republican in 1979 as a character actress. She regarded the audience as an important part of theatre. "The audience is the thing, you know," she said. "They determine what the play is." Betty Cather MacCallum was born March 9, 1929, in Jefferson County, W. Va., to Georgia Cather, Winchester, Va., and the late Morris E. Cather, Charles Town, W. Va.

Besides her mother, she is survived by three sons, John and Bruce MacCallum, Santa Fe, New Mexico, and Reid MacCallum, San Francisco, California; one brother, the Rev. Morris Cather, Altavista, Va., and one sister, Mrs. Jane Rudolph, Winchester, Va.

A memorial service was held January 22 at the Episcopal Church of Holy Faith, Santa Fe. A private burial followed.

Another memorial service was held at the First Baptist Church, Winchester, on February 3 with her brother, the Rev. Morris Cather officiating.

SB 323, on increasing fees for licenses for amusement devices, will be heard the 25th of this month before the Finance committee, as will SB 325, concerning the use of Program Open Space funds in the county.

House Update

Several of the bills introduced by Del. Edwards have had initial hearings but no progress is reported as yet. Scheduled hearings include:

HB 317, on signals for fire chiefs' vehicles, will be heard before the Judiciary committee on February 17.

HB 529, altering the Board of Education membership to include a commissioner, will be heard February 22 at 1 p.m. before the Constitutional Law committee.

HB 530, on Program Open Space funds, will be heard today: HB 615, on a mine reclamation surcharge which would call for a charge per ton of coal to be paid directly to the county, will be heard Thursday at 1 p.m. in the Ways and Means committee.

HB 616 which would reduce the charge per ton of strip mined coal, and HB 617 which would alter the amount of tax imposed on each ton of surface mined coal and the date on which the Maryland Coal Tax expires, will be also heard the 17th at 1 p.m. before the Ways and Means committee.

HB 616 is endorsed by the county commissioners, who note that the county's share would increase from the current six cents to nine and allow the monies to be paid directly to the county. Although the tax would be reduced from 15 to 12 cents, the commissioners feel this would assist mine operators by reducing their financial burden.

The commissioners also support HB 617, which would continue the Maryland coal tax, as this represents approximately $400,000 annually.

HB 631 which would raise the amount above which county contracts may be awarded, will be heard February 22 at 1 p.m. before the Constitutional and Administrative Law committee.

Snow Equipment Thefts Reported

Snow equipment thefts were reported to Maryland State Police last week, resulting in several ongoing investigations.

An Arctic Cat snowmobile, valued at $1200, was stolen from the summer residence of Vito Sgaggerio, Pine Swamp Road, near Barton, on February 11. Tfc. Gary Resh investigated.

In separate incidents, police are investigating the thefts of several pairs of skis and related equipment reported in the last week.

A pair of Rossignol skis, bindings, and poles, valued at $370, was stolen from the Wisp Ski Area on Sunday. The owner is Christine Ehrlinger, Coraopolis, Pa.

A theft of a pair of Hexel skis, belonging to Todd Ack, Rawlings, was reported on February 10. Loss was estimated at $250.

A pair of Rossignol skis belonging to Rudy's Ski Shop, valued at $425, was stolen from the same area while being rented by James Jarvis, Wolf Summit, W. Va.

A pair of Hexel skis, including bindings was stolen from the instructor's room at the Wisp on Friday. Loss was estimated at $329, according to the owner, Barbara Myers, McHenry.

No arrests have been made in these incidents.

Maryland's 350th Birthday Celebration To Involve County

Garrett County has been asked to begin plans to participate in Maryland's 350th birthday celebration marking the arrival on March 25, 1634, of settlers on Maryland shores, county planning director Tim Dugan has reported.

Ruth Calderwood, president of the Garrett County Historical Society, has been appointed by the county commissioners as the county's representative for the Maryland Heritage Committee, organizer of the celebration, and as coordinator for county activities.

Dugan is soliciting names of persons in the county interested in working on a county committee to be led by Mrs. Calderwood, who is currently in Arizona.

Current plans for the event include ceremonies on March 25, 1984, at St. Clements Island, where the settlers landed. The grand celebration will begin June 21, 1984 in St. Mary's City with a flotilla of re-created historic vessels and an encampment of delegations from each county.

On June 22 will be County Day when each county will set up displays and demonstrations. The celebration will continue on June 23 and 24, Dugan said.

Some persons and groups who are to be invited include Prince Charles of Wales, U.S. President Ronald Reagan, the Baltimore symphony, the U.S. Navy and various drama groups.

Dugan noted the theme of the ceremony to be held March 25, 1984 will be one of religious tolerance, because Maryland was the first colony to introduce the idea. The March ceremony will include a re-enactment of the settlers' landing.

The purpose of the Garrett County committee will be to determine who should be among the county delegation to attend the state celebration as well as what displays and programs should be presented there. Also, the committee is to plan any activities in the county for the celebration.

Dugan noted the committee will also be asked to plan for another state celebration to occur Dec. 23, 1983 Jan. 14, 1984 in observance of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's resignation as commander-in-chief of the Continental Army and the ratification of the Treaty of Paris.

Each county has been asked to plan displays and activities for one day in Annapolis. Each day between Dec. 23 and Jan. 14 will be a county day.

This event is being coordinated by the Maryland Historical Trust and the Maryland Hall of Records.

Persons interested in serving on the county committee should contact Tim Dugan, who is a member of the Maryland Historical Trust Board of Trustees at 334-4200.

Super Vs. Mediocre

An occasional pat on the back for a job well done usually does wonders in keeping deserving persons from beginning to feel that they are being taken for granted. In this column today we wish to recognize a group of individuals for doing a difficult job so professionally.

We refer to the persons making up the various road crews—state, county and town crews—who so quickly and efficiently attacked the effects of Friday's two-foot snowstorm which hit the mountaintop. Although Mother Nature won the battle on Friday, never once letting up on her relentless snowy barrage, by midday Saturday it was the road crews who won the war. Despite the thigh-deep results, nearly every road in the county was at least passable by Saturday morning, in good condition by Saturday afternoon and dry by Sunday.

While most of us were cozy in our living rooms or asleep under our electric blankets, there were many men sitting behind the wheels of snowplows, straining their eyes for hours while clearing the way and grabbing a quick cup of coffee wherever they could to stay awake.

Meanwhile, some areas in the eastern part of the state to this day are still attempting to push the snow out of the way. Some schools still remained closed today.

We, of course, have the equipment, the manpower and the knowhow to handle such storms, whereas these other areas do not. But we also are fortunate to have people who are dedicated to doing a super job, instead of just a mediocre job, and for that, gentlemen, we thank you.

Hot Tip

by Carol Fox

In my climb up the economic ladder, I've held numerous positions in the job market, including several stints as a waitress and hostess in some fairly classy restaurants. Always in question was the amount of money collected from customers in the form of tips. The employers usually posted a chart near the time clock, asking each waitress and waiter to keep a written record of amounts received at the end of each shift. Although I'm ignorant of all the facts surrounding the reason for wanting these figures, I would assume it had something to do with the IRS and the miserable wages notoriously paid to servants of food by restaurant owners. My former bosses used my uniforms, my meager lunch or dinner allowance, and his estimate of what I earned each day in tips to "balance out" what he said he could afford to pay.

Now the IRS has a new federal law going for them which requires waiters and waitresses to pay withholding taxes as though they were earning eight percent of the day's sales. That's a little unfair from an ex-waitress point of view. Personal earned income should be reported in the same manner as private enterprise . . . on the honesty system, with the penalties intact for those who choose not to play the game according to the rules and get caught. A New York waitress was in the news this week with a picture of her paycheck—made out for zero dollars. For her 29½ hours of work, at a wage of $2.45 an hour (lucky her—I made $.50 per hour at one Orange Roof establishment), plus deductions for social security, pension, insurance, meals, and disability, she ended up with a grand total of nothing.

Perhaps the IRS agent who said that the eight percent tip is "conservative" should have an eight-hour shift of squalling kids, feisty old ladies, gruff businessmen, fourteen teenagers who think that real fun is leaving a tip of all pennies in a plate of syrup. Of course, we can't forget the party of three that left a five dollar bill inside the thermal coffee pot, or the spinster who sent her bacon back four times because the pieces were not of uniform size. And of course, it's always the waitress's fault when an order comes out late or incorrect. At least, that's how most customers look at it. If they're angry about any aspect of the meal, down goes the tip, or worse, none is left at all. On the positive side, most persons in restaurant situations are kind and generous, and I, for one, was able to raise my first two children, for the most part, on waitress income. There are many persons in that position today, and I sympathize with those who make a living in that manner. However, if I'm not served a glass of water when the menu comes, there goes her tip. Being a former waitress, I know what should be done, and when it's not, I blame only the waitress.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Who are Oakland Associates?

Why were they allowed by HUD and County Government to build poor quality housing and not be required to maintain it (Bradley Manor)?

Are the county commissioners going to learn from past mistakes? (Make sure poor quality construction cannot recur and that tenants have a vehicle for their grievances).

Tear it down and build it right one time!

Ralph Arnott
Deer Park

To the Editor:

I voted for Ronald Reagan and consider myself a conservative Republican. I also believe that man has a moral responsibility to help the less-fortunate and that, within limits, government is a legitimate vehicle for doing so.

Last week our county commissioners voted unanimously to kill the newly-born Public Housing Authority.

In doing so, they rejected $5.8 million in construction funding for 100 low-income rental units plus millions more in rent subsidies in the years to come.

Construction of these units would not have cost one cent in local taxes. It would have generated almost 100 jobs and pumped over half a million dollars in profits into Garrett County.

The resulting housing projects would have paid the county for services received. Moreover, their construction and administration would have been by Garrett Countians.

As a human being I am shocked at the lack of concern the commissioners have shown for our disadvantaged citizens. Contrary to what they say, we have a great need for decent low-income rental units.

As an independent businessman I cannot understand how they could reject the economic stimulation of nearly six million federal dollars. We have 22 percent unemployment!

What's going on?

Richard Morris
Oakland

To the Editor:

I am a resident of Bradley Manor and also the president of Bradley Manor Tenants' Group and I am writing this letter in response to the decision of the commissioners to discontinue the PHA.

One statement made in the article in the paper last week was totally untrue. They say there is no longer a need for another low income housing unit. I think that there is a much greater need for this type of housing, especially with so much unemployment in Garrett County.

I would also like to ask how the commissioners came to their decision that there are no longer any unsafe or unsanitary dwellings in existence in Garrett County. Where did they get their information?

I think the people of Garrett County have a great need for low income housing. We supported Ernie Gregg in the last election and he supported us in our fight to save this development. Was that just a ploy on his part so we would support him? Once he was elected and the new commissioners got to him he just turned his back on us. I feel that the commissioners should go back and review their findings.

Where are the low income families supposed to live? Are they supposed to pitch tents? How can they determine that if a new development is built that it will deteriorate the way Bradley Manor did? We would have had local contractors and local management to keep an eye on the new development.

It is my opinion that the commissioners and all the other opposition should come out and live in one or two of the apartments and see what we have to live with. Are they afraid of what they would find?

Thank you,
Virginia Beeman

To the Editor:

I'd like to say a few things about the cartoon in The Republican paper on February 2 on the editorial page, making fun of Rev. Oral Robert's prayers for the sick.

I think I would be afraid and ashamed to print a cartoon making fun of God's poeple.

But you know they also made fun of Jesus when he walked on this earth.

They spit on him, they nailed him to the cross. On the cross he paid for our sins that we may have life.

So I guess we can't expect much understanding for the work Rev. Oral Roberts is doing for God.

As for me, I think he is doing a wonderful job for God and for cancer research.

I also believe if any of us had this dreaded disease of cancer we would be glad for someone to pray, because God does hear and answer prayers.

I believe in healing because I have been healed, and I believe in prayer. I have had prayers answered.

I too found this cartoon in very bad taste.

Evelyn Sims
Kitzmiller

To the Editor:

I was most disheartened by your cartoon of February 2 depicting Oral Roberts. I believe the world has been too quick to pounce upon anything and anyone who moves in the direction of making mistakes. Can we not begin to take more positive stands instead of such negative "Yellow Journalism?"

We should forgive Oral Roberts just as ready as we are called to forgive all of our neighbors—whether they are celebrities or not. So what if the Reverend Roberts had done wrong and perhaps misused money that was given in good faith to the workings of God. God will build His kingdom in spite of any of the shortcomings that Oral Roberts or any of us might do. How do we know whether or not Oral Roberts' misappropriation of funds is not doing good inspite of his misdirections?

I understand the hospital in which the Reverend Roberts is involved is only filled at 20%, yet that only means there is plenty of growth potential. He more than likely needs the money even more. If one person is healed through the hospital it just means more people should consider where their hard-earned money should be directed.

We are of little faith. Look at what God had been able to do with Jacob. Jacob had also abused his brother's goods, not once but twice. Look at how Jacob turned out—the father of Israel! Should we not be willing to wait and see how God can work even through Oral Roberts?

And let us not forget our Lord's reply to Peter as to how many times we should forgive our brother —70 x 7. I am sure Oral Roberts has not needed that much forgiveness—unless he has needed the money.

R. Ursin

To the Editor:

Early in 1982, the Garrett National Bank in Oakland acknowledged that a large sum of money was owed it by several corporate customers. According to a recent letter issued to the bank's shareholders, this was due to "irregular activities in their checking accounts . . . and certain outstanding loan amounts." In an effort to alleviate this problem, a rash and unfair decision was made to release the president and vice president of their duties. The Republican printed an article based on sketchy facts and one-sided stories which only confused and misled the public. As a result these two men underwent a series of painful events having lost their public trust and respect.

The same shareholders letter also states, "We are pleased to report that early this fall . . . the bank received payment in full for all funds due it as a result of the checking account irregularities and outstanding loan amounts. We are pleased that the situation had been completely resolved;" end of quote!

Was it necessary to destroy everything that those men had served for, for over 30 years? The bank suffered no loss!! But what of its two former employees? Not only did they lose their jobs, but they took the chance of losing their homes, their reputations, and their trust to the local community. Nordeck Shaffer and Rex Teagarden took the blame and punishment for something the whole bank was responsible for. Is there one member of the board still at GNB who honestly believes they deserve their job? Were you not all just as responsible? Or is it all a power game—everyone wanting that controlling power?

As far as the bank in concerned, the problem has been resolved, but Nordeck Shaffer and Rex Teagarden were publicly degraded. Isn't it time for a public apology?

Lisa Durst

To the Editor:

In reply to Jim Ross's letter in last week's Republican concerning the closing of the Accident-Friendsville Road, better known as "Limestone."

You say, Mr. Ross, the closing "reflects poor judgment and false economy on the part of the County Roads and Commissioners." You, however, failed to describe the unsafe conditions of this road.

1. I would safely say it's the steepest road in Garrett County.

2. It's the narrowest road in Garrett County.

3. Its ravine is one of the deepest in Garrett County.

Thank God it's no more heavily traveled than it is! County trucks in the past have been known to come sliding down but luckily no one has been killed! Individual vehicles have also met with near tragedy on account of snow and mud.

Would you like the job of keeping it plowed in the winter, etc.?

The commissioners have done a wise justice to all by closing this road now.

Also, to get to Accident via Bear Creek is only a mile or two farther.

You did a wise thing, commissioners, and County Roads; keep up the good work!

Concerned Citizen

To the Editor:

It is hard to understand with the economics of the county and the rent scale that is needed for low income housing why the commissioners could say there is not a need for more low income housing, or that the crisis at Bradley Manor has passed. It's proof alone with the waiting list for housing, not including those at Bradley Manor, that sometime very soon new housing must be available.

Other counties in Maryland have public housing authorities that are working well and are more than stable. It's very frustrating to know that a public housing authority was formed and willing to take responsibility to help people of the county, just to be told it is no longer needed.

Over the past years all we have heard is how bad Bradley Manor is. The public housing authority was a way to turn bad into better, but it wasn't even given a chance, not only for us at Bradley Manor, but for all the rest of the low income of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nazelrod
Bradley Manor

The Big Decision

by Beverly J. Sincell

It's over. The commissioners found a way to disband the county public housing authority.

In a way, I'm glad the commissioners ended the issue. For months I have agonized over stories I have written on the matter, always laboring to insure my personal feelings did not interfere with my intent to present a fair story.

Now that it is over, I have to speak out on a few of my fears about the commissioners and their decision-making methods.

The commissioners' legal basis for disbanding the PHA seems unsubstantiated. They say there is no longer a need for low-income housing for several reasons.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg pointed out at one meeting that a glance of this paper's classified ad listing of rental housing units shows an increase in housing availability. Interestingly, my own investigation shows no significant change in the number of listings or housing prices over the past six months.

The action taken by the commissioners has no statistical basis, yet accomplished what the commissioners wanted. Perhaps the commissioners hoped county residents would overlook the shoddy means for the ends achieved.

Also interesting in my observation that before Commissioner Gregg narrowly won in the primary election, he saw no alternative solution to a PHA in helping Bradley Manor tenants who were and are living in close-to-being-condemned housing.

Admittedly, he was never crazy about the PHA concept from the beginning. He apparently became less crazy about it after two former commissioners were not re-elected and he barely was which he once stated was because of the PHA issue.

Now, in a subtle political maneuver, he says the original intent for establishing the PHA was to correct problems at Bradley Manor specifically on the current housing project site in Oakland. Yet, even after the primary election and after the Oakland Town Council rejected a contract with the PHA, Gregg did not attempt to stop the efforts of the PHA members in finding an alternative site for a low-income housing project in the county.

Commissioner Groves has declared his distrust, and even distaste, for federal government programs. With his training in political science, I would have thought he would realize why the federal government has such programs and why they have such red tape. Corruption on the local level has been one reason federal programs have not worked.

Don't get me wrong, I prefer a locally-operated project over a federally-operated one any day. My point is: just because a program has federal connections does not make it inherently bad. It's the people involved in a program which decide whether it will or will not work.

Garrett Countians could have made a project like this work by combining their distrust of government with their dedication, hard work and feeling of responsibility to their community. Sound idealistic? I don't think so.

Also interesting is Commissioner John Braskey's proclaimed desire to keep government out of housing and yet he turns around and emphasizes that town governments can form a public housing authority if they so desire. Political double-talk? Yes.

In response to the commissioners' fear about the prospects of loss of federal money for public housing, I say they are not examining all possibilities. They say the county would be morally, if not legally, bound to continue a public housing project if federal monies cease. The only moral obligation I can see is for the commissioners to assist the PHA in exploring alternative ways to continue a project.

One option, which the commissioners seemed not to have considered, is one which did not work for Bradley Manor, but could work for a well-managed, well-maintained project. That option is sale of the project to private interests. No businessman was interested in Bradley Manor not so much because of the mortgage to be paid, but because besides the mortgage were overwhelming rehabilitation costs. A county PHA-run project should not have had that problem.

But, what's done is done. I would be surprised if the commissioners reconsider their action. It would be a big political risk.

The commissioners have committed themselves to working with others in finding another solution for Bradley Manor residents. Hopefully, all who were on opposite sides of the PHA issue will join together to solve the still existing problems for tenants at Bradley Manor.

I hope the commissioners will take the lead and will work with others, including federal agents from HUD.

All this may seem like crying over spilled milk, but it is not. Through this decision, the commissioners have exhibited political double-talk and blind conservatism.

This action makes me wonder how other decisions of such magnitude will be made and it makes me wonder what is in store for other federally-connected programs in the county.

Happy Landing

by Harry Fox

"Never a dull moment" is more than just a gentle reminder of life's way of slipping us a curve—it's a way of life. Remember the oriental curse? "May you live in interesting times . . ." a double-edged wish for more than enough excitement for one life, which, like a boomerang, comes back to get the unwary member of the human race when he's looking the other way.

It's been that kind of week. About the time this column is on the press, its author and his wife will be (hopefully) landing in Los Angeles. Our destination is Long Beach, where a portion of her numerous tribe migrated some years ago. Now, via a raincheck on a Christmas present, Carol will follow to this almost legendary land where poinsettias come from the garden, not the florist, and avocados are plucked fresh from the tree, not unwrapped from a cocoon of plastic at the supermarket.

One of the more caustic journalists of this century, H. L. Mencken, supposedly observed that "if you tilted the country, everything loose would slide into southern California." Regardless of the gentle sarcasm's origin, most of us in this older section of the nation would feel the same—there has always been a rather off-beat style to California living that both fascinates and repels. It's hardly fair to point the finger, however—for, if one or more abnormalities have surfaced to claim the would-be Republic as home, those of us on the opposite coast have been quick to follow.

Nowadays, its no longer the mule and wagon train, but the whine of a high-powered jet engine that announces "Go West!" to the curious. All is supposed to be fair in love and war, but no one said anything about fear of flying. (The now-famous novel by that name is supposed to be excellent therapy for panic-stricken travelers. It doesn't do a thing for anxiety about air travel—the suggestive passages take one's mind off the flight!)

This is my second cross-country flight, and Carol's first. My amateur psychology doesn't seem to be working, either. I described the flight as "basically like a ride in a Greyhound," to which she replied, "but not at 50,000 feet." Hmmm.

Be that as it may, there are two seats waiting for us. We may as well be on them. One of my more timid forebears summed it up this way—he believed that God intended us to stay on Terra Firma: the more firma, the less terra.

Happy landing!

Police Officers Break Up Fight

A report of a large fight at the National Guard Armory in the wee hours of February 13 sent a county deputy and Oakland police officer to the scene.

When Deputy Charles Nolan and Officer Ron Beeghly arrived about 1:30, they arrested Ronald Eugene Tasker for being drunk and disorderly.

Tasker was incarcerated in the county jail until later in the day when he was released on his own recognizance.

Monday was Valentine's Day, the day when we try and make amends for an entire year's worth of transgressions.

Valentine's Day is that when people whom you previously thought would not recognize an American Beauty Rose if it ran up and bit them, call up their local florist and order a dozen of them sent to a loved one for a nominal $75.

I refuse to pay that kind of money for roses. Roses are not that unique. Carnations are just as pretty, they don't cost as much and they don't stink up the room.

I always send my mom flowers on Valentine's Day. She being the only lady who could ever put up with me, I figure she deserves that much. Secondly, the holiday commemorates Saint Valentine and my mom's name is Valentina, so I figure there must be some connection, like maybe he was some wealthy Italian uncle. I'll never know. I've learned not to ask questions about my wealthy Italian uncles.

I could be mistaken, but I think Saint Valentine was formerly executive vice president of sales for the Hallmark Greeting Card Co. Either that or he is patron saint of postage.

Have you ever read the verses in greeting cards? or are you like me and you choose the card because you like the picture. (That has gotten me into trouble. Once, I sent a friend who collects owls, what I thought was an all-occasion card with a nice picture of an owl. She called and asked me who had died . . . it was a sympathy card).

Some of those greeting card verses nearly make me appreciate Rod McKuen. On second thought, nothing could make me appreciate Rod McKuen.

I always buy those cards with no verse and then I compose my own, i.e.:

"Roses are red,
Violets are blue,
The 50 bucks you owe me
is long overdue."

I received two Valentines on Monday, one from my mother and the other addressed to "Dear Occupant," which arrived postage-due.

Of course that doesn't mean I won't receive some more Valentines this week. If some of my old girlfriends are as slow to address an envelope as they were to get ready for a date, it will be the weekend before the last arrives.

Some people take Valentine's Day too seriously . . . try adding a bit of humor. I suggest that husbands should send their wives a big bouquet, a box of chocolates and a bottle of expensive perfume and then sign the cards, "From A Secret Admirer."

Then, husbands, when you arrive home from work, apologize for not remembering to send her something and then ask her who the gifts are from. You not only won't hear a peep out of her until next February, but every now and then you can throw her a "suspicious" look and she'll cook whatever you like for dinner.

Commissioners Name Dr. Bolinger To Health Agency

The Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday appointed Dr. David Bolinger to serve on the Governing Body of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland.

Bolinger, an Oakland chiropractor, is to complete the unexpired term of Ken Richmond ending September, 1983.

In other business, the commissioners talked with county Sheriff Frank Finch about advertising for bids for a minimum of two new vehicles for his department.

The commissioners recommended Finch consider soliciting bids for small to medium-size vehicles and to attempt to have the county's bid included in the state's bid for vehicles which could save the county from $1,000 to $1,500 per vehicle.

Southern High Senior Receives Scholarship Award

Luther Lohr, a senior at Southern High School, is the local school winner of the Century III scholarship award and may now advance to state competition, according to Pam Peddicord, counselor at Southern.

In order to qualify, Lohr was required to take a current events examination and submit a project for innovation leadership. His project was written on nuclear arms reduction.

Two winners from each state will receive a recognition plaque, a $1,500 scholarship award payable to an institution of higher learning, and an all-expense paid trip to the Century III Leaders Conference in Williamsburg, Va., in March. State winners will receive their awards in colonial Williamsburg after meeting with each other and academic leaders of government, business, and education to discuss America's future.

Lohr is the son Mrs. Sharon Lohr, Swanton, and the late Luther Lohr, Sr.

Two-Car Mishap: Hit And Run Case Reported To Police

Maryland State Police investigated two accidents in the district during the week, which resulted in slight injury and vehicle damage to several autos.

Tfc. Jerry Michael investigated a two-vehicle accident Wednesday evening at approximately 5:30 p.m., in Friendsville involving Rachel Brunner, who resides in that area, and Harry M. Fox, 31, Mt. Lake Park.

According to the report, Brunner was traveling south on Walnut Street when she struck a 1978 Ford van operated by Fox at the intersection of Walnut and Second Streets. Fox was charged with failure to obey a traffic device.

Mrs. Brunner was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Northern Rescue Squad, where she was treated and released. A passenger in her car, Benjamin Mathes, was not hurt.

An auto registered to Lewis Burdock, Frostburg, was struck by what police think may have been a snowplow-type vehicle as it was parked on the shoulder of Rt. 546 near Barton during Friday's blizzard. The snow emergency plan was in effect at the time, and investigation of the damage indicates that a vehicle of that description may have been involved in the hit and run. No arrests have been made at this time.

Harris saves play; Thomas on vacation

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — London's critics didn't play nice with Richard Harris. After 10 weeks, his "Camelot" posted its closing notice. But Richard, who plays King Arthur, galloped to the rescue. He put in his own money to save the production and everyone's jobs. That king's a real prince... Marlo Thomas and Phil Donahue had sun, sea, sand and surf in Puerta Vallarta. But for $900 a day they didn't have silence. Their five-bedroom rented villa came with parrots and a cat. Marlo complained. The cat was boarded with another family. The parrots — who are probably talking about Marlo now — were also moved.

Marlo Thomas

"Yoko Ono gave me 4 1 2 hours on tape," Steven Gaines, co-author of a Beatles biography, "The Love You Make," told me. "Yoko chain-smoked through our session. She'd take only a puff then stub it out. She'd line the butts up one by one. When I ground my own cigarette in her ashtray she carefully removed it. She put it in my ashtray."... Tatum O'Neal was in New York and saw "Little Shop of Horrors." She also saw Eunice and Sargent Shriver's son, Anthony.

Susan Blakely

Frances Farmer story

Frances Farmer's tragic life story is retold in "Will There Really Be a Morning?," airing Feb. 22 on CBS.

Susan Blakely stars in the drama, which is based on the autobiography of the Hollywood star of the '30s. Lee Grant, John Heard, Melanie Mayron and Royal Dano co-star.

The story follows Miss Farmer from her troubled childhood in Seattle, where the young Frances was caught between a dictatorial mother and an ineffectual father.

In college at the University of Washington, she first became interested in radical politics and acting — the latter turning into a successful career on Broadway and in Hollywood.

Her film success is tainted by her personal life, however — a ruined marriage, a disastrous love affair with a playwright and her continuing struggle with her mother. She ends up in and out of mental institutions for the next five years, though she ultimately gains control of her life.

Zorro!

Also on CBS this week: "Zorro, the Gay Blade," the comedy film starring George Hamilton, Lauren Hutton, Brenda Vaccaro and Ron Leibman, airs Saturday, Feb. 26.

Hamilton plays two roles in the film, as the legendary swordsman and also as his until-now little-known twin brother, Ramon. When Zorro injures himself and can no longer duel and fight injustice, he enlists the aid of his twin, who carries out the deeds in his own colorful style.

Jaclyn Smith raves about 'Rage of Angels'

By Peter Meade

Of all the roles Jaclyn Smith has played, from "Charlie's Angels" to "Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy," to her latest in NBC's production of Sidney Sheldon's "Rage of Angels," the role she likes the most is that of mother to her infant son, Gaston Anthony Richmond.

Filming for the four-hour miniseries, which airs Sunday, Feb. 20 and Monday, Feb. 21, began just four months after his birth. However, the baby accompanied his mother to New York City for the filming of what Miss Smith refers to as "the best role I've gotten to do."

"This is not a character role with wigs and costumes," says Miss Smith, of her role as attorney Jennifer Parker.

"I was thankful for the Jackie O. role, although it wasn't critically acclaimed. It was an autobiographical sketch and I think it was a positive view of her life. I'm told they (the Kennedys) liked the movie and it was a step for me to do the character.

"This role is not built on just looks or image," says Miss Smith, "so it's a step up from the 'Charlie's Angels' days. Jennifer is very strong — that's what attracted me — and she's a survivor."

Miss Smith knows about surviving. She was the only one of "Charlie's Angels" to survive the show's 1976-81 tenure. Although she still lists 'Angel' alumnae Kate Jackson, Farrah Fawcett and Cheryl Ladd as friends, she disagrees with their individual exits from the show.

"I signed a contract and I upheld it," she explains. "I saw what it did to my friends, but I wanted to see it through. It wasn't right to leave."

Staying did mean turning down several big film offers, including the 1979 James Bond film "Moonraker," but the 34-year-old actress is now content that future roles will materialize because of her acting ability, not her good looks.

"'Charlie's Angels' is an image to fight," she says. "I want to be accepted as a serious actress.

"I turned down six scripts before 'Rage of Angels.' The main thing is not jumping, but waiting for good things."

'Love Boat' boosts real cruise bookings

By Ruth Thompson

Has "The Love Boat" series boosted the cruise business?

"Very definitely," said the expert I found. She is Antoinette DeLand, a former newspaper travel editor and the author of "Fielding's Worldwide Guide to Cruises" (William Morrow and Co.), which has been described by critics as "indispensable."

I have no go-to-sea plans myself this year but I rush to the "Guide" to bone up on what friends are in for when they book Nile cruises and canal junkets in France. Ships are rated as well as profiled in the book, and their "personalities" vary.

Antoinette is sleek and striking-looking with dark blond hair. She's as gung ho for water voyages as when she and her mother first crossed the Atlantic in 1961. Of the 14 trips she took last year, 13 were cruises.

"Love Boat," she thinks, enhances the popularity of the one- and two-week cruises. She also thinks that more young people are buying passage.

What about staffs and crews? Antoinette says that on her latest "Sagafjord" jaunt she rushed around saying hello to the stewardess and waiter she remembered from earlier trips before going on to luncheon with the president of the line. "You see, this is even more friendly than a resort hotel," he commented to her then.

Antoinette adds that if checking in at the bar is your custom, do so early. Most ship bartenders really know what's going on aboard and are as outgoing with the information as Isaac (Ted Lange) is on film.

Antoinette DeLand

Though the series increasingly is doing location filming and chartering ships a couple of times a year, Antoinette says that the stateroom scenes are apparently shot back at the studio. "Even on big ships, most staterooms are very small."

Though she likes the custom of dressing for dinner most nights she carries only about as much luggage as she would on a plane, one real suitcase and a well-stuffed carry-on. "There just isn't much space to store things."

Also, she adds, don't expect your captain to clown around the way Gavin MacLeod does as Stubing. "Most real captains are dignified men who don't wear shorts," she says. "They may join the singing at a happy birthday toast but you don't see much of them.

"Who do you think runs the ship?"

New heartthrob in Steve ('GH') Bond?

By Nancy M. Reichardt

"General Hospital" just might have another male heartthrob on its hands with the addition of daytime newcomer Steve Bond. The strikingly handsome, 5-foot-9-inch, blue-eyed actor has already made quite an impression with "GH" viewers in the few short weeks he's appeared as Jimmy Lee Holt.

Steve Bond

Steve's character is a fiery but charming Midwesterner who arrived in Port Charles claiming to be the illegitimate son of wealthy Edward Quartermaine.

Born in Haifa, Israel, Steve landed roles in the feature films "Tarzan and the Jungle Boy," "Don't Just Stand There" and "The Arrangement" before turning from acting to rodeoing. An ill-fated ride on a rodeo bull changed Steve's career direction, and after recuperation he returned to acting.

Steve went on to star in several other feature films, including the thriller "Massacre at Central High." He has had guest-starring roles in many nighttime series, including "McCloud" and "The Incredible Hulk."

When not emoting on "GH," Steve spends time jogging with his longtime pal and co-star Kin Shriner (Scotty Baldwin). Taking up the rest of his spare time are acting, dance and voice lessons, talents inherited from his parents — his father was a singer and his mother a ballerina.

Tom Ligon, who was unceremoniously written out of "The Young and the Restless" as Lucas Prentiss, has found acting work in New York opposite another former soap actress, Morgan Fairchild (ex-Jennifer Phillips on "Search for Tomorrow" and Constance Carlyle on "Flamingo Road"). The duo are the male and female leads in the new Broadway hit "Geniuses."

John Wesley Shipp (Kelly Nelson on "GL") took time off from his soap duties to journey to Sweden where he worked on a new record album.

By Val Carew

PIERCE-D HEART — I think answering the readers who write to you is very considerate. So I would like to ask you about gorgeous Pierce Brosnan, from "Remington Steele." Where can I write to him and where can I get a poster of this strikingly handsome man? — M.R., San Francisco, Calif.

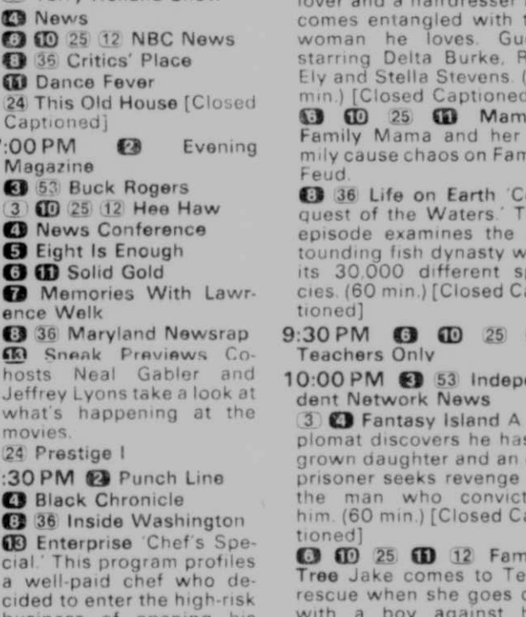
Lots of mail arriving about Pierce, who in real life is not only handsome but charming, witty and intelligent — also married and the father of two children, an 8-year-old daughter, Charlotte, and a 7-year-old son, Christopher. He was born in Ireland and lives in England, when he is not working in the United States.

Pierce Brosnan

Write to him in care of the show at MTM Productions, 4024 Radford Ave., Studio City, CA 91604. He has not posed for a poster, by the way.

BURT'S OTHER NAME — In the "Gunsmoke" series, Burt Reynolds played the role of an Indian blacksmith. What was he called? — O.H., New Boston, Texas.

Burt, who played the half-breed blacksmith, was known as Quint Asper.



William Katt

KATT ADDRESS — Where can I write to William Katt of "The Greatest American Hero"? — G., Park Forest, Ill.

Write him in care of the series at Paramount Pictures, 5451 Marathon, Los Angeles, CA 90036. The show is off ABC again, but the network says it will return at a future date. It is one of the most pushed-around series in the history of TV.

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Avenue, Room 602, New York, NY 10166.)

TUESDAY

Susan Blakely plays actress Frances Farmer, who is appalled at the way she looks after a Hollywood make-up man (George Touliatos) transforms her in "Will There Really Be a Morning?," Tuesday, Feb. 22 on CBS.

(Stations reserve the right to make last-minute changes.)

Pope Participates In 100-Mile Ski Marathon

A Mt. Lake Park resident was among the over 3,500 cross country skiers who tested their will and endurance this past weekend in the world's longest cross-country ski race—the 100-mile Canadian Ski Marathon.

Dr. William Pope, an avid runner and skier, along with his brother, John, Philadelphia, Pa., joined other amateur skiers from across Canada, the United States and Europe at the start in Lachute, Quebec, on Saturday morning and crossed the finish line in Ottawa late Sunday afternoon.

The object of the marathon is not to finish first, but to finish. There are several categories of competition, but the most important is the Coureurs de Bois event, itself divided into three sections.

Entrants in the gold section had to ski the entire course with full pack and camp overnight. Entrants in the silver section, which included the Popes, had to ski the length of the course carrying packs which weighed at least 12 pounds, but could stay in a dormitory overnight. The bronze division requires entrants to ski the full distance without a pack.

Before qualifying for the gold division, entrants must first successfully complete bronze and silver runs in previous years. Some entrants had made the gold run several times during the 17 years of the marathon's existence.

Both of the Popes completed the bronze run last year and plan to return next year to participate in the gold run. Carrying packs weighing about 15 pounds, William Pope finished the course this past weekend in 20 hours and John finished in about 22½ hours. Dr. Pope said that the weather and condition of the course were ideal. Temperatures ranged from ten to 18 degrees.

The original Coureurs de Bois were unlicensed fur traders who, when Quebec was still a French colony, escaped to the woods and lived with the Indians.

The modern test of endurance attracts people of all ages. The oldest Coureurs de Bois entrant this year was 75-year-old Edvard Omphols-Jensen, Kirk's Ferry, Que., and the youngest was 11-year-old Christopher Blanchard, Pointe Claire, Que.

The oldest entrant in any event was Frank Fetter, 83, Hanover, N.H., who planned to cover about 30 miles per day, and the youngest, three-year-old John Cameron, Toronto, hoped to ski ten miles per day.

Laker Skiers Finish Third

The Garrett Community College ski team, once again competing against large, four-year universities, walked away with a third place finish in a five-team event held this past weekend at Oregon Hill, Pennsylvania.

Penn State took top honors in the competition, followed by Bucknell, Garrett, Pitt and Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

Brian Wachter, of the Lakers, captured first place overall in the race, while Pat Riley finished tenth. Also racing for Garrett were Mark Ruhe and Roger Zinn.

Garrett, which is ranked first in its conference, will travel to Elk Mountain, Pennsylvania, this weekend to participate in the National Collegiate Ski Association regional competition.

Wisp Ski Team Captures Famed Cupp Run Event

The Wisp Ski Team traveled to Snowshoe ski resort in West Virginia on Monday, February 7, to compete in the annual Cupp Run Challenge. The local racers came home with the first place team trophy in the event, which is considered the most prestigious ski race in mid-America.

For the first place finish, the team now has the distinction of being rated the number one racing squad in the south.

Competing against a field of 95 racers from Pennsylvania to as far south as North Carolina, the Wisp team edged out the Seven Springs and Massanutten (Va.) teams for the victory.

The Wisp team was paced by Jon Umbel, who turned in a spectacular run on a rutted course to record the second fastest time of the day and place first in the Junior Amateur division. He was edged by the fastest racer of the day by just tenths of a second.

Other finishers for Wisp included: Brian Wachter, third place Juniors; Jeff Gosnell, fourth place Senior Men's Pro; Scott Geisler, eighth place Senior Men's Pro; Greg Hough, first place Senior Men's Amateur; Tom Harsh, third place Senior Men's Amateur; Bart Simpson, fifth place Senior Men's Amateur; Bill Ashby, sixth place Senior Men's Amateur; Jim Gibson, second place Vet I Amateur; Jerry Geisler, third place Vet I Pro; and Andre Fortin, first place Vet II Amateur.

Geisler Wins Ravenscroft Race

Scott Geisler, McHenry, crossed the finish line with the fastest time of the day on Sunday at the Wisp Ski Area and was awarded the Ravenscroft Memorial trophy. The event is held annually in memory of the late Bill Ravenscroft for his contributions to ski racing at the Wisp.

Other first place finishers in the various divisions of the competition were Amanda Black, Scott Shane, Ken Evans, Jan Miller, Jim Gibson and Gary Black.

A Pee Wee race was also held Sunday, with first place awards going to the brother and sister team of Kara and Mike Freyman, Erik Osterguard and Serena Black.

The next major event at the Wisp will be the Wisp Cup on February 26. The race will feature a deal slalom format. There will be dual slalom practice this Sunday, February 20.

Rams Whipped At Charity Stripe By Bruce, 52-49

Although the Southern Rams outshot Bruce from the floor by a 21-20 margin last night in Westernport, the Bulldogs made good on 12 of 20 free throws to take a 52-49 win from the Rams. It was the second time this season the Rams fell to the Bulldogs by a three-point margin, Bruce having won 57-54 earlier.

Southern connected on seven of 13 free throw opportunities.

Bruce jumped out to a 9-4 lead by the end of the first quarter, however the Rams battled back to knot the score at 18 apiece by the half. The Bulldogs surged again in the third stanza to take a 33-28 advantage into the final period.

Gary Morris paced the Bulldogs with 19 points on eight baskets and three of four from the line. Tony Saweikis and B. Ludwin each added 11 points to the winners' total.

Leading the Rams offensively was Ron Bosley, who finished with 17 on seven buckets and three of four free tosses. Kevin Winters contributed 12 points.

The loss dropped the Rams to 9-8 on the season and improved Bruce's ledger to 11-6.

The evening was not a total loss for Southern fans as the Ram jayvee squad continued its winning ways with a 49-28 thumping of their Bruce counterparts.

Southern will face another stiff test tomorrow evening in a make-up contest against undefeated Flintstone, face Elk Garden at home Friday evening and then entertain arch rival Northern on Monday evening.

Yoder Continues To Rip Nets As Huskies Top Meyersdale, Beall

Brad Yoder, of the Northern Huskies, continues to lead all area scorers by a wide margin as he recorded another remarkable 69 points in two games during the past week to spark the Huskies past Meyersdale Thursday evening, 58-37, and over Beall, 62-60, last night at the Cove. Yoder is averaging 30 points per game. Coach Harv Speicher's team now has won 11 of 19 contests this season.

Yoder, a 6-4 senior, hit 13 of 21 shots from the floor against Meyersdale as Northern was never threatened in the contest, taking leads of 19-8, 32-21 and 44-29 at the quarters. Yoder also netted all five of his free throw opportunities and finished with 31 points. Teammate Bradley Yoder also reached double figures with 12 points.

Doug Edwards and Brian Strong paced the Red Raiders with seven points each.

It was the second victory over the Raiders this season by Northern, the Huskies having won the opener by a similar margin, 59-35.

Northern outshot Meyersdale from the floor by a 22-15 margin and converted 14 of 20 free throws, compared to a seven-for-16 effort by the Raiders.

The victory over Beall last night avenged a loss to the Mountaineers earlier this season, 61-44.

Although Yoder led the offensive attack once again for the Huskies, netting 38 points on 16 buckets and six of six free tosses, it was a basket by Scott Graham with just four seconds remaining in the contest to give the Huskies the win.

Graham made the jumper after grabbing an offensive rebound following a missed shot by Yoder.

The Mountaineers had a few seconds remaining to attempt to knot the score, but the desperation shot bounced off the front of the rim.

Yoder also dominated the defensive play for Northern as he grabbed 15 rebounds. His 38 points put him over the 1,500 mark in his career at Northern.

The Huskies won the game at the foul line as they were outgunned from the floor by a 28-24 margin. Fourteen of the Huskies' 17 free throw opportunities found the mark, while Beall managed to hit only four of eight tosses.

The score remained close throughout the contest, as Beall held an 18-17 advantage at the end of the first quarter and Northern came back to assume a 37-34 lead at intermission. The Huskies expanded their advantage to 51-45 by the end of the third stanza.

Dave Unnone led four Mountaineers in double figures, finishing with 17 points. Kerry Plummer netted 14, Jeff Blank, 12, and Rick Eberly, ten. Yoder was the only Northern cager to reach double figures.

The loss dropped the Mountaineers to 6-12 on the season.

The Huskies' next encounter will be Monday against Southern in Oakland, the game having been postponed from last Friday. Northern will then face Bruce at home Tuesday evening and finish out the regular season on February 25 against Valley.

It was only the seventh loss against 19 victories for Hagerstown and the 12th win in 24 starts by the Lakers.

Tim Winters paced the Lakers with 24 points on eight buckets and six of six free throws, while Kip Washington finished with 18, Eric Everhart, 15, and Tom Fulwood, ten.

The Lakers were outgoaled by a five-basket margin, 33-28, but converted 20 of 27 free throw tosses, compared to a six-for-16 effort by Hagerstown.

Dingle and Mason led Hagerstown with 13 and 12 points, respectively.

Garrett was down by a single point at the half, 42-41.

Washington put the game away for the Lakers as he connected on four foul shots in the final 20 seconds of play.

Everhart hauled down ten rebounds for the Lakers and Washington was credited with six steals.

Additional Race Results, Error Are Announced

Officials of the Kick and Glide cross-country ski race which was held January 29 at Herrington Manor State Park inadvertently omitted the names of finishers in the male and female age 16-19 division in information supplied for last week's issue of The Republican. They also noted one correction.

Placing first in the male 16-19 class was Peter Aalestad, with a time of 50:28, followed by David Paul, 54:52, and Jeff Wilson, 62:03. Laurie Gerson was the female winner of the division with a time of one hour, 37:28.

It was reported that Diane Naylor placed first in the age 12-15 female competition. However, the first place winner was Annette Duncan with a time of 68:12. Ms. Naylor placed second.

Correction Noted

The age and place of residence of a participant in the Maryland State Snow Cross Snowmobile Championship, held January 30 in McHenry, was incorrectly reported in a story appearing in the February 2 issue of The Republican.

Benjamin Vitez, who won the Kitty Cat division was reported to be 2½ years old and a resident of Accident. It should have stated that Benjamin was six years old and a resident of Friendsville.

Southern And Northern Girls' Teams Defeated

Both the Southern and Northern girls' varsity basketball teams were soundly defeated this past week, the Lady Rams falling to Fort Hill 58-28 last Wednesday evening in Oakland, and the Northern girls losing to Bruce in Westernport, 55-26, also on Wednesday.

Tracy Hutzel and Ellen Chapman netted 17 and 14 points, respectively, for Fort Hill, while Amy Hillen paced Southern with ten points. Jenny Hillen, the area's leading scorer, was limited to just two points.

It was Margie Morris who did most of the scoring for Bruce, as she netted 21 points against Northern on seven baskets and seven free throws. Denise Fisher added ten points.

Christie Fratz led the Northern cagers with 15 points.

The Southern girls are slated to face Bruce this Friday evening in Westernport at 4 p.m.

Yough Advisory Board To Meet

There will be a meeting of the Youghiogheny River Advisory Board next Wendesday, February 23, at 7 p.m. at the Garrett Community College coal mining technology building, room 360.

missioners. "At least we can vote them out of office," she concluded.

According to a statement by the county commissioners Tuesday, that board has been receiving five or six letters a day from citizens asking that the project be abandoned.

For a complete account of the sanitary commission's decision and why they voted to continue the project, see the legal notice in this section of The Republican.

from 30 to 51 percent. This would ensure that the board knows the organization is representing the majority of the employees.

In a letter in late January to Sen. Bambacus, the Garrett County Commissioners stated that providing collective bargaining rights for additional segments of the education system is one that the board cannot endorse in good faith.

Citing that the board has made a commitment to the taxpayers to reduce an already burdensome tax rate, the commissioners said that they felt the proposal would have "an unfavorable financial impact" on the county Board of Education, the county government and the citizens.

The letter also stated "We feel that the current Educational Laws provide for adequate bargaining rights if that is the desire of the majority of a specific group but legislation as discussed does go beyond what we feel is necessary."

Their stand was castigated by Tom Shaffer, local representative for the Maryland State Teachers Association. In a letter to the commissioners, Shaffer called the right to be recognized as an employee group by the employer "basic" and noted that the teachers have had this right since 1969.

Calling the letter "appalling," Shaffer questioned how the commissioners could "even suggest that by granting employees recognition as a bargaining and representative organization would create havoc on the citizens and their tax rate." He alleged that "It is as though the commissioners are suggesting that by keeping some employees unrepresented and thus lower paid, they'll help subsidize other county needs with their measly paychecks."

He concluded by saying there is no fiscal note to this legislation and no justification whatsoever for the board's position.

Other groups across the state have joined in sending letters to members of the General Assembly calling for restraint in collective bargaining, workmen's compensation and unemployment bills currently under consideration.

The five are the Maryland Association of Counties, Maryland Municipal League, Maryland Association of Boards of Education, the Maryland Association of Builders and Contractors and the Maryland Chamber of Commerce.

The groups stated in a news release last week that "The common threat is that we all represent employers and are concerned about the cost of government" and noted that higher costs for the local governments means higher taxes for taxpayers.

Board Of Ed

representatives from the two high schools at the Southern High School food service room prior to Thursday's meeting.

The council members and representatives from Garrett Community College then attended the board meeting and were invited to make comments and suggestions or to ask questions.

Discussion centered around student feelings about a vocational-technical center as opposed to expanding vocational offerings at the two schools.

Several students from Northern noted that already there are more offerings at Southern High School because of its larger population. Two Courses, machine tool and food services, are presently offered at Southern but not Northern.

Problems encountered with lost time and scheduling difficulties were enumerated by students from both schools. J. Kenneth Bittinger, supervisor of vocational education, pointed out that 756 out of 1,152 high school students are taking some type of vocational course this year.

Luther Parrack, principal of Southern, noted that approximately two credits per year would be lost to students due to travel time.

The board pointed out that in conjunction with gathering data on the vo-tech proposal, it will be visiting the Preston County Vocational Education Center and the Hampshire High School facility (similar in size to Northern) in the near future.

Architect for NHS

Gandee, Thomas, and Spruse, Charleston, W. Va., has been approved by the board to serve as the architect for renovation of approximately 61,000 square feet of Northern High School. The project may be completed in two phases, with the second phase to be contingent upon decisions concerning the future vocational education plans.

The contract was awarded on a graduated fee basis, and the board is hopeful that the architect can submit design development drawings by October for approval by the Maryland Public School construction program, which is funding the renovation. Actual renovations are expected to begin in mid-1984.

Food Service Bids

Bids were approved for the food services in the county, with Baer Foods of Hagerstown awarded 95 different items and Whitmer Foods of LaVale awarded 55 items out of the total 231 items.

Auditing Firm Approved

The accounting firm of McLaughlin, Reineke & Associates was unanimously approved to serve as auditor for the board.

1983 may be the best time in years for you to consider that home you've been wanting.
There are two good reasons why now is a good time to buy a home.
Reason No. 1: Mortgage rates have dropped significantly and are now at their lowest level in the past three years.
Reason No. 2: Since inflation has been reduced to a much lower level, the purchase prices of homes have not increased. And, in some cases, have actually decreased.
So, if you've been waiting for a good time to buy your dream house—now's the time to start looking.

COLLEGE SEARCH — Garrett Community College student Valorie Thawley was among the many students who took advantage of the computerized college search program recently offered at GCC. Access to information in any college catalog published in 1982 was available. See story.

GCC Students Utilize Computer For College Info

Students returning to Garrett Community College for the Spring semester recently were assisted in planning for their futures through a Career and College Information Display, according to Rick Briggs, career counselor.

The display was housed in the student lounge and students were able to conduct a computerized college search, locating transfer institutions which met their needs in terms of cost, major, location, selectivity and affiliation. A microfiche reader-printer provided students access to any college catalog published in 1982.

A computer also provided students with the opportunity to search for career options based on their interests, the educational level they desire, general career clusters they prefer, salaries, and other criteria. Video tapes demonstrated techniques for conducting job interviews and designing resumes. Filmstrips and printed material provided information on a variety of careers.

Interested persons from the community are welcome to make use of any of the career or college information mentioned above, Briggs said. They may contact him for assistance.

EMT-A Course To Begin Tuesday

An emergency medical technician—ambulance (EMT-A) course will begin at the McHenry fire hall on Tuesday, February 22, according to EMT instructor, Criss Browning.

Classes for the 80-plus hour course will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays. Persons completing the course and passing exams will become state certified as emergency medical technicians, qualifying them to serve on local rescue squads.

Browning requests that prospective members of the class contact him at 387-9316.

To Sponsor Sing

The Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church Choir will sponsor a Sing on Friday, March 4, at 7 p.m. Local talent and the Brotherhood Four and Peggy will be featured.

All donations will go to toward the purchase of new choir robes, according to Mary Lou Wilson, choir director.

The public is invited.

PUBLIC NOTICE

A Determination and Order by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, pursuant to Section 9-652 (n) of the Health-Environmental Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1982 Volume) that the objections of the petitioners set forth in a petition filed with the Commission on February 1, 1983 and as expressed by the petitioners at a public hearing held February 10, 1983 are not reasonable, and approving Project C-240565-03 Deep Creek Lake Sewerage Facilities, in the Deep Creek Lake Sanitary District.

RECITALS

1. The Garrett County Sanitary Commission (the "Commission"), the governing body of the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., pursuant to and in accordance with Section 9-652 of the Health-Environmental Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1982 Volume), (the "Sanitary Commission law"), held a public hearing on January 13, 1983 at 2:00 p.m. at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Basement Meeting Room, 200 South 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland, to consider a proposed project to be established in a service area in Garrett County designated the "Deep Creek Lake Sanitary District" which project is designated Project C-240565-03, Deep Creek Lake Sewerage Facilities (the "project"), the plans for which project are on file in the office of the Commission and open to public inspection.
2. At a special meeting of the Commission held on January 25, 1983 the Commission, acting pursuant to Section 9-652 (i) of the Sanitary Commission law, issued a decision approving the project in accordance with the plans.
3. On February 1, 1983 a petition was received by the Commission by which certain resident land owners, who would be served by the proposed project (the "petitioners"), stated their objections to the project (the "petition").
4. Pursuant to Section 9-652 of the Sanitary Commission law, the Commission held a second public hearing on February 10, 1983 at 3:00 p.m. at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Basement Meeting Room, 200 South 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland, notice of the hearing having been published on February 2, 1983 in The Republican, a newspaper of general circulation in the County, and by the mailing of a notice to William B. Burke, one of the petitioners.
5. The Commission, after due consideration of all of the information before it relating to the project including surveys, plans, specifications and estimates which have been prepared, all of the facts presented and opinions expressed in the petition filed with the Commission and all of the facts presented and opinions expressed at the public hearing held February 10, 1983 in response to and in review of such objections, states:
   a. The petitioners, in stating their objections to the project have alleged, as a basis for their petition, that the Commission and its engineers have failed and refused to provide "accurate, factual answers to specific questions at public hearings and otherwise." The Commission has, in its view, however, discharged its duties in a reasonable and responsible manner and the Commission and its engineers have presented all information available on the project in an accurate, complete and factual manner. The Commission has answered all questions asked of it in the course of the development of the project to the fullest extent possible.
   b. The petitioners have alleged that they object to the failure to demand or request that an Environmental Impact Statement be prepared for the project. The Commission, in accordance with the policies and procedures of the Environmental Protection Agency, had an environmental assessment prepared as a part of the 1975 facilities plan. An environmental assessment plan was completed and is a part of the grant application on file with the Environmental Protection Agency. The office of Environmental Programs reviewed and approved the facilities plan and the grant application and the EPA issued a finding of no significant impact in 1981.
   c. The petitioners state that there has been a "failure of the Commission and its engineers to provide accurate and complete information on the project to State and Federal authorities, including but not limited to the information as to the need of the project, the conditions of the lake and drinking water in the area, and the arrangements for sludge disposal." The Commission states that it has and continues to discharge its duties in a reasonable and responsible manner and accurate and complete information has been provided to State and Federal authorities on all subjects based on information available to the Commission, its agents, employees or engineers.
   d. The petitioners allege that there has been no showing of a real need for the project. Information relating to the need of the project has, however, been documented in the 1975 facilities plan and the 1981 amendment to that plan. Information in this regard was provided in a letter dated September 23, 1982 from William M. Bauman of the Environmental Protection Agency which was attached to the petition filed in these proceedings. Additionally, the Commission has provided such information to the County Commissioners and to the public generally. All information gathered and documentation produced indicates to the Commission that a clear need for the project exists.
   e. The petitioners state that "As there exist specific problem areas, there are less costly alternatives which may be better suited to meet specific problems." The Commission, however, has, in the discharge of its duties examined alternatives available with regard to the problems presented. The Commission, after more than twelve years of discussion, planning, review and examination of such alternatives, has found that evidence of a less costly alternative is lacking.
   f. The petitioners have stated that the Commission's justification for the project has shifted from an emphasis on contamination of the lake to prevention of well water contamination. The petitioners further argue that there is no assurance that the project will do either and that the disruption of construction will have a deleterious effect on both. The Commission, however, and the citizens who petitioned the Commission for assistance in obtaining a sewerage facility for Deep Creek Lake in 1970, long ago recognized the importance of maintaining the environmental quality of the lake and its environs. Recent evidence has, however, accentuated the need for the system based on increasing evidence that well water contamination exists. The use of the community based system as opposed to on-site disposal is intended to remove the threat of contamination to ground water supplies and, as was stated in the 1975 facilities plan, "The threat of contamination to ground water supplies is ever present when individual on-site subsurface sewerage systems are being used. Removal of the sewage would eliminate this threat."
   g. The petitioners have alleged that there is no documentation of the source of any well water contamination. The Commission believes, however, that it is not unreasonable, when documentation exists indicating that people are becoming ill from contaminated well water, to assume that wells are being contaminated by sewage effluent, as opposed to fecal material from animals when, with the exception of three commercial locations, sewage from all around the lake is being discharged into the ground.
   h. The petitioners have stated that the costs of construction, operation and maintenance of the facilities are inadequate and incomplete and further alleged that "a fair estimate" indicates that these costs and resulting charges are "unreasonable and unaffordable." The Commission has compiled construction information on the basis of actual contract amounts, as set forth in the contracts awarded. The operation and maintenance cost estimates have been prepared by the engineering firm involved in the design of the system, Rummel, Klepper & Kahl. The Commission has relied on the experience, judgment and expertise of its consultants in providing cost information which does not, in the opinion of the Commission, appear either unreasonable or unaffordable and no contrary evidence from an equally qualified source has been provided.
   i. The petitioners have alleged that no provisions have been made for the proper disposal of sludge generated by the project. The Commission believes that the disposal of sludge produced by the system will not present any difficulties. When the treatment plant becomes operational, the resulting sludge will be analyzed and a disposal permit will be obtained. The amount of sludge to be produced by the treatment plant will be less than that amount intended to be regulated by the proposed Garrett County Sludge Control Ordinance and less than the amount of septic tank sludge presently permitted by the Garrett County Health Department to be disposed of on numerous sites in Garrett County.
   j. The petitioners allege that the Commission has never given a proper public notice nor held proper public hearings on the proposed service area. The Commission passed and adopted a resolution on November 2, 1982 proposing to create the "Deep Creek Lake Sanitary District." Thereafter, on November 30, 1982 the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, after due notice and public hearing, approved the creation of the proposed service area, all in accordance with Maryland law.
   k. The petitioners allege that the project, as proposed, will not correct the problems. The petitioners, however, failed to identify the specific problem to which their objection is addressed but the Commission, in response, would indicate that the project is designed and intended to solve problems relating to on-site subsurface sewage disposal. The system as designed will remove the nutrients of upwards of 600,000 gallons of sewage a day from the area to be served thereby eliminating the potentional and actual contamination of that area by the elimination of problem on-site subsurface sewage disposal systems.
   l. The petitioners incorporate into their objections certain exhibits and documents as a further objection to the project. The Commission believes, after a review of the exhibits and documents filed by the petitioners, that the additional objections have been fairly answered by the correspondence of September 23, 1982 from William M. Bauman, of the Environmental Protection Agency, and the correspondence from the Commission to the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, both of which are attached as exhibits to the petition. The position paper attached to the petition is in the nature of an expression of opinion with regard to the proposed project and upon review does not, in the opinion of the Commission, constitute an accurate appraisal of the proposed project.
   m. The Commission has, in addition to the objections set forth in the petition filed, heard the objections of those individuals in attendance at a public hearing held on February 10, 1983. The Commission has reviewed all objections as set forth at the public hearing and believes that such objections have been fairly addressed and considered by the Commission in its determination of the project and the petitioners' objections thereto.

NOW, THEREFORE, on this 15th day of February, 1983, the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, after duly considering all information before it relating to the project, including the surveys, plans, specifications and estimates which have been prepared, all the facts presented and opinions expressed in the petition filed with the Commission and all of the facts presented and opinions expressed at a public hearing held February 10, 1983 and any other data made known to it which it deems relevent and material to its determination of the objections of the petitioners, and acting pursuant to Section 9-652 (n) of the Sanitary Commission law, hereby determines that the petitioners' objections to the project are not reasonable, and it is thereupon ORDERED by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, pursuant to Section 9-652 (n) of the Sanitary Commission law, that Project C-240565-03, Deep Creek Lake Sewerage Facilities be, and is hereby approved, in accordance with the plans.

Local Student Is Finalist In Scholar Program

Jill Hammond, a senior at Southern High School, has been selected as a finalist in the Maryland Distinguished Scholar Program, according to Pam Peddicord, a counselor at Southern.

The Maryland Distinguished Scholar Program is administered by the State Scholarship Board and currently is in its fourth year of operation, was established in 1978. The purpose of the program is to honor a select group of Maryland High School students who demonstrate a potential for academic success in higher education. The grants are intended to motivate these outstanding high school seniors to seriously consider attending a Maryland college or university.

Distinguished Scholar students originally qualified on the basis of their grade-point averages in academic subjects during the first three years of high school, with a minimum average of 3.7 on a 4.0 scale necessary to be nominated. Each high school in Maryland was allowed to nominate a maximum of five students, and finalists were determined by an advisory committee of high school counselors who considered the GPA, Scholastic Aptitude Test score, and the difficulty of the academic curriculum in order to select the award winners. Nominees were then grouped according to their academic qualifications and placed into one of four categories: Finalist, Semi-Finalist, Honorable Mention, or Participant.

Miss Hammond is the daughter of Mrs. Dixie Moore of Deer Park. She plans to attend Potomac State College and major in accounting.

Gwendolyn McBee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo McBee, Crellin, has been selected as a participant in the program.

The Thinker ... and Believer

Copyright, 1983, Keister Advertising Service and Williams Newspaper Features Syndicate, Inc. P.O. Box 8024, Charlottesville, Va. 22906

The sculptor was right. Our ability to think — our determination to think — this is the key to human progress.

But the same God who endowed man with the ability to think also gave him the sense of spiritual destiny. To be thinkers is only a beginning in the quest for our purpose, our mission, the meaning of our existence.

The message of Christianity has always been directed toward men and women and youth who have the God-given zest for thinking. Week after week in our churches the thinker is challenged to become a believer.

The most exciting and promising of man's endowments is not his capacity for thought . . . rather his yearning for faith. And faith is never content with human progress. Faith is determined to commit our intelligence to the achievement of Divine Progress.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

AT A DISTANCE

Background Scripture: Luke 23.
Devotional Reading: Luke 23:18-25.

Two years ago, my wife, Valere, bought me a beautiful cross and chain to wear around my neck. As one who had never worn any jewelry, save my University of Pennsylvania class ring and a wedding band, I had to give some time and effort to adjust to this new addition.

Yet, even quite apart from my lack of experience with personal jewelry, I felt somewhat uneasy about wearing that cross. Despite its beauty, I realized that a cross can weigh heavily upon one's conscience.

THEY CRUCIFIED HIM

The cross has become an accepted religious symbol and art object. But when Jesus was crucified the cross was regarded as a terrible thing of shame and suffering. There was nothing beautiful about the cross to which Jesus was nailed. If anything, the cross represented the ultimate defeat for Jesus, the very worst that men could do to him.

Luke tells us that "all his acquaintances and the women who had followed him from Galilee stood at a distance and saw these things." Even his followers didn't want to get any closer to the cross then they had to. On that day the cross seemed to represent his failure as Messiah. Later, however, they would look upon the cross as the symbol of their failure, not his. On that day they had failed him and the cross would ever remind them.

To Jesus the cross meant physical suffering and pain. First he had to bear its weight upon his back. Later, as he hung upon it, it drained him of what life he had left. It was an agonizing experience and the mental and spiritual torment intensified his misery. He knew that he was suffering unjustly—an innocent man, he was the victim of a vile plot. He was mocked and abused by the crowds and even one of his fellow prisoners reviled him.

FATHER, FORGIVE

Yet, the cross speaks to us of more than human depravity. It speaks also of divine redemption. For, from the cross, Jesus uttered those words which revealed, not only his own soul but the essence of the Godhead as well: "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." From the cross Jesus was proclaiming that, when human beings have done their worst, God is still able to do his best and God's best is stronger than the worst of human behaviour. The victory of Christ on the cross is that the awful reality of human sin could not take away Christ's even greater capacity to love and redeem.

Thus, the cross has come to represent to the followers of Christ the power of God to overcome and redeem human evil. In that sense, it is the most beautiful of all symbols for it proclaims the heart of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

There is nothing wrong in wearing the cross—so long as we do not forget that the essence of following our Lord is bearing the cross.

GOLDILOCKS, WHERE ARE YOU? — The "Blizzard of '83" may have been detrimental to human beings, but the Three Bears found it to be a pleasant experience. Momma, for instance, is sipping her hot chocolate, Papa has taken out a few minutes to rest from the shoveling, and Baby is heading for the snowpile with toys in hand (oops! paw). These creative examples of the freedom of imagination in a heavy snowfall were formed by Lloyd and Linda Oester, with some help from Jennifer Schroyer. AURORA-EGLON NEWS

"New Persons in Christ" will be the theme for the World Day of Prayer services to be held March 4 at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora. The meeting will begin with a noon luncheon with bread, beverage and table service provided by the host church. Everyone in Union District is invited to participate in these annual union services. A program will follow in the afternoon.

Aurora Baseball, Inc., will again have four teams playing Little League Baseball with the season beginning in May and ending in August.

Letters of information and permission slips for playing baseball have been passed at school, but anyone who wishes further information or did not receive one may call 735-5428. The league is also asking for donations from local organizations or individuals who wish to help. Donations may be mailed to Aurora Baseball, Inc., c/o Ressie Conrad, Secretary and Treasurer, Aurora, W. Va. 26705.

Due to the many conflicts of date, the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club held its regular meeting on Sunday afternoon. Called to order by president Willie Lantz, the meeting began with Valentine devotions presented by Terry Hauser, Jackie Lantz, and Debra Rinehart.

The secretary and treasurer each gave their report and the club decided to contribute $25 to the Preston County 4-H Foundation.

Linda Lewis explained about the restoration of the gristmill at Jackson's Mill. Brooke Stemple, chairman in this area for fund raising efforts, had contacted her and it was voted that $10 be donated to this project.

An announcement was made by Elaine Roth that a meeting would be held at the Extension Office on February 7 concerning National Report Forms. County Roundup is to be held April 9 and entry forms are due by March 25 for those interested in participating.

John Lipscomb showed the group three designs of signs pertaining to "Keep the Community Clean with 4-H" which will be placed at either end of Route 24 at Eglon. The decision was made to use the one having a clover in the center.

Talks were as follows: Julie Beckman, Things to Do Before Taking a Picture; Julie Lewis, Camera and Film Care; and Nathan Teets, Pet Care-Sniffles.

The following first-year members enrolled in "This Is 4-H" each gave a talk pertaining to a chapter in their project book: Jennifer Whitehair, "4-H Pledge, Symbols and Motto" with everyone reciting the pledge led by Jennifer; Elizabeth Whitehair, 4-H song, "West Virginia Boys and Girls;" Carolyn Evans, "Who Sponsors 4-H;" Stephanie Evans, "4-H Around the World;" Shannon Eskridge, "Learning Through 4-H Activities and Events;" Debra Rinehart, Mark Harsh and Mark Utterback, "Welcome to 4-H." Previous to these talks, Arlene Roth, who is serving as project leader for the group, gave a talk on "This is 4-H; Welcome."

Following the talks, tray favors were made for Cortland Acres Nursing Home in Thomas to be used for Valentine's Day.

The next regular meeting is set for March 14. Games were led by Bitsy Whitehair and Nathan Teets. Refreshments were served by the Lewis and Beckman families. Others attending were Danny Roth, Roxanne Evans, Brent Hauser, Andrea Delaney, Guy Wayne and Gary Shaffer. Guests were Stacy Haines, Ed Utterback, Judy and Regina Shaffer and Jean Rinehart.

In the recent article concerning the class on Vehicular Rescue held at Mt. Grove VFD, one name was incorrect. That of Florence Martin should have been Florence Minnig of Union Ambulance Squad.

Rose Ina Harsh fell Sunday in her Eglon home, breaking her leg near the hip, and was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she underwent surgery on Monday.

David Moon has returned to his home on the Ben DeWitt Road. W. E. Harsh remains a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital as does Lucille Arnold of Eglon. Ellis and Marie Teets of Eglon received word that their grandson, John Shepherd, was admitted Friday evening to a Roanoke, Va., hospital for treatment. John is the son of Don and "Bitsy" Teets Shepherd of Roanoke.

Robert P. Wiles of Amboy was admitted Sunday to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack.

Lawrence Snyder of Horse Shoe Run, is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital as the result of a back injury.

Merchants Agree To Compete In "Community Feud"

The Oakland Downtown Merchants and Businessmen's Association has agreed to enter a team in the March 18 fundraiser called "Community Feud," sponsored by the Junior Woman's Civic Club. That decison was made at the February 8 meeting of the merchants at Starlite.

Any merchant interested in participating is asked to contact Jack Jones, association president.

Appearing in this issue of The Republican are several advertisements for the first annual town-wide Presidents' Day Promotion, planned by the merchants' association scheduled this weekend.

Nine members were present for the meeting. Additional details on the Autumn Glory festival bunting will be presented at the March meeting by John Kurilla.

The Nutrition Committee of the American Heart Association has prepared a series of articles providing information and recipes for healthier diets. Another of those articles, supplied by Wendy Norris, dietician for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and a member of the commmitte, is as follows:

Millions of Americans and medical scientists working together, through contributions and research, are helping tame heart disease, America's number one killer. In a little over ten years, the death rate from coronary heart disease has declined by one-fourth.

Your investment has been rewarded. The programs sponsored by the American Heart Association have played an important role in helping to lower the statistics.

The Heart Association's Nutrition Committee is committed to providing you with sound menu ideas for healthier eating.

This week's featured recipe, grapefruit and orange salad, will add a tangy taste to the crispy baked chicken and scalloped potato recipes featured earlier in the month.

Grapefruit and Orange Salad

1 head chicory
1 grapefruit
1 orange
1 small green onion, thinly sliced

Wash the chicory, drain well and pat dry. Break or cut up into serving pieces.

Peel the grapefruit and orange, taking care to remove all the white membrane. Separate each fruit into sections.

Combine the chicory with the grapefruit and orange sections and the green onion. Toss well with oil and vinegar dressing just before serving.

Yield: 4 servings

Approximate calories per serving: 50 (or 125 with 1 tablespoon dressing).

This week's energy saving hints: In case you are using your baking dishes as serving dishes, you are conserving energy, as this cuts down on dishwashing. Also arrange pans so they do not touch each other or the oven walls and so that one dish is not directly above the other.

METRIC SYSTEM COMING

The real estate industry - and the country - is one step closer to metric measurements with a Senate bill passed in mid-December.

The bill encourages voluntary conversion within the next two years on the part of industries and other groups. The Metric Board would serve as consultants to those industries undertaking conversion.

The National Association of Realtors has established a Metric Conversion Committee, whose objective is to identify both problems and opportunities as they affect the real estate industry.

What will it be like to sell real estate under the metric system? For one thing, inches, feet and yards will be replaced by meters, centimeters and decimeters.

More relevant to Realtors, land measurements will be in square meters and hectares instead of square feet and acres. Space in buildings will be rented by square meters instead of square feet. Listing information on for-sale homes will probably have to carry dual sets of measurements for a period of time.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

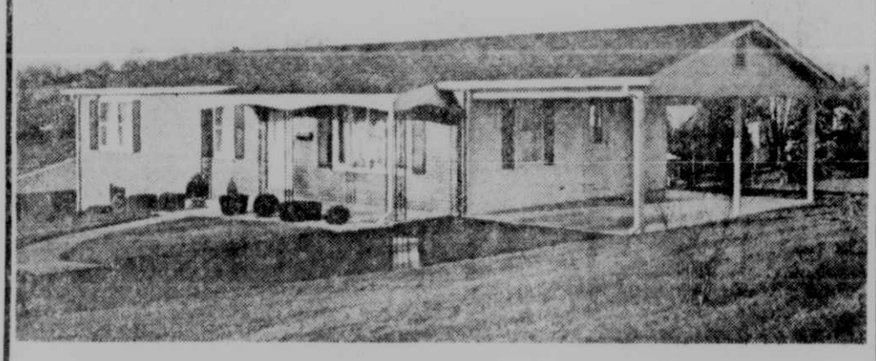
Card of Thanks

On behalf of my family and myself, I would like to take this opportunity to express our deepest and sincerest thanks and appreciation to the many people who contributed to and helped us in any way after our recent loss.

We would like to say a special "thank you" to the teachers and families of students of both Broad Ford and Southern Middle Schools, the House of Hope, and the people from the churches who cared for us immediately after the fire. Also, to the staff of the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home.



We extend a loving thank you to the Sincell and Livengood families, Peggy Landon and, of course, to Bobby Grove and his family. Your love and support through this trying time will never be forgotten.

We would also like to mention the beautiful editorial Don Sincell wrote about Ta, my nephew, who was tragically lost in the fire. Minh and Quang, Ta's brothers, would like to say a special thank you to all Ta's friends and all the loving people in Garrett County.

Sincerely,
Trong Hebb & Family

Child Support Week Proclaimed

To focus public attention on the thousands of Maryland Children who are without the financial support of their absent parents, the week of February 13 to 19 has been proclaimed as Child Support Week in Maryland by Governor Hughes. The observance is the joint effort of the Income Maintenance Administration of the Department of Human Resources and the Organization for the Enforcement of Child Support, a non-profit group which originated the idea.

According to Ernestine Jones, executive director of the Income Maintenance Administration, the State must often assume financial responsibility for children whose parents have failed to contribute child support, in spite of their legal and familial responsibilities. The IMA Office of Support Enforcement works with local state's attorneys in all of Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City to locate absent parents, establish paternity, and secure court orders for support.

The Organization for the Enforcement of Child Support has assumed an advocacy role in publicizing the need to enforce court ordered child support. According to William E. Fromm, president, the goals of the group are: to organize custodial parents; to educate the community about the problems involved in enforcement; and to provide information about child support to legislators, the courts and the public.

"Although federal budget cuts have itensified the scope of the child support problem by reducing available funds for enforcement," Ms Jones said, "Maryland continues to be a pioneer in its efforts to collect support on behalf of children. Last year, more than $60 million was collected from absent parents in Maryland."

Ms. Jones further commented that the Organization for the Enforcement of Child Support and the Income Maintenance Administration are hoping that through the observance of Child Support Week, parents in Maryland will consider the needs of their children and will do everything possible to fulfill their financial and familial responsibilities.

"We hope that all Marylanders will be reminded that Kids Need Love and Child Support," Fromm added. The Organization for the Enforcement of Child Support can be contacted at 119 Nicodemus Road, Reisterstown, Maryland 21136. The telephone number is (301) 833-2458.

Meet some of our most economy-minded customers.

Columbia Gas employees, like everybody else, are concerned with holding down natural gas costs. Not only because they're our employees, but also because most have natural gas in their homes, so they're Columbia Gas customers, too. And just like you, they pay for the natural gas they use. It's not free, or at a reduced rate to them. They receive a monthly bill just like yours. So obviously, when it comes to holding down costs, our employees are working every day to bring natural gas service to your home (and theirs) as efficiently as possible. Because the more economically they do their job, the more we'll all save.

Counties Share $7 Million In Tax Revenues

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reports that state taxes on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages collected during the second quarter of Fiscal Year 1983 (October-December, 1982) will yield $7,008,797 for Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City. The distribution to the local subdivisions rose 3.8% in comparison with the same period of Fiscal Year 1982. "Shared revenue from the tobacco taxes amount to $4,288,272, an increase of 8.1%. The distribution of $1,637,342 in distilled spirits tax declined 3.9% from the same period of Fiscal Year 1982, while the local share of beer tax revenue amounted to $1,083,183, almost identical to the amount returned for the same period last year," Goldstein said.

Garrett County received $6,169.94 in beer tax revenue for the quarter, $7,162.50 in distilled spirits tax revenue and $26,639.44 in cigarette tax revenue.

Maryland's subdivisions have received $13,695,467 as their share of alcohol and tobacco tax revenues for the first half of the current fiscal year, slightly higher than the amount returned for the comparable six months of last year. The $8,439,039 local governments derived from the tobacco tax revenue exceeded the distribution for the first half of Fiscal Year 1982 by $188,315 or 2.3%.

Distribution of cigarette tax revenue is based on a formula returning 3 cents of the 13 cents per pack to the subdivisions based on population.

The distilled spirits distribution of $2,860,622 decreased by $135,027 compared with the same period of the previous fiscal year, while the $2,395,806 local share of beer tax revenue declined by $47,183. Approximately one-third of the $1.50 per gallon distilled spirits tax and one-half of the 9 cents per gallon beer tax is returned to the subdivisions, based on delivery to retail licensees within the subdivisions.

Established in 1893, Hood is a residential college for undergraduate women, but enrolls both women and men as commuting students and provides a continuing education program for students 25 years and older.

Crellin School Tutoring Program Gets Underway

Monday marked the beginning of a parent tutoring program in a first grade class of Crellin Elementary School.

Asa McCain, principal and teacher at Crellin Elementary, met with six parents and introduced them to the books they would be using while reading with the students. After brief instructions each of the parents worked with individual students for about one hour. McCain and Joan Whetsell, Chapter I resource teacher, then met with the parents to evaluate the study and share ideas.

Parent tutors will go to the school each Monday, Wednesday and Friday for one month.

Parents participating Monday were Fran Bolyard, Debi Upole, Alice Hauser, Ann Martin, Mayme Reckart and Sandra Tasker. Harriet Cannon also attended as a parent volunteer.

Employment Is Topic Of BPW February Meeting

"Employment and the Disadvantaged" was the topic of the February 10 meeting of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's CLub at Will O' the Wisp, with Pat Fischetti and Sue Shockey guest speakers.

Fischetti is a member of the Private Industry Council, while Shockey is employed with the Western Maryland Consortium's Oakland office. After an introduction by Fischetti, Shockey presented a slide program on the Job Training Partnership Act, which provides for on-the-job training for disadvantaged workers through a federal program. The on-the-job training facet of the program has been the most successful to date, according to Ms. Shockey.

Fischetti is chairman of the Private Industry Council which includes local business men who are instrumental in preparing plans for administrating the Job Partnership Act.

A question and answer period followed the presentation. Jeri Jones was chairman for the program.

A business session followed, in which the members agreed to donate $100 toward a new county bookmobile for the Ruth Enlow Library. The group agreed to donate the funds since so many users are women who otherwise would not have access to the library.

The group also talked about the recommendations of the vocational-technical advisory council and each member will be asked to write a letter to the Board of Education concerning opportunities for young women.

The next meeting will be March 10, when Leona Beckman will be in charge of a program on hair care and makeup. Club membership is open to all working women, and interested persons can contact Pat White for membership information.

Allen Ridenour will teach this course based on Dr. James Dobson's work; "Problems Facing the Family-Strengthening the Family;" and The Helper—a class based on Catherine Marshall's book and taught by Elizabeth McComas.

Children in grades kindergarten-third will be offered a Can-Make-And-Do class, coordidnated by Denise Shay, which will include such activities as puppets, music and games.

The Garrett County Teachers' Association Governing Board will be hearing the final proposal reached by the negotiating team on Thursday, February 17, at their regularly scheduled meeting. They will decide whether the proposal should be presented to the membership, so all school representatives are asked to attend this important meeting.

The trial date for the injunction filed by the Board of Education against GCTA has been postponed, at the Board's request, until April 4. GCTA is acting on a grievance filed on behalf of the kindergarten teachers at Broad Ford over unusually large class size. GCTA had begun the binding arbitration process and continues to move this grievance along the levels stated in the contract.

In regard to the alleged Retirement System changes, MSTA wants its members to know they are monitoring the whole situation on a daily basis. As of February 3, in a "Retirement System Alert to Local Association Presidents," MSTA states there has been no legislation introduced on changing the benefits of the old retirement system. But there have been rumors, including one of a bill being drawn for introduction this year.

MSTA states: "We will oppose any bill that will alter in any way the benefits guaranteed to retirement system members. If such a bill should pass the Maryland General Assembly, we will urge the Governor to veto the bill. Further, if the Governor should sign such a bill we are prepared to defend our contractual rights in court." For special questions, members may call Tom Gray (269-0920) or Jim Spencer (727-7676).

A forum held at Towson last month by the Teachers' Association of Baltimore County focused on teachers' morale. A study conducted by TABCO last year stated over half of the teachers surveyed expressed dissatisfaction over inadequate income and poor recognition by the public. Susan Russell, Associate MSTA General Council, speaking during the panel discussion, said, "Teachers don't go into the profession for the money. They go into it because they want to serve. Part of their reward has to come from the community itself in the form of appreciation.

"If you're paid enough," Russell said, "the thank yous are nice, but not a necessity. In education, thanks is a necessity." (Baltimore County teachers' starting salary is $13,700; Garrett County teachers' starting salary is $12,398). It was found from the survey that the leadership and management style of the principal and administration staff obviously affected the total school climate.

Local Chapter To Join Observance Of FFA Week

The Oakland Future Farmers of America chapter, along with over 8,000 other FFA chapters across the nation, will celebrate 1983 FFA Week February 19-26.

During the week the Oakland chapter is planning activities in support of this year's theme, "Vocational Agriculture—Educating Through Experience." The chapter will kick off National FFA Week this Saturday, Feb. 19, with a dance to honor the chapter sweetheart. On Monday FFA members will dress in the official FFA dress for school. During the FFA meeting on Monday, members will be given notepads and pens promoting this year's theme. Randy Sisler, Jeff Liller and Tom DeBerry of the Oakland chapter will participate in the state FFA Tour of the National FFA Center and Mt. Vernon, George Washington's home on Thursday. A tour of Tableland Milk Processing Plant and the Animal Health Lab is scheduled for Friday for all the vo-ag classes at Southern High School.

Vocational agriculture education and FFA has been a great success in American education with an emphasis on learning by doing, according to Janet Boggess, chapter advisor. "By giving experience to students in agriculture, they have helped build a work force dedicated to meet the food needs of our nation and the world", she said.

FFA week has traditionally included George Washington's birthday in respect for his leadership and his pioneering practices in agriculture.

The FFA was formed in 1928, and it promotes leadership, cooperation, and citizenship among high school vocational agriculture students. Vocational agriculture education prepares students for a vast array of careers in agriculture—production to processing, service to marketing.

INSULATION makes the big difference in your home heating bills!

How Does Your Home Measure Up?

Whether or not electricity is the sole means of heating and cooling your home, proper insulation is extremely important in saving you dollars and energy. Insulating a home which has no insulation can provide substantial savings of up to 30% of your heating and cooling costs.

Heating and air conditioning requirements are far less in a home that is properly insulated. Of course, this means greater comfort for the homeowner at a lower cost.

Your home may not have enough insulation and we recommend the following guidelines:

Ceilings - R 30 Insulation
Walls - R 11 Insulation (existing homes)
- R 18 Insulation (new homes)
Floors - R 19 Insulation

If you aren't sure about the amount of insulation in your home, call a reputable contractor or dealer for an inspection. Properly installed insulation can make a big difference in comfort and cost.

Storm doors and windows represent another major source of energy and costs savings. For example, storm doors and windows or insulating glass can actually reduce the heating or cooling loss through windows by almost 50% when compared to standard doors and windows. For even greater savings, you might consider triple-glazed windows and insulated doors.

Installation of storm doors and windows also provides greater comfort by eliminating cold drafts, especially across the floors.

Some doors and windows leak so much they might as well be open. Keep the warm or cool air inside where you want it. You'll enjoy greater comfort and save energy and money at the same time.

Storm doors and windows can still lose heated or cooled air if they aren't properly sealed. Check to make sure that yours are weatherstripped around movable joints and well caulked around all frames. It does make a big difference.

Byrnes Suggests Reducing Assembly Session Length

Delegate William B. Byrnes (Allegany County) said last week that the first piece of legislation he will introduce in the 1983 session of the Maryland General Assembly will be to reduce the length of a legislative session to 60 days from the present constitutional requirement of 90 days.

Presently, 12 states (including the neighboring states of Virginia and West Virginia) hold 60 day sessions, according to Delegate Byrnes. "And", he said, "I see no reason why Maryland cannot do likewise."

"In addition, just think of the economic saving to the taxpayers of the state. During a past fiscal year," the delegate continued, "the state spent nearly 8.4 million dollars to operate the General Assembly. Though a breakdown into the actual cost of a 90-day session is not feasible, it must truly be substantial."

The delegate said that he fully realizes his fellow delegates may hesitate to support his bill for the simple reason that quite a few lawmakers would like to extend the present 90-day session to 12 month, year-round sessions. And, in turn, this would mean higher salaries, more staff, and a much larger operating budget. "To do so would be ridiculous," Byrnes said. "If however, the Governor and the legislators are sincere in their efforts to save money and cut the budget, then decreasing the length of sessions to 60 days would certainly be a sure painless way toward accomplishing this objective."

"If our sister state of Virginia, with a population of 5,346,279 (nearly one million more than Maryland with 4,216,446) can operate effectively with sessions not exceeding 60 days, then why can't we?" Byrnes concluded.

Judge Delays Decision In Lake Project

U.S. District Court Judge Frank Kaufman has delayed making a decision on whether or not an environmental impact statement must be completed before the controversial $17.5 million Deep Creek Lake sewerage project can get under construction.

Members of the Property Owners Association of Deep Creek Lake had filed suit in federal court in Baltimore last year seeking to have the impact statement prepared, which could cause up to a year's delay and spell doom for the project.

Judge Kaufman's delay will allow attorneys in the case one more week to file additional material in the federal suit.

Judge Kaufman had previously postponed the hearing from January 24 until February 16 after the court received a letter from the property owners' counsel pointing out the administrative hearing process would not conclude until mid or late February. Counsel for the property owners is Whiteford, Taylor, Preston, Trimble & Johnston of Baltimore, with M. Natalie McSherry and Edward Houff principal attorneys. Representing the sanitary commission and county commissioners are Warren Rich and Roger Truitt, of Niles, Barton and Wilmer, Annapolis.

According to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, Judge Kaufman indicated that he will make his decision around the first of March. Beitzel also noted that the attorneys for the Sanitary Commission felt that another reason for the delay is due to the property owners' attorneys asserting that the Environmental Protection Agency had not reviewed costs closely. Ever since last May, the property owners have been saying they feel the project is too costly and the need has not been sufficiently demonstrated. The property owners say they are not opposed to a sewerage system—just this system.

No Petition Yet

Last Tuesday, February 15, the Sanitary Commission voted unanimously to proceed with the lake project. The property owners now have recourse to petitioning the county commissioners to halt the project. Such a petition would have to contain the names of at least 20 of those on the petition which recently asked the sanitary commission to reconsider their decision.

The ten days will be up on Friday.

FATAL FIRE — Firefighters from Terra Alta and Oakland knock down the few remaining flames Monday afternoon at the residence of John Harold Snyder, located along Rt. 39 on the Maryland-West Virginia border near Hutton. Snyder, 42, was killed in the blaze from smoke inhalation while apparently attempting to telephone for help. See story.

Logging Accident Claims Life Of Kitzmiller Man

A Kitzmiller resident, Ronald E. Hardesty, 22, died Wednesday as the result of a logging accident near Mt. Storm, W. Va.

Hardesty, an employee of Shahan Lumber Company, was reportedly struck on the head by a large limb as he worked along the Cherry Ridge Road, near Mt. Storm. Pronounced dead at the scene by a West Virginia coroner, the victim sustained a fractured skull and a broken neck.

The body was transported to Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, by the Mt. Storm Rescue Squad.

Born in Oakland, Mr. Hardesty was the son of Jack and M. Gail Sweitzer Hardesty, Kitzmiller.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Beverly E. Greaser, Kitzmiller; one brother, Douglas A. Hardesty, at home; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mildred V. Sweitzer, Kitzmiller.

Friends were received in the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland. A service was conducted Saturday afternoon in St. Paul's United Methodist Church with Rev. Allen Ridenour officiating. Interment followed in the Deer Park Cemetery.

BFI Reps Note Decline In Costs

Representatives of Browning-Ferris Inc., Garrett County's solid waste system operator, reported to the commissioners Tuesday how the consolidation of county dumpster sites in January has affected county costs for the system.

Tom Replogle, district manager, told the commissioners that if the county retains the current collection system with 10 dumpster sites, BFI would reduce its monthly fee from $25,922 to $24,840. That amount would be reduced to $24,500 a month if the commissioners further reduce the number of sites to six, which the commissioners say they intend to do.

When the county entered into its contract with BFI in October of 1981, the annual rate was $195,850 or $16,404 a month. Because BFI found it was collecting more trash than the amount upon which its contract amount was set, BFI said it was losing money and opted to end the contract one year later.

The former board of commissioners and BFI agreed to a 90-day extension of the contract based on a higher rate structure while the commissioners explored various alternatives. Several months later, the contract was again extended through April 1983.

The commissioners had decided to consolidate the sites in hopes of reducing the escalating costs of the county solid waste system.

After hearing Replogle's report, Commissioner John Braskey said, "That's not much savings. We will have to take another long, hard look at alternatives."

Replogle also told the commissioners that the annual cost for the current system with six sites would be $294,000.

Monday Afternoon Blaze Claims Life Of 42-Year-Old Hutton Man

A 42-year-old Hutton man was killed Monday afternoon when fire gutted a portion of the two-story frame dwelling in which he was living.

John Harold Snyder, who was living in a residence located along Route 39 directly on the Maryland-West Virginia border, died as a result of smoke inhalation while apparently attempting to telephone for help. His body was discovered by firefighters on the living room floor of the house, which was owned by his grandmother, Mrs. Lena Lantz. The receiver of the telephone was off the hook and near Snyder's body.

Volunteer firefighters from Terra Alta were called to the scene at about 1:15 and, upon their arrival, summoned the Oakland Fire Department for assistance. Fire personnel discovered the kitchen and porch area, located at the east end of the structure, involved in flame. The blaze was brought under control within about 15 minutes, limiting most of the fire damage to the kitchen. However, heat and smoke damage was extensive throughout most of the rest of the house.

According to Robert Shimer, assistant chief fire investigator for Western Maryland, the fire was discovered by Mrs. Lantz's son, Robert, who resides in a trailer next to the house.

Shimer said that the investigation done by him and Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, revealed that the fire originated in the kitchen, which adjoins the room in which Snyder's body was discovered. He said there was evidence of cooking containers on the stove and that the victim had apparently placed the containers on the stove and then went into the adjoining room to lie down. He apparently was awakened after the fire began and then attempted to phone for assistance.

The upper portion of Snyder's body sustained some second and third degree burns, however an autopsy performed at the State Medical Examiner's Office in Baltimore revealed he died of smoke inhalation. Snyder was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. James H. Feaster, Jr., deputy medical examiner for Garrett County.

Shimer said the residence was equipped with an electric smoke detector on the second floor, however it was not determined whether the unit had sounded.

Mrs. Lantz, who recently suffered a fractured hip, was residing at the home of another grandson in Terra Alta, W. Va., at the time of the fire. He stated that he did not yet know if the structure was insured. Snyder was reportedly unemployed.

Fire personnel remained on the scene for about two hours. Handling operations for the Terra Alta VFD was James Gregg, chief, and for Oakland VFD, Robert Rudy, captain. Also on the scene were Cpl. Ronald Lewis, of the McHenry detachment of the Maryland State Police; Chief Deputy Sheriff Van Evans of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department; Sgt. McGinnis and Deputy Kisner of the Preston County Sheriff's Department; the county air cascade vehicle; the Southern Rescue Squad equipment truck; and the Terra Alta Rescue Squad.

Snyder was born in McCoole on November 10, 1942, a son of Harold H. Snyder and Virginia E. (Lantz) Snyder, Keyser, W. Va.

He attended the Loch Lynn Church of God.

Besides his parents he is survived by two daughters, Cassie Lynn Snyder, Keyser, and Ladonna Snyder, Germany; a son, John, Germany; three sisters, Mrs. Joanne Elliott, Hutton; Mrs. Joyce Friend, Crellin; Mrs. Ruth Ellen Jernell, Keyser; three brothers, Robert Snyder, Terra Alta; Roger Snyder and Shawn Snyder, both of Keyser; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lena Lantz.

Friends will be received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at the funeral home by Rev. Ray Beahm. Interment will be in the Terra Alta Cemetery.

Board Disapproves Share For Upper Yough Expeditions

The Board of Commissioners of Garrett County recently refused approval to provide the local share needed to obtain a Tri-County Council loan for the Upper Yough White Water Expeditions Company of Friendsville.

The company had sought $10,000 from the Tri-County Council's revolving loan fund to pay for equipment and provide necessary working capital. The seasonal employer, which rafts people down the Youghiogheny River corridor from near Sang Run to Friendsville, hires five to seven people annually.

Without agreement from the commissioners for the local share, the loan will not be granted by the TCC.

At least one landowner in the corridor had opposed granting the loan. In a letter to William Kenny, chairman of the Tri-County Council, John E. Hinebaugh said:

"Reference is made to the tentatively approved loan by the Tri-County Council to the Upper Yough White Water Exposition Company, as set forth in the Cumberland News Times of January 27.

"This is to advise that the Upper Yough White Water Exposition Company cannot legally conduct operations on the Youghiogheny River (Yough) in Maryland. All land in the Yough corridor, including

Man Is "Fair" After Dozer Mishap Monday

An Oakland man narrowly escaped a crippling injury or death in a mishap which occurred Monday morning at his job.

According to the sheriff's department and Maryland state police, Gary Lee Reams, 30, of Route 5, Oakland, was pinned beneath a bulldozer shortly before 8 a.m. After he was freed, he was rushed to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by the state police Medevac helicopter. He was first reported in stable condition in the shock-trauma unit at the hospital.

This morning he was in fair condition.

The report indicated that Reams, employed by Frank Arnold Construction Company, was operating a D-8 to move stockpiled filter cake, or very fine, wet coal, for Mettiki Coal Corporation near Table Rock.

The dozer was atop a pile of the filter cake approximately 40 feet high when the side of the pile gave way, causing the dozer to roll over an embankment and pinning Reams underneath.

A crane was used to stabilize the dozer while Mettiki employees Arnold employees,and members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and Southern Rescue Squad shored the dozer with timbers and then shoveled coal to allow Reams to be pulled free.

Initial reports indicated that Reams sustained fractures of his left arm and leg. Deputy P.J. Pratt and Cpl. R.S. Lewis conducted the investigation.

Reams was pinned for more than an hour, while members of the rescue squad administered oxygen.

PSC Allows Only 4 Percent Hike For C&P

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Maryland Public Service Commission Friday called the C&P Telephone Company's request for a 19 percent rate hike "unjust and unreasonable" and held the firm to a four percent increase.

Commission chairman Frank Heintz said the cut from $125 million in requested additional revenues to $28 million, was the largest cut the five-member commission has ever made in a request for rate increases by the company.

"We would grant increases only to the extent they reflect the rate structure. These were not," Heintz said.

C&P spokeswoman Lynne Troup said the company has not yet decided whether to appeal the commission's ruling, but would review its budget during the weekend to determine what impact the decision would have.

The hikes would go into effect following final approval by the commission, expected within the next two weeks unless the company appeals the ruling.

The commission placed a four percent limit on all service

Public Hearing Draws Multitude

An estimated 100 persons showed up Tuesday for the public hearing on proposed abandonment of 20 county roads conducted by the Garrett County Commissioners.

Because of the number of persons, the commissioners announced they would take comments from persons in groups, concerning five roads at a time.

The commissioners received a variety of comments about the roads ranging from property owners who noted their support for the county to abandon a particular road to those protesting a particular abandonment because it is the sole access to their property.

The commissioners explained that county abandonment of a road meant the county would no longer upgrade and provide snow removal service to a road. A county-abandoned road would still be open to public access.

One group discussed the Chet Kelly Road telling the commissioners they would prefer the county not provide snow removal service on the road, but would like the county to continue to maintain the bridge along the road as well as continue to clean road ditches.

Another point raised on several roads, including the Mellott and Ron Georg Road, were access roads to state property or to gas company property which meant that the residents would have to maintain a road heavily used by the public and businesses without compensation.

Other persons pointed out

One Killed, Another Injured In Single-Vehicle Accident

A West Virginia man was killed Monday night, and a second person in the vehicle was seriously injured in a single-vehicle accident which occurred on the Ben DeWitt Road, just across the state line from Garrett County.

Preston County officials have identified the victim as William L. Johns, 64, of Romney, W. Va.

Johns was pronounced dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the mishap, which occurred approximately 8 p.m. Transported to the local hospital following the crash was Miss Ellie Clayton, 37, also of Romney, who was later transferred to West Virginia University Hospital in Morgantown, where she is listed this morning in fair condition.

According to police reports, the accident occurred as the pickup truck carrying the two was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed when it left the roadway, struck a tree, and rolled over several times. Police are not certain who was operating the vehicle.

Dispatched to the scene were Preston County Sheriff's Department personnel, Southern Rescue Squad, the Aurora, W. Va. Fire Department, the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter, and the Union District Ambulance, from Aurora, which transported Miss Clayton to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The body of the victim was taken by Southern Rescue Squad to Stewart Funeral Home, and later transferred to the Snyder Funeral Home, Weston, W. Va.

Commission To Discuss Gorman Line Relocation

Members of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission will be meeting with highway officials from Maryland and West Virginia March 3 to discuss the relocation of the Gorman water line.

According to information detailed by Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, the meeting will determine the best course to follow concerning the move. The joint meeting was agreed upon by the commission at its February meeting.

It has been suggested that the work be accomplished by one or the other of the highway departments during the course of relocating the Route 50 bridge over the Potomac River.

Trout Run Update

The sanitary commission has received a letter from the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene saying that department wishes to remove the Trout Run interceptor line from the list of priority projects destined to receive funding.

The sanitary commission had been looking into constructing an interceptor line which would serve Bausch and Lomb and several residents of Shady Acres, so that the present Bausch and Lomb sewerage

Guthrie Charged With Child Abuse, Attempted Rape

A Route 1, Oakland man is being held in the Garrett County jail in lieu of $25,000 bond on charges of child abuse and attempted rape of a 14-year-old girl. According to the sheriff's department, Roger D. Guthrie, 38, was arrested February 18 following an incident which occurred in the early morning hours of the 17th.

Deputy Donald W. Tucker made the arrest. Guthrie was scheduled for a bond review hearing Tuesday but bond remained the same, $25,000 cash.

Kitzmiller Man Found Guilty Of Welfare Fraud

A Kitzmiller man was found guilty last Thursday of welfare fraud in a trial before Associate Judge Fred A. Thayer.

Dale Allan Sines, 41, a local licensed fur trader, was accused by the Department of Social Services with failure to report income from several sources while accepting welfare payments and food stamps from the Garrett County office of the Maryland Social Services Department.

According to documents in the file, Sines was accused of maintaining a financial account in a bank in West Virginia while engaging in the sale of furs and wild ginseng.

Sines' bail was revoked, and he was remanded to the county jail pending the completion of a presentence investigation.

SHADED BY SILENT SENTINELS, many of the county's scenic cross country ski trails remain passable for those who wish to glide silently through areas where man has made little impact and sounds of snowmaking are nonexistent. In places where sunshine penetrates but little, a solitary skier can set his own pace, gliding his or her way through some of the county's most spectacular forests and fields. Both New Germany State Park and Herrington Manor offer marked trails and guide information, while Savage River State Forest land is criss-crossed with innumerable fire and log trails for those unafraid to venture forth on their own.

The New Federal Withholding Law: What It Will Mean To U.S. Citizens

Beginning July 1, a new tax law will go into effect which requires financial institutions to withhold 10 percent of their clients' interest and dividends earned on invested money and to forward that money to the IRS. There is currently legislation to repeal the law before the U.S. Congress. Because of a great deal of misunderstanding about the law and because the law affects almost everyone, Ben Ridder, First National Bank vice president and director of marketing, and George Evans, Garrett National Bank vice president of marketing and personnel, met with Beverly Sincell, a reporter for The Republican, to compose the following question and answer article.

Q: What is the new law?

A: The withholding of interest and dividends provision of the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982. (TEFRA). It requires banks and other financial institutions and corporations that pay interest and dividends to begin withholding 10 percent of most interest and dividend earnings on July 1, 1983. The money that is withheld will be sent to the IRS for tax payments. It affects all institutions paying interest dividends except those previously tax exempt.

Q: What problems does the legislation seek to correct?

A: The objective is to close the compliance tax gap for those persons not reporting interest and dividend income. Congress anticipates that the law will bring in an extra $5.25 million, or a total of $30 billion, in fiscal year 1984.

Q: Why the concern over compliance? Don't most people report their interest and dividend earnings?

A: IRS reports 96.7 percent of people now pay taxes on interest and dividend income that is subject to reporting.

Q: Why are the American Bankers' Association and other institutions fighting the law after it was passed? Wouldn't it have been better to prevent it?

A: It was fought last summer by the ABA and others. The withholding tax law was added to the TEFRA legislation as an 11th hour bill which didn't give the banking community time to mount an attack. Some were not aware of it until it had been passed.

Q: Why are banking institutions against it?

A: It will cost our customers money; it will place financial institutions in the position of becoming collectors for IRS; it requires financial institutions to ask questions which invade a person's privacy, particularly in working with those requesting exemption status; and it has the potential to become more involved than it is now. For example, Pennsylvania's governor has introduced legislation for a similar piggyback withholding tax and municipalities and counties are considering similar measures. The percentage could increase to 20 percent. Also, the law will be costly for the federal government to handle the program because the government will have to produce necessary forms as well as to receive and store information.

Q: How will customers lose money?

A: A customer will lose money because 10 percent of accrued interest and dividend earning that would otherwise be compounded is instead withheld. A customer will not be able to take that interest money and spend it or reinvest it. Also, a customer will lose money through increased service rates, lower dividends and higher loan interest rates which will be necessary to cover administrative costs for the financial institution affected.

For example, a person who has invested $10,000 at nine percent would earn $225 each quarter, a total of $900 a year. The tax withheld on each quarterly interest payment would be $22.50, so instead of receiving a quarterly interest check of $225, the investor would receive $202.50, or $810 annually from the bank.

The $90 withheld throughout the year would apply toward the income taxes that investor would be required to pay for the year. If that person owed no taxes, the entire $90 would be refunded following his filing of a tax return. But, that person would lose the ability to spend that $90 or to reinvest it to earn additional interest income for a year.

Q: How will it be an invasion of privacy?

A: It will primarily be an invasion of privacy for those who claim exemption status. Those who qualify for exemption status are people who are under 65 and have a tax liability of $600 or $1,000 on a joint return and people over 65 with a tax liability of $1,500 or $2,500 on a joint return. To qualify for an exemption, people have to go to their banks or other financial institutions and give a bank employee a form on which they have sworn that their tax liability for the previous year was less than the ceiling amounts. It is the first time in U.S. History that a third person disclosure of tax liability has ever been required.

Q: Would the law have any other effects on those exempt besides invasion of privacy?

A: Exemptions are not automatic. Therefore, persons who meet exemption status must file an exemption form with each institution where the person has an account. If an exemption form is not filed, the financial institution is required by law to withhold 10 percent of interest earnings which cannot be recovered until the end of the year. An exemption form must be filed every time a new savings account is opened or new stock purchased. Parents must file exemption forms for their children.

There are penalties for filing invalid exemption claims. A person filing an exemption where they don't deserve one will see 15 percent withheld rather than 10 percent.

Q: Does the 10 percent withholding apply to savings bonds and IRAs?

A: The law does apply to savings bonds, but does not apply to an IRA account. Income distribution from an IRA will, however, be subject to the new pension withholding rules.

Q: If you earn less than $150 a year in interest, will 10 percent of your earnings be withheld?

A: Under the IRS regulations, a bank or other financial institution can choose not to withhold interest on accounts earning less than $150 per year. But because there is such active turnover in so many accounts, it may be impossible to judge just what the final interest earnings might be for some accounts. Therefore, financial institutions may decide to deduct on all non-exempt accounts.

Q: The banks and other financial institutions can, the law says, keep the money they collect from withholding for 30 days. Won't they make money from this "float"?

A: Yes, they will make some money, but not nearly enough to cover the expenses of the additional paperwork. For example, one large bank says that it will cost them $2.6 million in first year start-up and operating costs to implement interest withholding. The money the bank will earn from the "30-day float" is $150,000—far less than the $2.6 million.

Q: Do you have other concerns about the law?

A: One main concern is that 96 percent of the population will bear the expense and inconvenience for the four percent who were dishonest. Those dishonest persons will probably be able to avoid compliance by finding new loopholes and methods of investing their money so they won't have to report.

Another concern is that the government expects to receive a total of $30 billion, which essentially is money taken away from the private sector at a time when the government wants to stimulate the economy with consumer spending. Tax refunds will not be returned until the following year, which results in an interest free loan to the government by taxpayers.

One of the underlying reasons the bill was passed seems to be political. The government expects $30 billion will be generated in 1984, an election year, which will be a one-time cash flow windfall because of the transition period. The government will show an artificial improvement in its financial situation until the following tax season, after the election, when much of the money is returned through refunds. The IRS says that about 75 percent of individual tax returns end up with refunds. In the long run, the plan will do nothing to solve the government's financial problems.

Q: How would you recommend the government enforce compliance without using the withholding law?

A: IRS has the information now to enforce compliance without placing the burden of collection on financial institutions. There are a few provisions in separate parts of TEFRA which calls for more extensive reporting on some items and calls for reporting in some areas not previously covered, such as interest and dividend earnings on government bonds, certificates of deposit and coupon items. IRS is receiving all the information it needs to enforce compliance without asking us to do the job. One effect the law has for IRS is it will enable it to stop its own growth which would be needed to increase enforcement efforts. The law would save IRS money in enforcement costs, but would not save taxpayers in the long run.

Q: If citizens are interested in supporting the repeal movement, what should they do?

A: The most effective action would be to write either President Ronald Reagan or U.S. Treasury Secretary Donald Regan. Persons could also write their representatives in the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives.

Q: If persons have further questions concerning this law, whom should they call?

A: Either Ben Ridder at First National Bank, 334-9471, or George Evans at Garrett National Bank, 334-9483.

Sheriff Installs Vending Machines

No more food products or cigarettes will be permitted to be given to prisoners at the county jail following a directive from Sheriff Franklin G. Finch, effective February 20.

Instead, relatives and friends of prisoners should bring the inmates money, which can be used to purchase snacks and cigarettes from newly-installed vending machines within the jail.

In a meeting with the county commissioners on Tuesday afternoon, Sheriff Finch reported on the addition to the jail and gave five reasons why the machines will increase security. Although the commissioners had seemed skeptical of the idea at first, they concluded that the machines seem like a good idea and said they would seek legal advice from county attorney Dwight Stover concerning the county's liability.

They did point out to the sheriff that no one had notified the commissioners of the planned addition of vending machines, and Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Jr. pointed out that the sheriff had begun planning for the changeover six weeks ago.

Commissioner Gregg noted that waiting until the last minute did not give the county a chance to find out if there was anything wrong with the idea, as far as county liability.

Sheriff Finch stated that he had obtained a directive from Paul Shockey, personnel director, telling him to unplug the machines until further notice. The sheriff said the jail was his responsibility and expressed his unhappiness with the commissioners' initial reaction, which resulted in the directive to unplug the machines. As the matter stands now, the machines are to remain in use until Stover has a chance to research the matter and advise the board of their responsibility.

The sheriff will meet with the commissioners again on Thursday afternoon to discuss some other innovative plans he hopes to implement at the jail.

Five Reasons

According to Sheriff Finch, the vending machines will eliminate several potential loopholes in security, as well as add some money to the jail budget.

First of all, the sheriff said, the machines will replace the coffee pots which have in the past been permitted in the cell area. This means that the possibility of misuse of either pots or the cords (such as suicide attempts, tying up a jailer, the possibility of coffee thrown on jailers or other prisoners, or the possibilty of a fire) is abolished.

As cited above, no more foodstuffs or cigarettes can be given to prisoners by relatives and friends, thus greatly reducing the chance of contraband being smuggled into the jail.

Sheriff Finch also pointed out that it has long been a practice at the jail for a jailer to take lists of prisoners' wants, from cigarettes to candy and hamburgers, downtown each Friday and bring the articles back to the prisoners. With the vending machines in use daily, this practice would also be eliminated and the jailer would not have to leave his post to run such errands.

The machines cost the county nothing, except a small amount for electricity and water, while revenues obtained from the percentage taken in will be used to supplement the jail budget. This could mean $1,000 a year or more toward other jail needs.

There has always been a soft drink vending machine in the lobby at the new jail, and each day a jailer would stand by as a trustee was allowed out of the cell area to purchase soft drinks for himself and other prisoners. The vending machines are within the jail security area, adjacent to the visitors area, and the prisoners will have access to the machines each evening, after supper, while a jailer stands by.

The machines offer soft drinks, canned soups and stews, cakes, candy, coffee and hot chocolate, and cigarettes.

Sunshine Replaces Colds And Fever With Spring Fever

Although remnants of the big snowstorm nearly two weeks ago remain scattered over the area, Old Sol has been doing his utmost to replace colds and fever with spring fever.

Sunshine was pentiful this past week and temperatures ranged from a high of 61 on Tuesday to a moderate overnight low of 18 degrees. No precipitation was recorded, probably since the clouds had already dumped a near-record snowfall up and down the eastern seaboard February 11.

High last Wednesday was 47 degrees after the overnight low of 31. On Thursday the high was 46 after the low reading during the night of 25. Friday continued the trend, with a high of 45 and overnight low of 30.

Saturday brought a high temperature of 49 degrees, climbing from the overnight low of 18. On Sunday, the mercury climbed to 52 under the smiling warmth of the sun. Overnight low was 23 degrees.

Skies were cloudy and drizzly this morning and the overnight low was 22 degrees. Forecasters were calling for snow flurries but no accumulation.

Two Members Of Garrett Staff Are Successful With CPA Exam

Two members of the Garrett Community College staff have been notified that they have passed the Certified Public Accountant examination given in Baltimore last November. Britten Leo Martin, Jr., instructor of business, and Kathy Zimmerman, supervisor of accounting services, were both successful in passing this examination.

Looking back on it, they now both agree that it was the most difficult examination they had ever encountered. Ms. Zimmerman stated, "One question could have four or five different parts, the equivalent of an entire semester course in accounting." Examination results would confirm the degree of difficulty: over 2,000 took the examination but fewer than 500 passed it.

Martin, who says that he took the exam mainly to help him in teaching, prepared for it by attending the Becker CPA Review in Pittsburgh on Saturdays and Sundays. At the present time, he teaches the Basic Accounting, Principles of Accounting and Intermediate Accounting courses at the college, but anticipates teaching additional courses in the future.

A new course Martin will be teaching in the fall semester is Financial Analysis. This course will be offered in response to a need in the banking industry.

Ms. Zimmerman prepared for the exam by studying review books, starting last June, and by taking two self-correcting practice examinations. She now plans to set up a tax practice and to teach accounting courses. "If anyone is really interested in accounting, they should go for the CPA," she says. "It's difficult, but not impossible."

Ms. Zimmerman, who first became interested in accounting when she was in ninth grade, entered GCC as a student in elementary education in 1973. In 1974, she began working the business office as accounting clerk and taking courses as a part-time student. After graduating from Garrett with an associate in arts degree in Business, she transferred to Frostburg where she subsequently received a bachelor of science degree in accounting. She says now that her job in the business office of the college led to her interest in accounting.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Bowman of Swallow Falls, she is married to David Zimmerman, a music teacher in the Garrett County schools. The couple has one daugher, Amy, a student at Broadford Elementary School.

Martin, who has a bachelor of science degree in business administration from West Virginia University and a master of science degree in management from Frostburg, spent two years in the United States Army as director of the Data Processing Center at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. Later he worked as systems analyst for the Reynolds Tobacco Company in Winston-Salam, N.C., then came back to Garrett County to manage the family business in Mt. Lake Park. He says that he didn't consider taking the CPA exam until he began teaching at the college, and knew that it would be good to have someone certified teaching the accounting courses.

Martin is the son of Mary R. Martin, Mt. Lake Park. He lives in Mt. Lake Park with his wife Frankye, son Britten, a student at Dennett Road School, and daughter Meredith, two-and-a-half.

Teter Arrested For Bad Checks, Conspiracy, DWI

An Aurora, W. Va. man was apprehended in this county by a deputy sheriff February 18 and charged with four counts of bad checks, two counts of conspiracy, driving while intoxicated and driving while his license was suspended or revoked.

Charles Wayne Teter, 29, was arrested by Deputy Russell Drenning as he was heading east on Route 135, in the vicinity of Fitzwater Furniture about 2:15 p.m.

Drenning had been alerted by the Preston County sheriff's department to be on the lookout for a 1970 Buick reported stolen from that county. In the course of his routine patrol, Drenning spotted the car and apprehended Teter. However, West Virginia would not file documents to have Teter extradited, and stolen vehicle charges were dropped.

Teter is being held in the county jail in lieu of $6,000 cash or property bond on the charges placed against him in this county.

Deputy Drenning was assisted by Oakland police officer Ronald Beeghly.

St. Police Probe Several Thefts

Maryland State Police investigated several theft reports during the week around the district, including a report by Court Commissioner William J. Martin, Grantsville. According to Martin, approximately 27 gallons of gasoline, valued at $33, was stolen from two vehicles parked at his residence sometime between February 9 and 19. Tfc. Dale Williams is investigating.

Two juveniles from the McHenry/Accident area were arrested by Tfc. David Riggleman during last week and charged with destruction of property at the Wisp Ski Lodge. The resort owners reported that someone had kicked in a door, doing damage estimated at $50. The youths will face juvenile hearings later this month.

A pair of Rossignal skis and bindings, valued at $250, were reported stolen from Kenneth Waller, Braddock Heights, on February 17. Tfc. Riggleman is handling that case.

A 1978 Arctic Cat snowmobile, black and green in color, was reported stolen last week from a residence on Deep Creek Drive in McHenry. The owner is Edward Holloway, McHenry.

Gasoline Stolen

Theft of 43 gallons of gasoline from a county roads department dump truck at Accident was reported to the Garrett County sheriff's department February 17.

Joseph DeWitt, employee at the garage, notified the authorities of the missing gallons, valued at approximately $50. It has not been determined when the theft occurred, and an investigation is continuing.

Tax Assistance To Be Offered

State tax experts will be visiting Garrett County soon to offer assistance to taxpayers filling out their 1982 Maryland income tax return, Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein has announced.

Tax officials from the Maryland Income Tax Division will offer a wide range of taxpayer assistance on Wednesday, March 2, at the Garrett County Courthouse from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

The comptroller reminded taxpayers that State tax officials will answer questions, provide necessary forms, and even complete Maryland income tax returns free of charge, as long as persons bring a completed copy of their federal return and all necessary W-2 statements.

"We've been getting a lot of questions from taxpayers about the State income tax treatment of individual retirement accounts, or IRA's, Goldstein stated, nothing that both Maryland and federal income taxes on IRA contributions are deferred until one actually begins withdrawing money from the IRA.

"To be sure you are not paying State income taxes on your IRA contributions, you must file the Maryland long form and report those contributions on line 35," he said. "Even though you must file the Maryland long form, you do not need to itemize deductions to take advantage of this tax break."

For more information about the IRA tax break or any other item about the State return, taxpayers can also call or visit any of the 14 offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division listed on the back of the State tax packet and in local telephone directories.

Paying The Price . . .

Pricing oneself out of the market seems to be an ongoing activity in the world of business. Such a situation is just one of the many end results of greed and businesspersons just never seem to learn.

The cartoon at right deals with a perfect example of the aforementioned. Just a few years ago the OPEC nations freely, almost ruthlessly, upped the price of their oil to incredibly expensive levels. Their thinking was that, because all the world needed oil and they had the largest supply, that all other nations, particularly those in the west, would pay the price, no matter how high it was.

For a while we did pay the price. But in the meantime we learned the real meaning of the word conservation. We cut back in our use of oil and made wiser use of our own supplies. OPEC is now in trouble and is being forced to reduce the price significantly.

Similar patterns have emerged in our own business and industry. The Chrysler Corporation was on the brink of bankruptcy just a few years ago. They too had priced themselves out of the market. The steps they have taken in the past several months—lowering their prices, offering relatively low financing and giving guarantees like they never have in the past—have turned things around for Chrysler.

The steel industry, for example, has all but priced itself out of the market. Corporate executives are partially to blame, but workers unwilling to work for reasonable wages and benefits are also responsible. They have priced themselves out of a job.

Next on the list are some of the utility companies. The cost of heating a home with natural gas has gone absolutely out of sight. There seems to be no regulation whatsoever in how much companies such as Columbia Gas can charge. Alternate forms of heating our homes seem to be the only answer, because paying those gas bills has become an impossibility for many persons. As consumers turn to other methods of home heating, the gas companies will hopefully find that they too are pricing themselves out of the market and thus be forced to reduce the rates.

Unplug The Machines???

by Carol Fox

A perfectly sound and fiscally responsible idea set in motion by newly elected Garrett County Sheriff Frank Finch met with what smacks of unfounded and petty resistance from the Garrett County board of commissioners during their regular weekly meeting held yesterday.

Finch obviously thoroughly investigated the positive aspects of installing food and drink vending machines in the county jail to eliminate potential loopholes in security, as well as to add some dollars to the county jail coffer. The vending machines eliminate the random coffee pots, which were formerly located in the cell area, and now restrict the flow of foodstuffs and cigarettes handed to prisoners from visitors, which greatly reduces the chance of contraband being smuggled into the jail. (Yes, Virginia, that could happen right here in Garrett County). In addition, Sheriff Finch explained that shopping for the prisoners by the jailer would be eliminated, saving time and trouble and above all, the machines will cost the county nothing save a few cents for electricity and water.

He put the idea in motion without obtaining a commissioners' "Mother, May I," and in retaliation, the machines were ordered to cease and desist their flow of chicken soup until further notice.

Apparently, the board feels that Finch should initiate a "Yes, Herr Commissioners" attitude before making an administrative decision all by himself.

Legal ramification investigation, named as essential by the board, is commendable, and the taxpaying public expects that kind of watchdog service from the governing body, but department administrators must be given some leeway in decision making without having to post every little thing on the "Attention, Commissioners" bulletin board. Otherwise, why call them administrators?

Look at it this way—if the man can add $1000 or more per year to the sheriff's department till, at no expense to the taxpayer . . . if he can increase security while still offering each prisoner his or her constitutional rights . . . if he can save his officers and jailers time to put to more efficient use . . . then, gentlemen, step aside and let the man do his job.

Frank Finch was elected by the people to be a law enforcement administrator. For heaven's sake, let him administrate!

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing you about the bill just passed in West Virginia which forces us who pay utility bills to pay an additional percentage for those who do not pay their bills and those on welfare.

I am retired and past 70 years old. I don't think it is fair for some of us, who must deprive ourselves of some of the things that others enjoy just to be able to pay our bills. I do most of my own work here at my home and I try to economize so I can pay my bills.

I don't think that people on welfare or receiving food stamps should have TV cable at $10.50 per month. When the cable increased its rates I had mine discontinued so I could put that amount toward my utility bills.

I am angry. It looks like Russia is getting closer every day.

Annie P. Layman
Bayard, W. Va.

To the Editor:

It infuriates me to read that the commissioners see no need for government subsidized housing in Garrett County. It is also laughable to read that commissioner Gregg feels that the private sector can accommodate the low income people who need housing. If one looks at the "For Rent" ads they can see just how laughable.

The rent that the "private sector" charges is outrageous. How many people working around Oakland can afford these prices? Sure they could, but then they couldn't eat or pay their utilities. Be realistic.

Most people who live here aren't coal miners! They are either on government programs or earn the minimum wage. It's about time this county starts worrying about the poor people who actually live here year round and quit catering to vacationers and coal miners.

I am glad I own my own home, but I feel sorry for those who are less fortunate than I. It's a pity the commissioners aren't that compassionate.

Norma J. Rodeheaver
Star Route 2, Box 151
Oakland, Md. 21550

To the Editor:

I admired Beverly Sincell's courage in writing last week's editorial regarding the commissioners' decision to do away with the Public Housing Authority. Their conclusion that it is unnecessary seems shortsighted and totally lacking in awareness of the needs of the county. The number of county residents living in squalid housing should be a matter of serious concern. The problem will not go away by turning a blind eye.

The commissioners should be aware that their responsibilities go beyond following the dictates of a very conservative group of voters. I wonder if they will continually ignore the future good of the county to satisfy this section of their constituency. Will our lake be allowed to continue to be polluted without regard to the impact an increasingly dirty lake will have on our county economy? I am afraid so, due to a tendency of the commissioners to bow to the will of a vocal minority.

Commissioners Braskey and Gregg received my support in the elections because I hoped their intelligence and integrity could be counted upon. I am disappointed and very concerned.

Sincerely,
Joan Sussman

Dear Editor:

I would like to comment on the elementary school lunch menu's "Sugarless Day," which was held February 17, in honor of Children's Dental Health Month.

Well, the one-day menu was a nice try. It shows what could easily be done every day—but what real dental, nutritional, behavioral or educational benefit can be brought about by one day's lunch? (And that lunch included raisins, which, although an iron-rich "natural" sweet, nevertheless are a highly concentrated source of fruit sugar, notorious for sticking to the teeth).

One has only to look at the rest of the week's menus to appreciate the tokenism of the sugarless gesture. "Cherry Dessert" on Monday. A cookie and jellied biscuit on Tuesday, and quite probably sugar in that day's spaghetti sauce as well. Applesauce on Wednesday: was it unsweetened? A brownie on Friday. Every menu includes a sweet dessert, accustoming children to the idea that this is an integral part of a square meal. To top it off, ice cream is offered every day as an optional purchase.

What kind of mockery is this? Might it be less harmful to tell the kids nothing at all about dental awareness, than to give it lip service (or tooth service, in this case) and then demonstrate so well that regular folks in real life don't take it seriously?

Upper Yough

the river bottom, is privately owned. Said Company cannot transit the Yough without trespassing on such privately owned and posted land without consent of the landowners, which it does not have.

"In applying for a loan the Company may have stated that their operations would not involve trespassing; that their rafting operations are on top of the water. Experimentation by landowners has proved this to be impossible. The rafters would trespass when their rafts and paddles scrape the they pull-up to rest, lunch, portage, or otherwise, or when they stand or exit the river because of a spill or an emergency, or any number of other things that occur in such operations. These acts of trespass greatly increase the risk involved in the protection of property. As one example, a carless or untrained passenger could cause a fire of irrevocable damage and great monetary loss to the landowners.

"Paragraph 02, Subtitle 15 of the Maryland Youghiogheny Wild River Regulations states: 'These regulations do not open any private land located within the scenic corridor for use or access by the public without consent of the landowner.' Be assured the landowners in the scenic corridor will vigorously resist any maneuver that would infringe upon their rights of property ownership.

"Your attention is also invited to Section 8-410 of the Maryland Scenic and Wild Rivers Act. In this section of the Act the conditions are established by which any water or land area property right may be taken from a landowner. Until the conditions established in this section of the law are complied with, the Tri-County Council should not approve the above referenced loan. To do so would be to aid and abet an operation contrary to law.

"This letter has been written in behalf of landowners in the Yough corridor."

BFI Reps

John Watt, county operation manager who accompanied Replogle, told the commissioners, "the only way to reduce that figure is to go with a different type of system."

Replogle noted the estimated costs to the county for a compactor system would be between $230,000 to under $200,000.

county air cascade vehicle, were called out by Garrett Central Alarm at 1:25 a.m. today to respond to the house, located just across the highway from Northern High School.

Details of the incident were sketchy at presstime, however fire personnel reportedly found the structure fully involved in flame upon their arrival. There were no injuries reported and firemen remained on the scene until 5:10 a.m.

Central Alarm received the call from Doug Ringer, who lives nearby. Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, is investigating.

Kitzmille and Elk Garden firefighters were called to the William Greaser residence in Oakmont, W. Va., on Sunday at 2:50 p.m. to extinguish a flue fire.

Upon their arrival, however, firefighters discovered that the area around the flue had ignited and fire had progressed into the attic of the house. Damage was relatively minor.

Fire personnel returned to their stations at about 4:30 p.m.

"Good news, Simpkins. I'm raising you to a new poverty level."

treatment facility could be abandoned.

The state department of health, however, has had the plans for the interceptor line since 1980 for review, and has not approved the plan because no discharge parameters have been set for the Little Youghiogheny. The Trout Run treatment plant cannot be upgraded until these parameters are set by the state, so the situation remains a stalemate.

The commission is planning to write a reply to the state department of health stating its objections to being removed from the priority list and requesting that the project be returned to the priority list in a favorable funding position once the parameters are determined.

George Mason, engineer with Western Maryland Associates, met with the commission to discuss rehabilitation of the tile spring and the water lines belonging to the Mt. Lake Water Company near Landon's Dam in Pleasant Valley.

that their roads, such as the Blocher and Stanton Friend Road, were the only access to their property. One man said he cannot get to his barn and silos in the winter and asked the commissioners to do one of three things: to either upgrade his road and maintain snow removal, or maintain snow removal, or at least keep the road in the system to preserve the 40-foot right-of-way.

Another point raised about some roads, such as Black Hawk School road, was that it was used by many persons as a shortcut to Bittinger or to go to an area church.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg stated the commissioners would carefully consider all comments and would try to render a decision as swiftly as possible.

Social Security Changes Noted

"Several important changes have been made in the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program by a new law," Joseph E. Mieczkowski, District Manager of Social Security Administration in Cumberland, said recently.

The changes include:

Proration of first SSI payment—Effective October 1, 1982, a person's first monthly SSI payment was prorated from the date of application or the date of eligibility, whichever is later. The SSI payment also will be prorated for the month a person becomes eligible again after a period of ineligibility. Under the old law, a person's SSI payment started with the first day of the month in which he or she applied and met the eligibility requirements.

Medicaid coverage of home care for disabled children—In some cases, people may be eligible for SSI and Medicaid while they are institutionalized but be ineligible when living at home, either because of their parent's or spouse's income and resources or because they receive support and maintenance in kind. Consequently, some people remain institutionalized in order to retain Medicaid eligibility, even though their medical needs could be met appropriately and at less cost to the Government if they were living at home. Under the new law, at State's option, people 18 or younger who otherwise would be ineligible for SSI and Medicaid if they live at home may retain Medicaid eligibility while receiving home care at less cost to the Government. The change was effective October 1.

Exclusion of burial plots and funds—Generally, burial plots (or spaces) for an individual and his or her immediate family will no longer count as resources in determining the individual's eligibility for SSI. Under the new law, however, limits may be set on the value or size of such burial plots. Burial funds for an individual and his or her spouse also will not count if they: (1) are specifically set aside for burial purposes and (2) do not exceed $1,500 a person. This $1,500 limit will be reduced, however, by any amount that the individual holds in an irrevocable burial contract or other burial arrangement and by the value of excluded life insurance that the person owns. Interest earned on burial funds and appreciation in the value of prepaid burial arrangements may also be excluded from income and resources for SSI purposes. A person's SSI payment will be reduced by any amount of the excluded burial funds that he or she uses for other purposes. These changes were effective November 1.

Rounding of SSI payments and income limits—Beginning with the July 1983 cost-of-living adjustment, monthly SSI payments will be rounded to the next lower dollar. In addition, the amount of income a person or couple can have and still be eligible for SSI will be rounded to the next lower dollar. Payments and income limits will be rounded down after they are adjusted to reflect the cost-of-living increase. Under present law, SSI payments in excess of one dollar are not rounded and SSI income limits are rounded to the next higher ten cents.

Coordination with Social Security cost-of-living increases—Under present law, the amount of a person's SSI payment is usually based on the actual income he or she had during the previous two months. Because of this retroactive accounting procedure, annual cost-of-living adjustments in Social Security benefits do not affect SSI payments until two months later. The new law continues retrospective accounting, but provides that when a cost-of-living increase is made, a person's SSI payment will be based on the Social Security's benefits received in the same month. The provision will be effective with the cost-of-living adjustment for 1983.

For more information on these and other changes in the SSI program persons should contact the Cumberland Social Security Office, Country Club Mall, LaVale. The new telephone number is (301) 729-3232.

Second Impression

Please, say no this time

by Harry Fox

As it so often is when dealing with Washington, whenever the government flies high, we pay the fare.

This time it's the Environmental Protection Agency. The state of Maryland has entered into a contract with a Palo Alto, California firm to build a network of special testing stations for exhaust system inspections of vehicles operating in the state's eight metropolitan counties. The plan, involving annual $9 examinations of all automobiles, is required by Federal law. The expected start-up date is January, 1984.

After several false starts, for which the state has been chastised by the EPA, Maryland signed the approximately $10 million deal with Systems Control, Inc.

Now an Anne Arundel legislator and the Public Law committee chairman from Baltimore County have introduced legislation to break the contract—in order to cut its losses—say the sponsors. In place of the $10 million deal (less certain property purchases the state government made for the stations) the legislators are proposing a program using existing inspection stations, and requiring the tests only every other year.

The proposal is supported by the Maryland Automobile Association. It is opposed by the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, fearing that the plan will be rejected by the EPA.

As always, it seems that the federal government, like a paternal "uncle" of sorts, is using the threat of withholding its favors whenever the states don't squeal and jump, like trained seals, through the various fiscal hoops held by the ringmasters in D.C.

This time, the EPA has made threats of withholding approval for certain industrial expansion in the state—Maryland already has delayed the emission control program for one year, hoping that the standards would be relaxed.

The measure's sponsors point out the obvious incentives to private business, and the greater flexibility of a system that can change more readily whenever new directives arrive from Washington.

Normally, the thought of taking a loss approaching $10 million should outrage taxpayers.

But, this time, it seems to be the right choice. Not only does the new proposal by representatives Cade and Stone pump additional resources into the state's private enterprise, it does one thing more . . . perhaps it is Maryland's turn to say no to bureaucratic extortion by regulators in Washington. It has been done before.

Was the contract signed with the California firm a costly blunder? Probably not, when it was first signed—but if there is a better plan available, then all options should be explored.

Perhaps, in the future, we should learn to say no to similar "offers we can't refuse" from the godfathers in Washington.

Jim Willis Trends

I did something last weekend that I swore I'd never do again—I got a dog.

I have had the worst luck with dogs, you wouldn't believe. I have always acquired the Edsels of the dog world.

I can't for the life of me figure out why writers compose those epic tributes to the dog. The dog is an animal which eats voraciously, sheds on your double-knits, gets chicken bones lodged in its throat, tracks mud across your bedspread, disgraces itself in public and kisses the baby on the lips.

But I got another dog anyway. I went to a party last weekend where they were serving a home-brewed punch. (I spilled some on my shoes and it took the color off). After several servings of punch, the hosts teamed up on me and told me about their poor little dog which they had to find a home for, or be evicted. I drove home with the dog. She's a lousy driver.

Her name is "Tiffany" and she's a small terrier. I named her that in the car because her previous name was the pits.

"Tiffy," as her name was soon abbreviated to—simply because I couldn't pronounce the first version—is the ultimate in a lap dog. She doesn't believe in walking and she likes to be carried everywhere. I've gotten some peculiar looks as I've carried her down the street on her evening walks.

She is also inconsiderate. When I get up in the morning I am in no mood for puppies on parade. It takes me three cups of coffee before I can even bear to look at myself in the mirror. Meanwhile, she's celebrating the sunrise by bouncing a tennis ball, loudly, around the kitchen.

"Tiffy," like most terriers, is very agile. Last night she took a flying leap on to the middle of the dinner table. "Terrier au Grauten," does not make for an attractive centerpiece.

"Tiffy" never performs her tricks on command. I told some visitors that "Tiffy" likes to walk on her front paws with her back legs in the air. After many futile attempts at getting her to cooperate, we gave up and my friends left. "Tiffy" immediately waltzed into the living room on her front paws.

Apparently, "Tiffy's" and my schedules are not compatible, so we compromised and I changed mine. Now it is routine to play tag across my bed at 3 a.m. and to get out of bed at 5 a.m. so that a dog with a weak bladder can uncross her eyes. All of this has had an disasterous effect on my health and I've begun falling asleep during telephone conversations.

It amazes me how much trouble a little dog can be. If I'm not feeding her, grooming her, holding her, I'm looking for her to see what she is doing and then opening doors for her and closing them behind her, and what for?

Near as I can figure, the only things a dog is good for is to provide unconditional love, companionship, amusement, a sense of stewardship, boundless affection, security, entertainment and . . . "Tiffany, GET OFF THAT TABLE!"

RECEIVE SAFETY AWARDS AT BAUSCH AND LOMB — Employees of Bausch and Lomb's Mt. Lake Park plant set a new safety record during 1982 for the number of days worked without a lost time accident. In recognition of this achievement, each employee received a Johnson & Johnson compact first aid kit for their efforts. Pictured above is Jerry Andrews, far right, presenting first aid kits to Dolly Bennear and Ralph Carrico. The record was set between May 21 and November 5, 1982, spanning 169 days and 350,000 man hours worked. This surpassed the old record in 1978 when 158 days were worked without a lost time accident. The 1983 objective will be to possibly reach the 1,000,000 man-hour plateau.

Hughes Appoints Torrey Brown As DNR Secretary

Governor Harry Hughes Friday appointed former Delegate Torrey C. Brown of Baltimore as Maryland Secretary of Natural Resources.

Dr. Brown, who served in the House of Delegates from 1971-1982, succeeds James B. Coulter, who retired last December.

"With his vast knowledge and special concern for environmental issues," Governor Hughes said, "Dr. Brown will make an excellent Secretary of Natural Resources."

The Secretary of Natural Resources is responsible for the State's conservation and natural resources efforts, including the fisheries and wildlife administrations, energy development, water resources and parks and forests.

Among Brown's charges as Secretary will be to work with the State Health Department to implement the Governor's commitment to restore the Chesapeake Bay.

A native of Chicago, Brown, 45, is a graduate of the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine in Baltimore, where he is currently associate professor of medicine.

Among his many activites, Brown has served as chairman of the Maryland Statewide Health Coordinating Council, as a member of Baltimore Citizens for Housing for the Disabled Advisory Board, as First Vice President of the Baltimore Zoological Society and as a member of the Board of Directors of the Americn Red Cross.

Brown's nomination was submitted to the State Senate along with the traditional "green bag" appointments from the Governor.

SPRING-SUMMER FASHION TRENDS

With all of this snow now melting, it's kind of fun to look forward to the near future and warm weather. Warm weather means putting away all the heavy clothes and bringing out the lightweight Spring and Summer wardrobe. If you have been wondering what the fashion trends will be this season, perhaps the following will be of some help:

•Suits will feature these changing proportions: short fitted jackets with longer circular skirts, long lean jackets over shorter slim skirts or slim pleated skirts, and double-breasted menswear inspired jackets.

•Dresses will be: slim and sophisticated chemises and tunics, jacket dresses, shirtdresses, coatdresses, dropwaisted, and wide-belted over nipped waists.

•Fashionable blouses will feature jewel necklines, menswear oxford and chambray, puffed sleeves, camisoles by themselves or under other things and romantic curtain lace blouses.

•Skirts will be straighter, have slim lines, often with decorative buttons, some circular and full skirts, and short skirts with lots of swing at the mid-knee or mid-calf.

•Popular pants will be refined styles: stone-washed jeans, bright colored denims, black denims, and classic walking shorts.

•Fashionable jackets will be oversized, unfitted and long or crisply fitted and short.

It's fun to know what current fashions are, but remember, wear what makes you feel the most confortable and happy.

FOOD NOTES

Try this treat to add some pizazz to an otherwise ordinary breakfast routine. The kids will love it:

12-oz. pkg. ground pork sausage, cooked, drained
1 cup frozen hash browns, thawed
3 eggs
¼ cup milk
1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded cheddar or other favorite cheese

Heat oven to 375°. Press dough against bottom and sides of greased 12" pizza pan, pinching seams together, to form a crust. Top with sausage and hash browns. If you need to save morning minutes, cook the sausage the night before.

nutrition NEWS

The Nutrition Committee of the American Heart Association has prepared a series of articles providing information and recipes for healthier diets. Another of those articles, supplied by Wendy Norris, dietician for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and a member of the commmitte, is as follows:

We have talked about the American Heart Association this month. You have learned what the Association is, where your heart dollar goes and what some of the accomplishments have been.

Despite continued progress, nearly one million Americans still die each year from heart disease, stroke and related disorders. Many of these deaths occur in the prime of life. There are still too many unanswered questions.

The American Heart Association exists only through the concern and support of all Americans. There are many ways to help:

—Contributions made at home
—Assistance at special fund raising events
—Donation on special occasion or to memorialize a friend or loved one

Remember the American Heart Association is Fighting for Your Life.

The Heart Association's Nutrition Committee is committed to providing you with sound menu ideas for healthier eating.

CHERRY CRISP

¾ cup rolled oats
⅓ cup margarine
⅔ cup sugar
1 16 oz. can pitted sour cherries
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine the flour and rolled oats. Cut in the margarine until the mixture is crumbly; mix in ⅓ cup of the sugar. Set aside for topping.

Drain the cherries reserving the juice. Combine the remaining sugar with the cornstarch, spices, and lemon juice; slowly blend in the cherry juice. Cook over low heat stirring constantly, until sauce is thick and clear. Add the cherries. Pour into a greased 8-inch square baking pan. Sprinkle with the topping. Bake at 275°F for 30 minutes.

Yield: 9 servings.

Approximate Calories per Serving: 185

This week's energy saving hints: This week our dessert is baked at the same temperature, but only bakes 30 minutes, so it goes in the oven last. Place foods to be browned (breads, cakes, pastry) on the upper rack.

Energy can be saved by preparing larger quantities than you need for one meal so you can freeze the extra for later.

Turn the oven and other appliances off when you finish cooking.

We hope you have enjoyed the oven meal and learning about the Heart Association and energy saving ideas.

Further energy saving and appliance use may be secured from Residential Services Department, The Potomac Edison Company, Downsville Pike, Hagerstown, Maryland 21740.

"Do I really have to buy my phones?"

No, you don't.

We know there's been talk about changes at the phone company. And Federal regulators have ordered us to change some of the ways we supply equipment.

But as far as most of our customers are concerned, very little has changed.

We're still your phone company. We still provide you with the kind of service that makes your telephone system the best in the world.

"What happens to the phones I have now?"

If you're leasing your phones from C&P Telephone today, you can continue leasing those phones.

And we'll lease you new phones just as long as our inventory lasts.

Of course, if there's a problem with your leased phone, any C&P Telephone Service Center will repair it.

"Will I be able to buy the phones I'm leasing from you?"

Yes. We're putting together a purchase plan right now.

We'll tell you when you'll be able to buy your phones and how much they'll cost after the plan is approved by your Public Utilities Commission.

"If I move, how do I arrange for new phones and service?"

To order new phone service, call your local business office. The number is listed in the Customer Guide in the front of your White Pages.

Then, if you decide to get your phones from us, you can pick them up at any C&P Telephone Service Center.

League Discusses County Schools

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County recognized five new members at a luncheon meeting February 19 as well as held a program on county school system issues.

The new members were Clint Englander, Linda Fleming, Barbara Hornyak, Connie Margison, and Cindy Stacy.

Special guests and speakers for the meeting were Albert Ringer, assistant superintendent of schools for instruction, James Lupis, assistant superintendent of schools for administration, and Francis "Gene" Harris, supervisor of Chapter I.

This meeting was an update on the school system scheduled to acquaint members with changes that have taken place in the school system since the League studied it in detail several years ago and published a booklet of their findings.

During the program, the speakers answered numerous questions about the school system. Ringer described a five-year plan for implementing computer education so that graduates will no longer be at a disadvantage in entering the job market or seeking higher education.

A scope and sequence plan for computer literacy K-12 has been worked out and implementation will begin using block grant money. In-service training for teachers and a seminar for administrators will help to acquaint staff with the new technology.

In response to questions about class size, Ringer stated the school board's goal of twenty-five students per teacher. Disproportionate class sizes have resulted from inaccurate estimates of future needs due, in part, to rapidly shifting population as a result of the recession and problems at Bradley Manor, a low-income housing complex.

Gene Harris described the Chapter I (formerly Title I) program for disadvantaged children who need help in arithmetic or reading. Eight elementary schools in the county which have 25 percent or more of their students on the free lunch program are eligible for Chapter I assistance. Within the school, any child who tests below the 40th percentile for that grade level is eligible for the special help, regardless of economic level.

Harris stated that the entire Chapter I program for the country costs an amount equal to about 1 percent of the defense budget. The Chapter I money for Garrett County is supplemented by the state Compensatory Education program. Most of the expenditures are in the form of salaries for teachers, nurses and aides. Budget cuts in this program next year will amount to $100,000.

James Lupis talked about budgetary problems of the county school system. The state turned transportation money over to the county as a block grant. He noted that the amount is not sufficient to pay for the replacing of school buses as required by law.

A bill now before the Maryland General Assembly, SB 35, sponsored by Senator John Bambacus, will make Garrett County the only county in the state required by law to have collective bargaining for the classified employees of the school system, the group was told. Teachers already have collective bargaining. Although the local Board of Education has requested that this bill only apply if over half of such employees want it, Senator Bambacus has written the bill to take effect if over 30 percent of such employees request it.

A discussion of the various options in vocational education covered advantages and disadvantages of the comprehensive school, the vocational-technical high school, and the vocational-technical center. Other possibilities include a cluster approach and the use of a non-profit organization to handle vocational education. A hearing will be held March 2 at Garrett Community College on this subject.

Other programs discussed were the gifted and talented program and the girls' sports program. It was announced that the coordinator for Title IX, which forbids discriminating on the basis of sex is Charlene Evans Thomas.

Ringer distributed a summary of the findings of the Governor's Commission on Quality Teaching and described some of the problems that might result from attempts to implement these recommendations.

The meeting ended due to pressure of time.

"Participants felt that in spite of the informative discussion, they would have liked to learn even more about the county school system, said Dorothy Leighton, a LWV member.

Rams Win Four Straight; Upset Powerful Flintstone

The Southern varsity Rams have played four basketball games in the past six days and have come away with four wins, including an impressive victory over previously unbeaten Flintstone on Thursday evening, 57-45, in Oakland. The three other victims of the Rams were Elk Garden on Friday night, 53-42; Northern on Monday evening, 60-50; and Beall last night, 64-55, in Frostburg. The Elk Garden and Northern contests were both played on the Rams floor.

Coach Oren Yoder's squad now holds a 13-8 record and will rap up the regular season this Friday evening at Keyser.

A standing-room-only crowd watched the Rams put the stops to the streaking Flintstone Aggies, who came into the game with a 17-0 record and a previous defeat over the Rams in Flintstone.

The Rams maintained a slight lead throughout most of the contest, although the Aggies pulled out in front by one, 36-35, in the final period. Southern led 10-8 by the end of the first stanza, expanded the margin to 24-19 by intermission, and were on top 32-30 as the final chapter unfolded.

Scott Stem and Rick Selders, playing some of their best basketball of the season, shared scoring honors for the Rams as each finished with 16 points. Stem also grabbed a game-high 14 rebounds. Kevin Winters chipped in with 10 points for the winners.

Greg Rinker, one of Flintstone's top scorers, was limited to just 11 points, mostly because of the outstanding defensive play of Ron Bosley, according to Coach Yoder.

Carlos Owen, the Aggies' 6-7 senior center, paced Flintstone's scoring with 24 points. He also pulled down ten rebounds and had ten blocked shots.

The Rams outgoaled Flintstone by a 23-19 margin and netted 11 of 13 free tosses, compared to a seven-for-12 effort by the Aggies.

The Southern jayvee squad made it a clean sweep by taking the preliminary contest, 72-47.

Scott Stem also paced the Rams against the Elk Garden Stags, recording 17 points and pulling a game-high 13 rebounds.

The Rams held quarter leads of 16-12, 28-22 and 41-28, outgoaling the Stags by a 21-18 margin and hitting 11 of 17 free throws, compared to a six-for-ten effort by Elk Garden.

Rick Selders added 12 points to the Rams' total, while Rick Roy led Elk Garden with 16 points. Don Nelson chipped in with ten points for the Stags.

Stem shared scoring honors with Kevin Winters on Monday evening against arch-rival Northern as each netted 14 points. Selders was close behind with 12 points.

Northern's Brad Yoder maintained his season average by netting 31 points on 11 fielders and nine of 12 free throws. Teammate Bradley Yoder also reached double figures with ten points.

In the early going it seemed that Southern would have an easy time with the Huskies as they jumped out to a 16-5 lead by the end of the first quarter. The Huskies narrowed the gap slightly in the second stanza as the half ended with the Rams on top, 24-15.

Both teams netted 16 points in the third quarter and the Rams led 40-31 as the final eight minutes began.

The Rams outshot the Huskies from the floor by a 26-19 margin and converted eight of 12 free throws, compared to a 12-for-17 performance by Northern.

It was the second time this season that the Rams were victorious over the Huskies.

The Southern jayvee squad romped over Northern in the preliminary contest, 59-29.

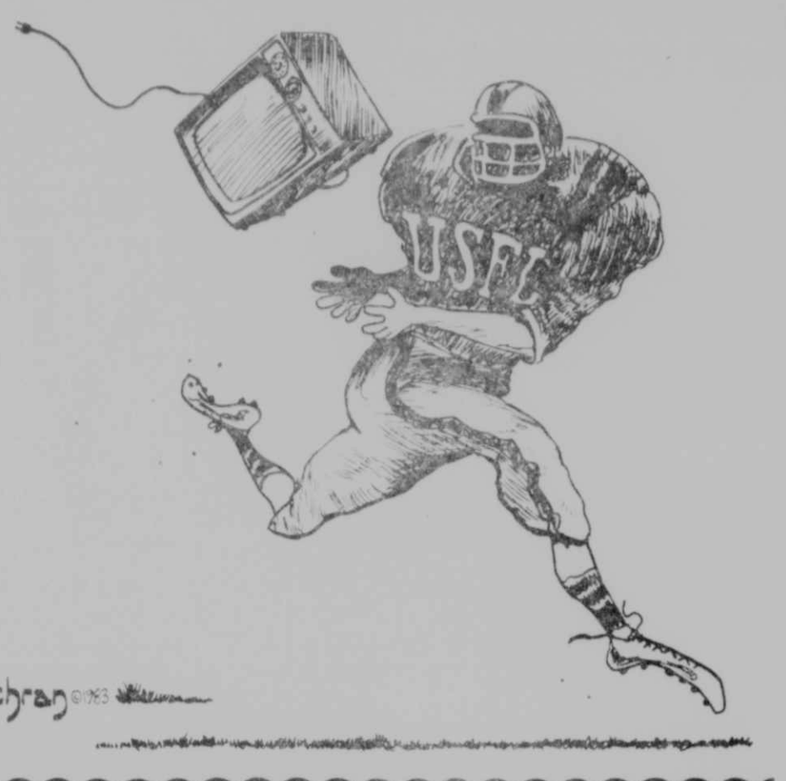
It was in the second quarter of last night's game against Beall that the Rams pulled away in the scoring, out-pointing the Mountaineers 15-6 in that time frame to take a 29-16 halftime lead. The Rams were never again threatened, taking a 42-31 advantage into the final stanza.

Kevin Winters took scoring honors for the Rams, finishing with 15 points on five buckets and five of six from the line. Rick Selders was close behind with 14 markers and Tom Stem netted 11.

Beall was paced by Dave Unnone, who finished with 17 points, Jeff Blank, who hit 16, and Rick Eberly, 14.

Much of the Rams' scoring and their margin of victory came at the free throw line, where they made good on 26 of 30 attempts, compared to a seven-for-12 performance by Beall. The Mountaineers outgunned the Rams from the floor by a 24-19 margin.

The loss dropped Beall to 7-17 on the season.



The Beall jayvees captured the preliminary contest 49-46, stopping a long win streak by the Ram jayvee team.

Yoder Breaks Record In Win Over Bulldogs

Brad Yoder, in leading the Northern Huskies once again to victory, broke the school's single-season scoring record by netting 35 points against favored Bruce on the Huskies' floor. The performance paved the way for a 67-57 win over the Bulldogs, Northern's 12th in 21 starts.

Yoder netted 11 baskets and 13 of 16 free throws to break Bill Bender's record of 616 points scored in a single season at Northern. Yoder's 35 points last night elevated him to 633 for the year.

Yoder also pulled down 13 rebounds. Joining him on the double figure plateau last night were Scott Graham and Rich Humbertson, who each finished with 11 points.

The Huskies were only mildly threatened in the contest, jumping out to an 18-9 lead by the end of the first quarter and holding that margin throughout the second period. The score was 33-24 at the half. The Bulldogs narrowed the gap to 41-35 by the end of the third stanza, but the Huskies pulled away once again in the final period.

Bill Mayles paced the Bulldogs with 14 points. Tony Saweikis contributed 12 and Dan King, ten.

The Huskies won the game at the foul line, where they converted 20 of 23 opportunities, compared to a 15-for-21 performance by Bruce. Northern was outshot from the floor by a 21-19 margin.

The win avenged an earlier loss to the Bulldogs by Northern and dropped Bruce to 13-7 on the season.

Lakers End Season With 72-48 Loss To Trojans In JUCO Tournament

The 1982-83 season for the Garrett Community College men's varsity basketball team came to a close Friday evening as the Lakers were stopped in the second round of the Maryland JUCO Tournament by Allegany Community College, 72-48, at Cecil Community College. The Lakers reached the second round of the tourney by stopping Cecil on Thursday evening, 80-64. The ACC Trojans went on to capture the championship Sunday afternoon.

The Lakers, under first-year coach Tom Bosley, closed the campaign with a 13-13 record.

The Lakers pulled away from Cecil CC early in the contest on Thursday evening to take a 38-25 advantage by halftime. The host team battled back midway through the second half, however, to narrow Garrett's lead to two points before the Lakers regained the momentum to pull away for the win.

Eric Everhart paced the Lakers with 24 points on seven buckets and ten of ten from the foul line. Kip Washington added another 18 points and Tom Fulwood finished with 14.

Cecil was led by Tom Richardson who netted 23, while teammate Bob King was close behind with 21.

The Lakers outgunned the losers from the floor by a 33-26 margin and sunk all 14 of their free throws, compared to a 12-for-17 effort by Cecil.

The loss to Allegany Saturday stopped the Lakers' win streak at four games, while the Trojans recorded their 23rd straight and boosted their record to 26-4.

The final margin of victory was not indicative of how the Lakers played against the nationally ranked Trojans. Garrett jumped out to a 13-9 lead early in the contest and were on top 19-17 at the 10:58 mark of the first half.

The next seven points scored, however, all belonged to Allegany and the Trojans never again trailed in the contest. The Trojans were up 36-29 at the half. The final score was the biggest lead for ACC.

Brian Waller led the winners with 29 points on 11 of 19 shots from the floor and seven of nine free throws. Dave Smith contributed 18 points.

Laker Women Topped By ACC, Win Next Two

The Garrett Community College's women's basketball team dropped a 64-54 JUCO contest to arch rival Allegany CC last Wednesday evening in Cumberland, but then rebounded to secure one-point victories over Dundalk and Baltimore CC on Friday and Monday, 63-62 and 65-64, respectively.

The Laker women were down by only two at the half, 32-30, against ACC, but the Trojan women pulled away midway through the second half for the win.

Five ACC cagers finished in double figures, paced by Brenda Rice with 15 points. Annette Hollern netted 13, Robin Cole, 12, and Tammy Long and Julie Smith each hit ten.

Sue Jack led the Lakers and all scorers with 24 points on nine baskets and six free throws, while Mary Dougherty finished with ten.

It was a last-second shot by Sue Jack which gave the Laker women the one-point win over visiting Dundalk on Friday.

Nichelle Payne and Sue Harper led the Lakers with 21 and 19 points, respectively, while Jack finished with 13.

L. Mabry paced Dundalk with 19.

In the early going against visiting Baltimore on Monday, it appeared the upset of the Red Devil women would be a breeze for the Lakers, as they jumped out to a 20-1 lead in the early going and held a 35-19 halftime advantage.

However, Baltimore came roaring back in the second half and eventually took the lead, 64-63, with just seconds remaining in the game. Then, with three seconds left on the clock, Garrett's Deneen Chapman scored her only two points of the game on a five-foot jumper to give the Lakers the win.

Jack led all scorers with 27 points on ten goals and seven free throws. Payne added 22 and Susan Harper, ten.

Pacing the losers in scoring were Baker with 23 and Nichols with 20.

The Lakers' record now stands at 7-9.

No hearings have been scheduled as yet on Senate Bill 545 and its companion in the House, House Bill 961, which would change the rules concerning the Garrett County Liquor Control Board.

According to Del. George Edwards, the intent of the bill is to decrease the authority of the board and place some of its duties in the hands of the county commissioners. Edwards said that although the bill may have to undergo some changes, it reflects many of the comments both he and Sen. John Bambacus have been hearing from the county commissioners and various citizens concerning the Liquor Control Board.

The bill would eliminate the ten percent Class D license surcharge over a two-year period and give the commissioners the power to set new rate structures for the various classes of licenses to offset that loss in revenue. Since the commissioners are the fiscal authority, it was felt they would be better qualified to deal with setting fees.

The liquor board would keep only the responsibility of granting or denying licenses. The bill also turns over the State's Attorney's office the authority to enforce the regulations.

The bill would abolish the position of administrator of the Liquor Control Board and provide that the commissioners may hire an individual or use a member of the county's present staff to assume the duties of this administrator. Salaries of the board will be reduced from $2,000 to $600 per year.

The county commissioners, in a letter to Del. Edwards in late January, pointed out several considerations to be taken into account in the drafting of the legislation.

It was their suggestion that there be a phase-in of the surcharge removal; that the compensation and fringe benefits of the board members be restructured; that the full-time administrator position be abolished and replaced with a part-time or full-time clerk, who would report to the county commissioners, that if the administrator/clerk would report to the commissioners, the current space could be rented to another agency; and that the licensing fees be restructured.

That letter also noted that if the Delegate should not wish to continue appointing members to the liquor board, the commissioners would be willing to act as the appointing authority.

Dissatisfaction

On Tuesday, during their regular meeting session, the county commissioners expressed their dissatisfaction with the changes proposed by the draft legislation. The board noted that setting the fee structure should be spelled out in the legislation and should not be the commissioners' responsibility. Commissioner John Braskey was to get in touch with Del. Edwards to present this suggestion.

Although many of both Edwards and Del. Edwards and Sen. Bambacus' bills have been heard in their various committees, there has been no final action on any measure.

House Joint Resolution 10, concerning nuclear weapons freeze, was scheduled to be heard today. Del. Edwards is a co-sponsor since the words "seek a mutual and verifiable" (step toward the reduction of nuclear arsenals) were added. Sen. Bambacus has also given his approval to the companion measure SJR2, saying that he waited to support the measure until the amendment was added to protect U.S. security, which calls for the freeze "unless such a freeze would jeopardize the national security of the United States and not be in the best interest of the American people."

Hearings are planned Friday, February 25, on SB 288, concerning Garrett County Sludge Disposal and Transportation; SB 323 concerning the county's licenses for amusement devices; and SB 325, concerning Garrett County's proposal to be allowed to use Program Open Space funds for either acquisition of land or development of land. Present regulations stipulate that the funds must be divided 50-50 between the two uses.

There will be a hearing Tuesday, March 8, on House Bill 1313 before the House Ways and Means committee on Del. Edwards and others proposal to set up a loan program for volunteer fire companies, ambulance services and rescue squads.

Bambacus Presents SB 109 Testimony

Repercussions of the vicious slaying of Frostburg State College art student Stephanie Ann Roper sparked a testimony by Sen. John M. Bambacus February 16 before Senate and House Judiciary committees, concerning his Senate Bill 109.

In speaking about his legislative proposal, which would disallow intentional intoxication as a mitigating circumstance in the commission of murder in the first degree, Sen. Bambacus said that the "horrible and untimely murder of Stephanie Roper has stirred the conscience of the people. The people demand reform of a system that allows the guilty to evade justice."

The senator said that he is aware that SB 109 is only one of a number of changes which are necessary in order to see that the guilty are not allowed to evade justice.

"In the past" he declared "Time and time again individuals who were otherwise guilty have been able to dilute their guilt during the sentencing phase of trial by claiming that drunkenness contributed or even caused their behavior."

Citing Black's Law Dictionary, Bambacus describes a mitigating factor as one which "extenuates or reduces the degree of moral culpability."

He went on to explain that many defense attorneys have been able to use the condition of drunkenness as an excuse and explanation of why their client behaved in a criminal manner. Saying that this is not fair nor just, Sen. Bambacus said attention should rather be focused on the actual impact of the defendant's actions particularly if the drunken condition was voluntarily induced.

"This bill would merely hold an individual accountable for their own actions," Bambacus stated.

In conclusion, Bambacus said that "Murder in the first degree is an extremely intentional act. The proof involved in the finding of this guilt must be overwhelming. We should not allow an individual who is intentionally intoxicated to evade this finding of guilt."

Bambacus is a professor of government at Frostburg State College.

Bambacus Bill Would Control PSC Increases

Senator John N. Bambacus, R-Allegany, Garrett, has introduced a bill which would prohibit the Public Service Commission from authorizing any gas or electric company a higher rate of return in Maryland than that which the company receives for comparable service in adjoining states.

The bill, Senate Bill #546, is entitled "Public Service Commission-Interstate Rate Differential" and would require the Commission to bring Maryland rates of return in conformity with neighboring states. The states involved are Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia.

"Gas and electric companies which operate in the state of Maryland have service areas that extend beyond state lines," Bambacus explained. "Sometimes our neighboring states approve a lower rate of return for the companies. This act would require that the PSC bring the prescribed rate of return for the company in Maryland in line with the approved rate in the adjoining state. It would prevent Maryland residents from bearing an unfair share of the rate burden."

SB #546 was introduced on February 11 and was assigned to the Economic Affairs Committee.

Sen. Bambacus And Wife Meet President Reagan

Sen John Bambacus and his wife Karen were among a group of 30 who met with President Ronald Reagan Thursday, February 17. Other officials from Utah, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware and Maryland took part in the discussion about the federal budget, although the President did not describe impact of his fiscal plan on Maryland.

Bambacus said that President Reagan appears to be an "extremely optimistic man full of confidence in his programs" and noted that "I was very honored to attend the very upbeat session."

White House aide Richard Williamson mentioned the "happiness index" measured across the U.S. by researchers and declared people in Appalachia and its fringe areas were the happiest while residents of the Manhattan section of New York City were the least happy at this time. Williamson is White House assistant for intergovernmental affairs.

Legislators Happy About School Bus Safety Awareness

Senator John Bambacus and Delegate George Edwards say they are pleased with the results of a recent public awareness campaign on school bus safety in Garrett County. The goal of the program was a crackdown on drivers illegally passing school buses while the flashing red warning lights are activated.

A cooperative effort, the program involved the Garrett County Board of Education, the State Police, the courts, school bus drivers and the public. According to Michael Sines, Transportation Director for the Board of Education, there has been a favorable response from the bus contractors, both in reporting cases and in appearing in court to testify on complaints.

Sgt. H.W. Graham, Maryland State Police at McHenry, reports that calls have increased from perhaps two a year to about two a week, due to increased awareness of the law. Further, Graham states, "The courts see the seriousness of these violations also, and our cases are being successfully prosecuted. All this makes our job easier." Graham cited a recent, very serious case in which a vehicle passed along the right shoulder of the roadway where a bus was discharging students. That driver was convicted and fined.

Bambacus and Edwards stated that it was particularly gratifying to hear that even citizens were getting involved. "It's great to see the community pulling together to protect our kids," Bambacus concluded.

$1 Million Loan Fund Proposed By Sen. Bambacus

A bill sponsored by Senator John Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) would create a program benefitting volunteer fire and rescue services across the state.

Under provisions of the legislation, the proceeds of a $1 million loan fund would be used to provide financial assistance for construction of facilities and purchase of equipment. The program, available to volunteer fire companies, volunteer ambulance services and volunteer rescue squads, would be administered by the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

"We've got to make every effort to support and protect the vital service provided by the volunteer companies," Bambacus said. "They form an essential network, a lifeline, within our community. This bill would assure that the volunteer services at least have access to a funding program for facilities and equipment."

The act, Senate Bill No. 487, was introduced on February 10 and was assigned to the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee.

Bill's Unfavorable Report Disappoints Senator Bambacus

Senator John Bambacus (R-District I) has expressed his disappointment with the unfavorable report received by Senate Bill #8 from the Senate Constitutional and Public Law Committee. Bambacus and Senator Victor Cushwa (District 2) both voted favorably on the bill which nevertheless was defeated on a 6-2 vote by the committee.

The bill could have provided a means for relief to homeowners dissatisfied with the triennial assessment process. It provided for a constitutional amendment which would amend and classify homestead property for separate assessment and taxation. The bill also sought to establish the frequency of assessment and limit increases in taxation.

"Homestead property, as distinguished from agricultural lands, for example, is where we maintain our place of residence," Bambacus said. "This measure would have offered an alternative to the triennial assessment program as it now exists. We've got to work on getting the inequities out of the system."

Bambacus has been in contact with concerned citizens groups in Allegany and Garrett Counties to review the assessment and taxation procedures and examine proposals for reform.

charge hikes requested by C&P. One of the requests, a 22 percent increase in charges for local exchange service, would have brought the company its largest dollar increase under the budget plan of between $80 million and $90 million.

The commission also held C&P's request for a 10-cent increase in local calls on pay telephones local calls to a nickle, allowing an increase to 20 cents from the current 15-cent charge.

Another large portion of the C&P request, a two-percent rate increase to go back to stockholders, was rejected by the commission. The telephone company argued it needed that increase to help its chances for raising capital after its independence from AT&T is completed.

But the commission stated in its ruling, "In view of Maryland's economy and the current conditions in the nation's financial market . . . the proposed increase (for stockholders' returns) is unjustified."

The commission also rejected rate increases to pay for general service and license payments to AT&T under the corporate giant's historic divestiture plan.

The commission found that the services under the divestiture plan, which include certain longdistance and telecommunications services, "would be of little or no direct benefit to Maryland's telephone users, but would rather benefit AT&T. . . ."

Heintz said the commission also was hesitant to grant a large rate increase at this time because local telephone companies face an uncertain financial future under the divestiture plan, which is expected to make substantial rate increases necessary.

He said that a series of hearings before the commission are planned to look into the impact the divestiture will have on C&P's services.

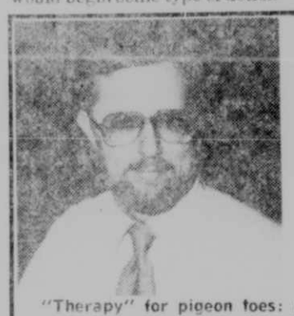
C&P To Argue PSC's Ruling

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The C&P Telephone Company will seek to have reviewed a ruling by the Public Service Commission limiting the firm to a rate hike of 4 percent a company spokeswoman said Tuesday.

The company wanted to increase its rates by 19 percent to raise $125 million in additional annual revenues but the commission Friday called that request "unjust and unreasonable" and cut it back to $28.2 million in extra funds.

C&P spokeswoman Lynne Troup said the firm "plans to take action to have the decision reviewed." She said the company had not decided what that action would be but it could include a request for reconsideration by the commission or a court challenge.

Ms. Troup said the company would begin some type of action within two weeks.



Under the rate hike allowed by the commission C&P would raise its charges for most services by 4 percent. In addition pay phones would cost an extra nickle to operate from the current 15-cent charge to 20 cents.

Under the 4 percent increase granted by the commission basic rates for private unlimited home telephone service in Baltimore city would increase 31 cents a month. The basic monthly rate for business customers in Baltimore would increase 21 cents to $7.81 a month and rates for all long distance calls within Maryland would increase 2.75 percent.

"Therapy" for pigeon toes: roller skating. A New York doctor found the treatment effective for children who had not yet outgrown the condition, which is normal for infants.

To ease the heart's return to normal activity after open-heart surgery, doctors at Pennsylvania State University have created a "left ventricular assist device" that gradually lets the heart's chamber start pumping again.

New testing shows that propranolol—used against high blood pressure and angina—is even more effective against migraine than originally thought.

Hot hands—the skin irritation that comes from handling hot peppers for Tex-Mex or Szechuan cooking—can be relieved by soaking the affected area in vinegar. (Cold water won't work). Be careful about touching eyes or nose.

New testing device can perform a blood count in 11 minutes right in the doctor's office. Desk-top blood analyzer is one of many types of diagnostic equipment now being made available to doctors.

Accurate testing—for pregnancy, blood pressure, and other functions—is now available on a do-it-yourself basis. See the excellent devices at

WILL WE HAVE PINK RAIN? — That's what students in Miss Cheryl Smith's first grade wanted to know after art instructor Maggie Mullich and Chapter I reading resource teacher Barbara Conway designed this valentine to Red House Elementary School last week. The children wondered whether the red tempura paint would be absorbed by the clouds and let fall as pink rain. Ms. Conway got the idea for the ten-foot heart from a professional magazine, and the children, when asked for ideas to color the heart red, had suggested items ranging from Koolaid to melted crayon to wax.

Local Group Asks Study Of State Retirement System

The Garrett County Association of Educational Support Personnel (GCAESP), together with the Maryland State Teachers Association, have called for a thorough study of the State retirement and pension systems to clear the confusion caused by incomplete and inaccurate information.

Jean Eberly, president of the GCAESP said, "There is a small minority of legislators who want to make changes in our state retirement system with no reliable actuarial data to support their position."

Jean Eberly said she met in Annapolis recently with other association leaders from throughout the state and unanimously endorsed the position taken by the Maryland State Teachers Association with the Governor and the General Assembly. At one of these meetings, Janice A. Piccinini, MSTA president said: "The MSTA's unalterable position is that the benefits provided by the current Retirement Systems cannot be changed because they are based on a constitutionally-protected contractual agreement between the State and its employees.

"But even if that were not the case," she continued, "it would be irresponsible and cruel even to consider reducing retirement benefits when there is not actuarial confirmation that such reductions are necessary."

"Much has been made in the news media of the $103 million increase in the State's contribution to the retirement systems in fiscal 1984," Piccinini said. "What has not been pointed out is that $57.2 million of the increase is a one-time cost. Another $14.2 million of the added cost will not recur after fiscal 1985. In other words, nearly 70 percent of this added cost is nonrecurring. There is no 'crisis' in the retirement system, as some have said. There is a temporary problem that is manageable without resorting to precipitous action that could unnecessarily jeopardize the future of thousands of teachers and State employees." Piccinini went on to note that there is no good acturial data to make sound decisions of any kind at this point. For example, the Boards of Trustees of the Retirement and Pension Systems and the Legislature have not fully studied ways of establishing a more stable funding pattern. Nor have they looked deeply into ways of measuring costs with greater precisions.

For those and other reasons the Trustee of the Retirement and Pension Systems have employed new actuaries, Milliman and Robertson, Inc., and authorized them to conduct an in-depth study. This study will take at least two or three months to complete. "It would be imprudent and irresponsible," Piccinini said, "to consider action on a matter of such great importance to the State and to thousands of teachers and State employees before this study is complete and until all the facts are in."

Jean Eberly said the GCAESP and the Maryland State Educational Services Council (MSESC) leaders were engaged in writing to the Governor and contacting members of the legislators urging them not to take precipitous action. "Even more important," Jean Eberly said, "we are attempting with some success to convince them that the State has an obligation to keep its promise, to honor its contract and to treat its employees and teachers fairly. The position of the MSTA, MSESC and GCAESP is that we will oppose any effort now or in the future, that will alter the benefits guaranteed to members of the Retirement Systems. We will fight such efforts in the Legislature, and, if necessary, we will take the fight to the Governor and to the courts."

Jean Eberly pointed out scores of legislators during pre-election interviews agreed that the State had a contract with teachers and was committed to honoring it.

Governor Hughes, when asked in July about his position on moves to change the cost-of-living benefits of the Old Retirement System, also agreed. He said, "I do think there is a commitment to not change that because that was part of the commitment when the new legislation was passed to set up the new system that those who are in the present system would be guaranteed all the rights and benefits that they had there and I think that's a commitment that we have to stick with."

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein was also emphatic. Speaking before the MSTA Representative Assembly in August, he said, "I want to stress that the obligation of the State to those of you who stayed in the old Retirement System are contracts that cannot be impaired.

"These rights are your rights and are protected both by the federal and our State constitutions and in case law. And I will assure you that as long as I'm your State Comptroller, I will insist that these obligations be met accordingly."

New Westmar Director Elected

The Board of Directors of the Westmar Synfuels Corporation has elected Lee C. Barnett to a directorship, project director Jack Meyer reported this week.

Barnett is an area attorney and also serves a president of the Hi-Note Coal Company and an officer in the Barnett Insurance Agency.

Meyer noted that Westmar officials continue to meet with representatives of major synfuels processes to select the most economical process. Meetings have also been held with several local companies expressing an interest in the purchase of Westmar's products.

Most recently, under the aegis of the senators and representatives of both Maryland and West Virginia, Westmar's officers met with the vice president of projects for the United States Synfuels Corporation. The meeting was held to discuss plans for Westmar and the U.S. Synfuels Corporation's new coal solicitation expected in early summer.

The Westmar Synfuels Project was formed by the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland to promote the development of a major synthetic fuel plant in the Upper Potomac Valley.

Admissions And Amusement Tax Revenue Shared

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that Maryland's counties and incorporated cities and towns have received checks totaling $4,264,231 representing their share of admissions and amusement tax revenue collected during the second quarter of Fiscal Year 1983 (October, November and December, 1982).

"The $4.26 million distributed marks an increase of over 16% compared to the $3.65 million returned to the subdivisions for the same period last year," Goldstein said. "Even though there are bright signs appearing in the current economy, the fact that Marylanders continue to spend growing amounts of money on leisure time activities during generally sluggish economic conditions strikes a positive note for consumer confidence."

Garrett County was one of only three subdivisions to receive a smaller share ($8,955.41) than for the same quarter in federal '82 ($10,391.98).

The comptroller noted that out of the $77.1 million spent on taxable entertainment the largest categories of spending continue to be coin-operated amusement devices such as video games ($21.6 million), movies ($10.4 million), and night club entertainment ($19.2 million).

The State Comptroller's Office collects the admissions and amusement taxes at rates set by local officials and returns the revenue to the subdivisions quarterly.

Appeal Hearings For Unemployment May Be By Phone

Eligibility hearings for appeals involving unemployment insurance claimants who no longer live in Maryland can now be conducted by telephone, according to James J. Traglia, Executive Director of the Maryland Employment Security Administration.

Since November 8, 1982, this pilot program has been used in situations where a claimant's eligibilty or ineligibilty for Maryland Unemployment Insurance benefits is contested either by the claimant who has subsequently moved to another state or the former Maryland employer. At this time, the program will only serve employers in the Baltimore metropolitan area.

According to Traglia, the teleconference capability enables the Employment Security Administration to schedule and conduct hearings as well as make decisions concerning those hearings in accordance with the time limit mandated by the U.S. Department of Labor. In addition, teleconferences allow all parties, including witnesses, to make presentations on one occasion in behalf of the claimant or the employer.

Traglia explained that telephone hearings cannot replace a hearing where all parties are present at the same location. However, under certain circumstances, this effort provides the appellant a better opportunity for a fairer hearing.

Insurance Division Schedules Visit To Western Maryland

Maryland Deputy Insurance Commissioner, Edward J. Muhl, has announced that a member of the Complaint and Investigation Section of the Insurance Division will be available in the western Maryland area on Wednesday, February 23, from 9:00 a.m. until 12:00 p.m. in the City Hall Council Chambers, Second floor, Cumberland, to answer inquiries from the public concerning insurance.

A Division representative normally visits Cumberland on the Tuesday following the third Monday of every month, in order to provide more convenient assistance to the citizens of Garrett and Allegany counties.

The representative will attempt to resolve any complaints about insurance service.

If any individual is unable to visit the representative in person, he may address any inquiry to the State Insurance Division, 501 Saint Paul Place, Stanbalt Building, Baltimore, Maryland 21202. Our toll free telephone number is 1-800-492-6116.

The Deputy Insurance Commissioner emphasized that no appointment is necessary to meet with the representative.

Prisoner Attempts To Hang Himself

A prisoner at the Garrett County jail was treated and released from the local hospital last Wednesday morning after an apparent suicide attempt.

According to the report from the sheriff's department, Larry William Kifer attempted to hang himself with a sheet in his cell. Other inmates immediately notified the guard, who found Kifer semiconscious on the cell floor at about 8:40 a.m.

Members of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad were called, and until they responded, Matron-secretary Louise Martin, an Emergency Medical Technician, gave immediate medical assistance.

The victim was transported to the hospital where it was determined that his injuries were not serious, and he was released to return to jail.

Computer System Uncovering Frauds In Unemployment

Crossmatch, a computerized system which compares unemployment insurance benefits paid to claimants with employer wage records, continues to be successful in uncovering fraudulent activites of unemployment insurance claimants, according to officials at the Employment Security Administration of the State Department of Human Resources.

Most recently, as a direct result of Crossmatch, the District Court of Maryland for Baltimore City convicted Morris A. Gray, Shelby R. Miller, Rachel M. Mack, and Denise M. Georgie for fraud.

For their actions three of the claimants were ordered to make restitution ranging from $1,224 to $2,496, fined $100 to $200, paid $20 court costs, received suspended sentences of 89 to 90 days in jail and placed on probation to the Employment Security Administration for 18 to 36 months.

Ms. Mack was ordered to make restitution of $1,428 at $100 per month and placed on probation to the Department of Parole and Probation for 22 months.

"Now, this is what I call a meal fit for a king."

New Homebuyers To Be Assisted By Mathias Bill

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has introduced a bill that he says would enable first-time homebuyers to afford a house despite the current high interest rate.

The Homebuyers Assistance Act provides for the interest rate to be "bought down" by the Department of Housing and Urban Development through the Government National Mortgage Association. The Secretary of HUD would have the discretion to determine the interest reduction.

"While interest rates are not as high as they were last summer, they remain well beyond the reach of the average American homebuyer," Mathias said. "And should mortgage interest rates go up again, we need to have in place a relief mechanism."

Under the Mathias bill, the homeowner would repay the interest reductions as a second lien in gradually increasing payments. The payment would be adjusted annually with the monthly principal, interest, and mortgage insurance at all times equal to at least 25 percent of monthly income.

"This bill is a self-financing one where the homebuyer repays the interest reduction through the payment program or upon resale," Mathias pointed out. "The ultimate cost to the government is zero."

To qualify under the program, maximum household income would be limited to $30,000 but could be raised, at the discretion of HUD, in higher cost markets. A minimum downpayment of five percent would be required to ensure equity and the program would cover new and existing homes, condominiums, townhouses and mobile homes.

"This program promises immediate relief from the burden of high mortgage interest rates for not only the homebuyer, but for others in the real estate chain including home sellers, builders, and mortgage finance institutions," Mathias said. "My bill is a minimal price to pay to open the door of the American home to so many families."

Assessment Answers & Tax Talk

by James Burley

ON PROPOSED LEGISLATION

The 1983 Maryland General Assembly has been in session one month, and at this writing, is deeply involved in considering scores of legislative proposals, including among them possibly two dozen bills dealing directly with or very closely related to property taxes and assessments.

From our prospective some may seem more important than others, but in the broad concept all are important because they, like individual threads, are woven into and form the heavy fabric which we call the system and under which we thrive or suffer, or are satisfied or frustrated. Although we may be reluctant to face the fact, and as flawed as we may think it is, the assessment and property tax structure exists by action of the democratic process.

Apart from those regarded as having power and influence, some plain, ordinary citizens, to their credit have on their own and at their personal expense journeyed to Annapolis to voice their views regarding these proposals. And there is no better time for their input than now.

Citizen alertness and understanding will not assure a perfect system—just a better one. In the furtherance of this, and within the constraints of space provided to this column, here is a capsule commentary on a selected cross section of these proposals as of the moment:

HB 79, possibly the most important one respecting homeowners, deals with the Homestead Tax Credit and would extend for an additional year the provision allowing tax credits for homeowners whose assessments increase by more than 15% yearly. Currently, the law covers property taxes coming due July 1983, and this proposal would cover taxes that will be due July 1984 also. With inflation being controlled, values have not risen so sharply, but there are pockets where the protection is still considered important.

HB 13 applied to the Homeowners Tax Credit also known as the circuit breaker. Presently, this program offsets property taxes on owner-occupied dwellings up to the assessed valuation or $40,000, whichever is lesser. The $40,000 cap has applied since the inception of the state program in 1975. This bill would raise the cap to $50,000.

HB 269 also applies to tax credits and would exclude from gross income the amount paid by a homeowner to a nursing home for the care of the homeowner's spouse.

HB 360 would increase from $6,000 to $12,000 of the valuation the exemption from tax assessments and property taxes for a blind person. The $6,000 exemption has been in effect since 1952. In the event of the blind person's death, the spouse retains the benefit until remarriage, as long as the spouse owns and resides on the property.

SB 7 relates to assessments and would prevent residential property from being reassessed until it is sold or transferred. This bill is tied to a proposed constitutional amendment separately classifying homestead (residential) property which would require ratification by the voters.

SB 59 also involves assessments and would preclude property for which governmental funds are used for mortgage or rehabilitation financing to be included among selected comparable sales, a key factor in estimating probable market value for tax assessment purposes.

SB 64 is on assessments and says that assessors may not consider an owner's likely eligibiltiy for a homeowner's tax credit when making a valuation of property.

HB 9 is another on assessments and states that if the zoning classification of a residential real property changes, the property will be assessed according to the actual land use immediately prior to the change.

HB 321 draws focus on property taxes and could create, for the purpose of eliminating double taxation, a tax set-off system for services provided by municipalities in instances where a county and a municipality within provide the same service.

HB 426 & SB 225 touch property taxes peripherally and would repeal the requirement in Baltimore County that the notice of tax sale be posted on the property when it is being sold to satisfy a tax indebtedness.

HB 128 involves the taxing structure and would clarify and refine various features in existing law regarding enterprise zones, which allow among other things, special income and property tax credits to businesses in an effort to improve opportunities for the economically disadvantaged.

HB 189 relates to business. The average homeowner may be unaware that, in addition to their real property taxes, businesses in Maryland pay taxes on tangible personal property owned by them and are required to file annual reports in connection with this. This bill would alter the penalties for late filing or failure to file. The penalties would be altered to 1/10 of 1% of the assessment and an additional 2% of the initial penalty for every thirty days and parts thereafter. These penalties are in addition to the regular tax assessment.

HB 162 regards businesses and would make certain revisions in the filing of documents required of limited partnerships and the collection of specific fees and taxes that are imposed upon them.

HB 311 also relates to businesses and would empower the Department of Assessments and Taxation to forfeit a foreign corporation (a company organized other than in Maryland) to do business in the state if the company fails to file any report or pay filing penalties.

The fate of these proposals now rests with the members of the General Assembly.

Health Agency Approves Reports

The Governing Board of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland met in Hagerstown on Thursday, February 3, with Commissioner R. Lee Downey, president, presiding.

Business of the day consisted of approval of the Quarterly Reports of the Management, Plan Development, and Review, Evaluation & Implementation Committees for the months of December 1982 and January 1983, and approval of the actions of the Governing Body for the same period.

James R. Stanton, Executive Director, discussed the agency's new Certificate of Need (CON) procedures and how these will relate to both the federal and state programs for CON. Certificate of Need is the process whereby a health care institution may apply for approval to construct, renovate, or expand the facility, purchase new equipment, or add new services.

The remainder of the meeting was a brief orientation session regarding the current status of the state and federal health planning program.

Stanton gave a description of the local health systems agency, its role and function, and the responsibilities of the Governing Board members.

The next meeting of the Governing Board will be held on Thursday, May 5 at 10:30 a.m. in Garrett County.

New Governing Board members are Commissioner Linda A. Golden, Allegany County; Commissioners J. Anita Stup and Sterling E. Bollinger, Frederick County; Commissioners John G. Braskey and Elwood L. Grove II, Garrett County; and Commissioner Ronald L. Bowers, Washington County.

I didn't need God! Used to boast about how I could stand on my own two feet.

Then came the broken leg. With lots of time to think and little to do I began to discover another dimension of our existence. We aren't simply "on our own." Some divine purpose links our life to the Creator. Seeking that purpose and striving to fulfill it — that's what life is really about.

I started going to church on crutches.

The leg is fine now, except for that ache when it's going to rain. My larger view of life continues to enrich each day.

And I'm finding it easier to attend worship — on my own two feet!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DISBELIEVING FOR JOY

February 27, 1983

Background Scripture: Luke 24:1-11, 36-53.
Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 15: 1-11.

It seems an incredible thing for Luke to say of the disciples. We can imagine that they might disbelieve out of depression or cynicism or tragic experience, but not "for joy."

And while they still disbelieved for joy, and wondered, he said to them, "Have you anything here to eat?"

What Luke is saying is that the disciples found the possibility of Jesus' resurrection too good to be true, too wonderful to believe.

STARTLED AND FRIGHTENED

Of course their first reaction was not "joy." When the resurrected Christ first came and "stood among them," "they were startled and frightened, and supposed they saw a spirit" (a ghost). But when the risen Christ speaks to them, asking, "Why are you troubled and why do questionings rise in your hearts?", their surprise and fear begin to turn to an amazed joy. They want to believe but their hearts are afraid to make the leap of faith, for they do not want to be disappointed.

When we read the accounts of Jesus' resurrection appearances, we may find it incredible that the disciples should have disbelieved for any reason at all. From the safety of our vantage point in time we wonder how they could have been so slow to believe. Yet, in all fairness to those disciples, it is likely that any of us would have been quicker to acknowledge the risen Christ? I think not, for, like them, we would likely also find the risen Lord too good to be true.

What makes the resurrection seem that way is more than just the claim that a man died on a cross and then was brought back to life in his physical body. For in appearing as the risen Lord, Jesus was proclaiming once and for all that God has the final say, that love will eventually conquer sin, that neither human evil or mortal death can prevail in the long run. And all of that is almost too good to be true.

REPENTANCE AND FORGIVENESS

We all want to believe that life has some purpose, that good prevails over evil in the long run, that death is not the end of existance and that a loving God will ultimately set all things right. The resurrection of Christ is God's way of confirming all of those hopes and aspirations and legitimizing joy rather than despair as God's gift to his children. If the disciples "still disbelieved for joy" on that day of Jesus' resurrection appearance, we can easily understand and share that joyous doubt.

But overcoming our disbelief is not the end of the matter. For once we have allowed ourselves to experience the risen Christ, we must take that joy in believing to others who also, like us, might find it too good to be true.

ON THE ROOF

If you are inclined toward the purchase of an old home, one of your prime considerations should be the condition of the roof. You can get a quick idea of the condition by a good look from the ground. For instance, are there any loose or missing shingles? Are some areas of different shades or texture indicating roof repairs? Is the metal flashing at junctions (where roof meets walls or chimneys) in good shape?

Are gutters and downspouts clean, rust-free and in good repair? Downspouts should discharge onto splash blocks directed away from the house, into drains or into an underground dry well.

How old is the roofing and what is it made of? Some types last longer than others. Asphalt shingle roofing is very common and usually lasts 15 to 20 years. It sometimes equals wood and asbestos cement in durability, though these generally average 30 years or so. Slate and clay tile normally have even longer lifespans and can remain in good condition 40 years of more.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

The Mt. Lions, their wives and guests had dinner on February 17 at the Maple Spring Church. The program, a series of slides of his hunting experiences, was shown by the Rev. J. Rogers Fike. A special guest of the evening was Dr. Steven Hilton of Kingwood who has been serving the Lion sponsored eye care students. Another student has had vision correction at their sponsorship, making a total of three this year.

The 51 present also saw two new Lady Lions awarded their pins and learned that one of the recent projects of the Mt. Lion s was the sponsorship of one person from the West Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind at Romney for a skiing trip to be held February 22-24 at the Canaan Valley facilities.

Students there have come to anticipate this yearly event and letters of enthusiastic response have come from the many who have had the opportunity to attend. Lion Simon Simon of the Salem Lion's Club launched the program in 1977.

The next meeting of the Mt. Lions will be March 3 at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora.

Couponing, refunding, buying generics, planning ahead and watching specials are some of the ways to be a smart shopper, according to Julie Adams who presented the February 15 lesson to the Aurora Homemakers on "Smart Shopping." She was assisted in her presentation of the topic by Fern Jamison.

Opal Myers, president, was hostess for the meeting and devotions were led by Pearl Stemple who used I Corinthians 13 as the basis for her comments on "Love" and closed with a prayer.

Letters were read from Margaret Blagg, Preston County Extension, Home Demonstration Agent and from Connie Crowe, activities director at Hopemont State Hospital. The president explained the Certified Volunteer Unit which is in the process of being organized within extension work.

The hostess showed a quilted jacket which she had made, the special feature for the day. The next meeting is planned as an all-day affair in the home of Mildred Kovalck with a salad luncheon. The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. and persons are asked to bring along material from which to make a folded star, a needle and thread. They should also bring a salad dish and table service. The hostess will provide the beverage.

Pig-in-the-poke was won by Ruth Teets and the meeting adjourned with refreshments. Attending were Dean Sisler, Cheryl Resha, Fern Jamison, Ruth Teets, Eva Wotring, Mildred Kovalck, Vesta Stemple, Pearl Stemple, Martha Crowe, Julie Adams, Anita Lantz, Wilda Wilt, the hostess and two children.

World Day of Prayer will begin on March 4 at noon with a covered dish meal in St. Paul's Lutheran Church. A program on the theme, "New Persons in Christ" will be held in the afternoon. The host church will provide bread and beverage. Persons should bring their dish and table service. Everyone is invited to this annual event sponsored by the churches of Union District.

W. E. Harsh was transferred Thursday from Garrett County Memorial Hospital to Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown for tests and released on Saturday to return to his home in Ft. Ashby.

Wilmer Lantz of Stemple Ridge was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Tuesday, February 15, and has been undergoing tests there.

Martha Bolyard was able to return last week to the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Lantz, at Aurora after undergoing surgery at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Betty Harsh and son, Kevin, of Akron were visitors last week in the home of her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Harsh, Stemple Ridge.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Teets and here for the funeral of their grandfather, Roscoe Lantz, were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Teets and Melinda of Dodsonville, Ohio; and Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Teets of Budd Lake, N.J.

Mr. and Mrs. Rick Lantz and children of North Carolina visited last week with Mrs. Lantz' parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Teets, Horse Shoe Run, and attended his grandfather's funeral.

Also here for the Roscoe Lantz funeral were his sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Lantz of Mazon, Ill.; and Glenn and Norma Lantz of Medina, Ohio.

A Valentine dinner was served last Sunday, February 13, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Layman, Aurora, with a pink heart-shaped cake featured as the dessert. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Knapp of Amboy, George Winters, David and Lois Layman, Jim and Aaron of Eglon.

It's a fond and final farewell to the 4077th

Advertisers are paying $450,000 per 30-second spot just to be a part of it so you know it's going to be a big event.

It's the final episode of "M*A*S*H," a two and a half-hour movie detailing the closing days and moments of the Korean war, as seen by the 4077th. On Monday, Feb. 28, 11 seasons from when they arrived, our boys are finally going home.

The syndicated celebrity interview show "Entertainment Tonight," takes a look behind the scenes of the last day of production on the Monday, Feb. 28 segment.

Series stars Alan Alda, Loretta Swit, Harry Morgan, Jamie Farr, Mike Farrell, David Ogden Stiers and others are featured on the program.

The long-running and highly successful — it consistently rated in the top 10 — CBS series was based on Robert Altman's 1970 film of the same title, which starred Elliot Gould and Donald Sutherland as the joking, prankster surgeons and Sally Kellerman as "Hot Lips."

Loretta Swit

In the series, which premiered Sept. 17, 1972, Hawkeye Pierce was played by Alda, who imbued his character with a quick wit, compassionate nature and scorn for rules and regulations. He and his tent-mates, first Trapper John (played by Wayne Rogers, who later "went home" and got a series of his own) and then B.J. Hunnicutt (Farrell), were the unit's best surgeons, though not the best-loved by chief nurse Maj. Houlihan, played in the series by Miss Swit.

Radar, played by Gary Burghoff, was the only actor to make the move from Altman's movie to the series and Burghoff stayed with it for most of its long run, departing in 1979.

Though it's still a top-rated show, series stars say they want it to end when it's still on top. And 10 years on top is a long time — longer, even, than the Korean war itself lasted.

Alan Alda

Not-so-glamorous on-location work

By Ruth Thompson

"Filmed on location." Immediately, we, the audience for a television show or movie, visualize authenticity of backgrounds and mood, glamour drenched with excitement off-camera, and, of course, big, big budgets. How right are we?

Right, when it comes to backgrounds and mood. It's just plain common sense that if your script calls for sweeps of canals and the mysterious winding back alleys of Venice, going to Venice is light years ahead of trying to fake it.

As for those big budgets, well, there are variables according to monetary exchange and which national currency constitutes the major funding at a given time.

America's dollar delivered a lot of value when such series as "I Spy," with Bill Cosby and Robert Culp, and "It Takes a Thief," with Robert Wagner, roamed the world.

By the time "Brideshead Revisited," British-made but an international co-production, went on location there was no way left to shave the budget without jeopardizing quality. Luckily, the series — a success in its first showings in England, then on PBS in the United States and later on cable — is already a classic, something people want to see over and over.

"Brideshead's" Anthony Andrews says, of his Venice location work, that it was a joy to be there. Except that he had to look nonchalant riding in a gondola with the April wind blowing over the Grand Canal and straight through his bones.

Christopher Norris

Still, he was luckier than the unit that was based — in mid-winter — on Venice's summer island, the Lido, for the "Marco Polo" miniseries.

Are there no fun stories? Some. Christopher Norris, on vacation from her "Trapper John, M.D." CBS series, signed on for one of those real "Love Boat" cruises.

"When we got to Monaco a few of us were invited to a dinner that included dignitaries — Prince Albert was one — at a restaurant called Le Pirate. I thought the stacks of plates near an open hearth were for the next course. Wrong. They were to break, preferably by throwing them into the flames. Crazy."

Chris adds somberly, however, that series regular Fred Grandy (Gopher) endured the uninhibited chaos without one smile. "He had vivid memories of a recent bad accident. Fire was something he didn't want to see any more of."

"M*A*S*H" has been so popular that the Korean conflict lasted 11 years on CBS. But Monday, Feb. 28, the war ends and the familiar faces from the 4077th Mobile Army Surgical Hospital (clockwise from front; Alan Alda, Henry Morgan, Mike Farrell, William Christopher, Jamie Farr, David Ogden Stiers and Loretta Swit) head home.

Bridge disaster

Dolly Parton

And on the movie timetable at NBC is a new disaster movie, "The Night the Bridge Fell Down," to air Monday, Feb. 28.

James MacArthur, Desi Arnaz Jr., Leslie Nielsen, Barbara Rush, Richard Gilliland, Eve Plumb, Char Fontane and Gregory Sierra star in the suspense story.

The suspense derives from a group of motorists who are trapped on a collapsing bridge — and if that wasn't enough to create tension, there's a fleeing bank robber among them! There's also a businessman embezzler on the bridge, a dangerously ill child and a wounded police officer.

Will they make it to safety? Tune in Feb. 28.

Working hard

Fair female treatment in the workplace is the theme and comedy is the style in "9 to 5," the story of three office workers who dream of getting back at their boss — and do.

Jane Fonda, Lily Tomlin and Dolly Parton — in her film acting debut — star as the three workers, Judy, Violet and Doralee. Dabney Coleman plays their tormentor and boss, Franklin Hart Jr. Sterling Hayden is the chairman of the board.

The 1980 20th Century-Fox blockbuster film is making its network television debut Sunday, Feb. 27 on CBS.

There's work outside soaps for many stars

By Nancy M. Reichardt

Joseph Mascolo (Stefano DiMera on "Days of Our Lives") always keeps busy with outside work.

Recently, he appeard with Lee Meriwether ("Barnaby Jones") at the Crippled Childrens Society's third annual "World's Greatest Working Truck Show" in Pomona, Calif. Joe is also slated to appear in an Operation Prime Time feature based on the story of union leader Jimmy Hoffa, which will star Robert Blake.

Dorothy Lyman (Opal Gardner on "All My Children") is a hit in the "Carol Burnett Show" spinoff, "Mama's Family." As if that weren't enough, Ms. Lyman is currently directing "Loving Reno" at an off-Broadway theater in New York City.

Under Dorothy's capable direction in the show are soap stars Robin Strasser (Dorian Callison on "One Life to Live") and Kim Delaney (Jenny Gardner on "All My Children"). The show will continue through March.

"As the World Turns" viewers will be privy to some more European scenery in March and April, this time in Spain (last time the show took us to Greece).

The story line will center around Anthony Herrera (James Stenbeck), Colleen Zenk (Barbara Stenbeck), Hugo Napier (Gunnar Stenbeck), Frank Runyeon (Steve Andropolous), Kathy McNeil (Karen Haines) and Danny Pintauro (Paul Stenbeck). The scenes will soak up lots of the Costa del Sol's local color, including a suspenseful bull fight.

Robert Christian

On a sad note we report that former "Another World" actor Robert Christian (Bob Morgan) died Jan. 27 from cancer. He'll be sorely missed by all.

IN FOCUS

'Family Tree' shows home life of the '80s

By Peter Meade

Just as "Ozzie & Harriet" and "Father Knows Best" represented family life for their eras, "Family Tree," NBC's new limited-run series, portrays a family of the '80s.

"Our focus is on the step-parent situation that is so prevalent today because of the 50 percent divorce rate," explains Anne Archer, who stars in the Saturday evening series along with Frank Converse.

The premiere of the six-show run aired late last month with Annie Benjamin (Miss Archer), a divorcee with three children, marrying Kevin Nichols (Converse), who is divorced with two children.

"We need a new set of family rules because we don't have a nuclear family anymore," says Miss Archer, who was raised by her stepfather. Miss Archer was divorced, with a son, before marrying ABC producer Terry Jastrow.

"Divorce doesn't mean one parent is a villain," says Miss Archer. "We need a new viewpoint. We're not trying to tie up each situation with a bow. We want to look at the situation with both humor and seriousness."

Adding to the "Family Tree" portrayal of stepchildren and parents trying to assimilate is one child who is deaf.

"The deaf child was part of the original concept of the series," says Miss Archer. "It adds an element beyond just family relationships and also provides an area to do away with a lot of the misinformation about deaf children."

Thirteen-year old Toby Benjamin is played by Jonathan Hall Kovacs, who has been deaf since birth. More than 2,000 actors were interviewed for the part.

Anne Archer

"Most deaf people tend to overact," explains Miss Archer, who, along with the other cast members, had to learn sign language as part of the role. "But Jonathan has done real well. Deaf people can lead normal lives and he speaks quite well, which is an important part of deaf education."

Miss Archer has avoided series opportunities before, shunning what she calls "inane subject matter." But the combination of working on a show about family relations and the chance to work with the well-regarded team of executive producers, Nigel and Carol Evan McKeand (who created the '76-'80 series "Family"), changed her mind.

"I think 'Family' was one of the best shows of its time," says Miss Archer. "It set a standard. We have somewhat the same concept, but we are more sophisticated and mature."

CINDY SAYS

Sinatra in NY in '84; Miss USA in Knoxville

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — The next Sloan Kettering Hospital benefit at New York's Radio City Music Hall starring Frank Sinatra will be March 18, 1984. Already booked: Zubin Mehta, Luciano Pavarotti, Leontyne Price, Lena Horne. Not bad for opening acts... After investigating cities from sea to shining sea, pageant head Harold Glasser picked Knoxville as the site of the Miss USA pageant on May 12.

Kentucky Fried Chicken joints in Japan. In '84, Japan is planning an America the Beautiful promotion. By an odd coincidence, it will go heavy on Kentucky handicrafts. By an odder coincidence, Mrs. Brown, TV's Phyllis George, will head this American invasion of 10 Japanese cities. Instead of us buying made-in-Japan stuff, for a change, Takashimaya's honorable department store guys are coming to buy here next month.

Lauren Bacall

Sen. John Warner is looking to sell the Georgetown home he once shared with his beloved, Elizabeth Taylor Hilton Wilding Todd Fisher Burton Burton Warner. He wants $2 1/2 million... Susan Sarandon phoned the Wildcat, a nightclub, at 11:15 p.m. "Hold the show. I'm coming with David Bowie and Nureyev." At 11:30, it was: "Don't start without us. Bowie, Rudi and I are on our way." At promptly 5 to 12 Sarandon arrived. The lone human with her? "Monty Python's" Eric Idle... Kentucky Gov. John Brown owns 373

Lauren Bacall was out with her agent, Clifford Stevens, the other night. The agent sported fur from eyeballs to anklebones. The star wore black wool... For their 10th anniversary Ernest and Tova Borgnine got married again, in Marbella, Spain. Her bouquet was two carnations and a rubber band. The padre spoke no English and the reception was coffee at the airport. And Ernie's making a movie. Save his bride. "It's a TV film with Harvey Korman. I forgot the name."

Answer to TV Circles
Beverly Hillbillies

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

SIBLINGS — My twin sister and I have been arguing for a long time. My sister says that Missy and Tracey Gold are twins. I say they are not. Please tell us who is right. — A. and B. G., Florence, N.J.

The one who says the girls are not twins is correct. Tracey is Missy's older sister. There is a younger sister, Brandy, who has been a Gerber baby. The parents of the three girls are Harry Gold, an actor's agent, and Bonnie Gold, a former advertising executive. Missy, who plays Katie on "Benson," was born in Great Falls, Mt.

Melissa Gilbert

FAN MAIL FOR MELISSA — Ever since we received cable TV in our little community (population about 950), I have been watching "Little House on the Prairie" and "Little House: A New Beginning." I found the shows very interesting and I also found Melissa Gilbert very attractive. Could you tell me where to write to her? — K.Z., Cambridge Bay, Northwest Territories, Canada

Melissa was 9 years old when the series started, and a cute-looking tomboy. On May 8, she will turn 19 and she has indeed turned into a beautiful, bright, witty and very caring young woman. Write her in care of the series, which is filmed at MGM-TV, Culver City, Calif. 90230.

Cindy Williams

MISSING FUNNY LADY — Laverne and Shirley had such a good show. What happened to Shirley? — V.K., Cincinnati, Ohio

Cindy Williams played Shirley. Soon after she became pregnant (she just gave birth to a daughter), she left the show in a dispute, leaving Penny Marshall to carry on as Laverne. It is rumored that she may be brought back again.
